TEST FROM THE CAPITAL

Papers Calling for Another Election—Deplore Bartlett's Policy of Govt.

(Special to The Guardian)
OTTAWA, Jan. 17.—It is not known whether any other election will be created in the future to permit the election of a new cabinet representation from Ontario, or whether in such a case Hon. George P. Graham, Minister of Railways would run for election if there were one. Mr. Graham like Mr. King is at present without a seat in the House.

OTTAWA, Jan. 17.—Sickened by the spectacle of bargain and barter during the week just past, leading newspapers on both sides of politics are calling for an election as the only solution of the present impasse at the capital.

The bidding for Progressive votes is generally deplored and even newspapers friendly to the government remark that the administration is leaning on a weak reed.

One paper describes it as a government of mannequins with Bartlett as the show and calls the whole affair one of the blackest things ever known in any legislative assembly in the empire.

NEW LIGHTING ARRANGEMENT DEDICATED

His Grace Archbishop Worrell of N.S. Conducts Special Services at St. Paul's Anglican Church.

There were large congregations at St. Paul's Church yesterday. In the morning the Rector preached from the texts John 3:5 and 16 of the necessity of a new birth and its possibility in Christ.

Confirmation and Presentation Service

In the afternoon at 3:00 instead of the Sunday School session there was a special service in the church at which the sacred rite of confirmation was administered by His Grace Archbishop Worrell of Nova Scotia to five candidates, and awards for Scripture lessons and gifts to selected children of the Sunday School scholars. The unique feature of this service was the fact that eight of the children received their scriptures in the languages of India, China and Japan so that they may send them as gifts to selected children of those far-away lands. This has been made possible through the Bible Society's programme of Scripture Memory work. This is believed to be the first time awards have been asked for and received in this way in Canada. It is no doubt marks the inauguration of a movement with far-reaching possibilities.

Speaking from the text Heb. 2:1: "Therefore we ought to give the more earnest heed to the things which we have heard lest at any time they should let us slip," the Archbishop dwelt upon the necessity for plain thinking and plain speaking from the modern day pulpit. With words of approval for sport and social activity he warned against the tendency of today, which allows extremes to take possession of us. It is not the great evil, he said, which is the danger, but the little insidious one which may capture us before we know.

The Archbishop spoke plainly of the immediacy of modern dress and warned against evil results which too often have happened.

Coming to the positive side of his subject His Grace stressed the value and influence of Holy Scripture as one of the greatest steady influences of our religious life. He deplored the apparent waning of the pious habit of family Bible reading and prayer. Speaking of the service of the day, he congratulated the children of the Sunday School who are storing their minds with the sacred Scriptures and pointed to the untold possibilities which lie in the sending of their gifts to other children in other lands.

Strawberries and Grapes Growing in Alaska

(Special to The Guardian)
SEWARD, Alaska, Jan. 17.—Strawberries and grape crops are growing in the mild, spring like weather here. At this time last year rotary snow plow crews were fighting snowdrifts. It was raining today and there was almost no snow on the railroads, except in the high mountain passes.

Because of the lack of snow for sleighs, the contractors have been unable to fill their orders.

ANOTHER NORTH LAND MYSTERY

Body of Trapper Found Kneeling in Cabin Near Fort Norman; Tragedy Revealed.

EDMONTON, Jan. 17.—A wireless despatch to the Edmonton Journal from Fort Simpson in part says:

"A report of what may prove another of the unmovable mysteries of the great north land has been brought here by W. C. Wilson, past manager for the Northern Traders of Fort Norman.

In the summer of 1923, J. C. Nichol and L. Beaman entered into a partnership for the purpose of prospecting and trapping. These men took with them supplies sufficient for two years, so no anxiety was felt on their account until they failed to put in an appearance at any of the posts last summer.

"Herbert Hodgson, a trapper for several years resident of Fort Norman, in going over the country to cut out a trap line in November last, came to an unknown cabin, and on entering found the body of a man kneeling on the floor with his hand resting on his arm, face downward, behind the hearth. Hodgson recognized the features as those of Nichol, but of Beaman there was no trace, nor were there any of the belongings in the cabin."

WOULD SEIZE AND CONTROL U. S. MINES

(Canadian Press)
BERLIN, Jan. 17.—Predicting that Germany would participate in the League of Nations' forthcoming preliminary meeting to arrange an arms parity, Defense Minister Gerster told the United Press today that Germany disarmed, waited to see if the other nations would follow her example.

In an exclusive interview he strongly advocated banning all poison gas and bacteria warfare, pointing out that Germany last year proposed banishment of poison gas warfare before the arms traffic conference at Geneva.

"Bacteriological warfare," he said "must remain in the limbo of fantasy and according to my opinion could be forbidden like gases, thereby preventing even looting with such inhuman notions."

Premier's Eloquence Has Saved France For Time Being

(Special to The Guardian)
PARIS, Jan. 17.—Premier Briand's convincing eloquence has served to save France at least temporarily from a new ministerial crisis.

Friday evening when the fate of the government seemed sealed the Finance Committee and after a passionate speech in which he showed himself as the distressing situation in which France would be thrown in the cabinet has to resign with some financial measures to reverse the situation being voted, he induced them to re-examine M. ## Policeman Takes Churchill's Name

LONDON, Jan. 17.—Mr. Churchill is again the centre of a delightful comedy.

His name was taken by a traffic policeman, yesterday, because he insisted on driving his automobile along Downing Street from near the House of Parliament without conforming to regulation of going around by Parliament Square. He argued with the policeman and London is now wondering if the police will prosecute, particularly as on Tuesday at Belfast Colonel Wilfred Ashley, Minister of Transport, stated that this new regulation would make every member of Parliament aware of his activities in that office.

London is speculating what the Chancellor is saying to Ashley, using his first victim.
