Side Seaman

Petty Officer Winchester - With two years' seafaring to his credit, Petty Officer Edward Winchester, R.C.N.V.R., of Summerside, P.E.I., and Halifax, has just been advanced to his present rank. He is in charge of the dockyard and is a member of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police. Winchester joined the navy in September 1940, served five months on a gunnery school, and was transferred to a Royal Canadian Navy depot in which he met lots of excitement. His ship was one of the many R.C.N.V.R. ships that were sunk by enemy U-boats. Winchester says they encountered three U-boats and "at least damaged them badly. They were attacked by an enemy U-boat while conveying in the North Atlantic, and the crew remained at their action stations for hours. We didn't have time even to think of sleeping," Winchester recalled, "but with a pack of subs around nobody wanted to sleep." Winchester's action station was to kill U-boats. It has a particular didn't have much opportunity to get on the enemy. They dropped a pattern directly over one of the U-boats. It crashed. The others were not hit. We were an exhausted bunch when we hit port," he added, "but I'm sure we did more damage to them than they did to our convoy." Winchester also is a veteran of German aerial blitzes over Bristol. He was in Cardiff, South Wales, during that city's first attack. Like most blitz survivors he had close escapes.

Stamp Out The U-Boat Drive

In common with all similar efforts of a patriotic nature the appeal to the people of Prince Edward Island to buy more War Savings Stamps and "Stamp out the U-Boat" is meeting with a fine response all over the Province.

It is a plan with a background of dramatic interest, and one that gives a chance to personally share in the fight. Every dollar received during the month of July will be used to buy depth charges to kill U-boats. It has a particular appeal for this province which has contributed so many fine lads to the navy, and whose sons, Lieut. Robert MacMillan, D.S.C., and Lieut. Charles MacKenzie O.C., H.M.C.S. Queen Charlotte, and many others have brought such great distinction and honor to their home land.

In all the larger centres the Objective Posters are being rapidly filled up with Stamp-O-Gram messages conveying good luck to our boys, and breathing defiance to the enemy. When completed they will be sent to some ship of the Canadian Navy. Each town has a quota allocated to it, and each is determined not only to reach "at far" but to exceed it. The Island and mainland are being practically every ship by some

Hansard Quotes King's County Liberal Member

The following appears in the Hansard report of the House of Commons debates for July 12.

DR. T. V. GRANT (Kings): I rise to a question of privilege. On July 8, at page 4633 of Hansard, after the Minister of Labour (Mr. Mitchell) had made a statement, the hon. member for York-Sunbury (Mr. Hanson) rose and said: "I have only to observe that that was not the case with respect to the government's man-power policy in the early stages. Who laid down the policy for the Department of National Defence after the mobilization act was passed? Who was the government's spokesman before the Canadian club at Ottawa last week? Who was the general staff of this country when the minister did not have the guts to get up and do it himself?"

DR. GRANT: The words that I am coming to it. The hon. member for York-Sunbury replied: "That is what happened." Then another member of this House said: "He has more guts than you have."

A number of Wellington bomber squadrons of the Royal Canadian Air Force have recently arrived in North Africa to add their momentum to the steadily increasing attack on the "soft underside" of Europe. This was disclosed Friday by Air Marshal L.S. Bredner, C.B., D.S.C., Chief of the Air Staff, when he addressed student pilots receiving their wings at No. 2 S.F.T.S., Uplands. This is the first time that Canadian bomber squadrons under Canadian command have been in operation in North Africa, though many Canadians have flown from the beginning in R.A.F. squadrons. Others are in action around the world from India to the Aleutians. Among the newly arrived squadrons, who already have seen action, are airmen from every part of Canada, including many French-Canadian from Quebec. Maritimers form one of the squadrons. Left to right, they are: LAC A.B. LePage, Charlottetown, P.E.I.; LAC L.K. Harris, Fredericton, N.B.; Cpl. C. MacMillan, Glace Bay, N.S.; Cpl. L.C. Acres, Hantsport, N.S. (R.C.A.F. Photo)

Proud Father: Gallant Son

A proud father at a recent Wings Parade at No. 2 S.F.T.S., Uplands, Ont., was Mr. John F. Leightizer, of Charlottetown, P.E.I., a Regimental Major who was awarded the Military Medal in the last war.

School broadcasts and is touring the provinces getting first hand information of each one. The series of plays will be written around the aspects of life typical of each province. They will be broadcast from Vancouver starting early in October under the direction of Kenneth Caple, director of School Broadcasts for British Columbia.

Formerly a free lance writer, Miss Marriott specialized in poetry and has had three books of poetry published. Her second book "Call of Adventure" won her the Governor General's medal. During her career, she has worked with the Victoria Times as editor of poetry column and later began writing wireless sketches.
