OF INTEREST TO MANY P. E. ISLANDERS—Funeral of Joanne Charlotte Livingstone, Colorado Pioneer and cousin of famous explorer and missionary. Miss Livingstone died at Denver, Col., quite recently at the age of 96 years thus ending a venturesome career not unlike that of her famous relative. Death came as a result of a fall in October when she incurred a fractured hip. Miss Livingstone was born at New Glasgow, Prince Edward Island, May 18th, 1828, when the provinces of Canada and territories of the United States were in the primitive stages of the founding of two great Commonwealths. Coming from the same sturdy Scotch family as the famous explorer, David Livingstone, she spent the first half of an active life on her father's farm; helping the hardy pioneers to overcome the wilderness and prepare the way for future generations. In 1880, the lure of the United States brought her to New England where she spent several years in Portland and Boston. In 1887, she became attracted by the prospects of the new state of Colorado and went to Denver to make her home. Year by year, Miss Livingstone witnessed the remarkable growth of her adopted home from a small town to a thriving metropolis. Her ever living interest in current events and her dauntless spirit had endeared her to many friends and her winning personality will be remembered by many citizens in Denver. Her longevity, which had attracted widespread attention she had attributed in an interview shortly before her death to her observance of the tea commandments. Surviving her are two nephews, H. W. Marsh of Denver, Col.; Mr. Angus Livingstone, Glenwood, P. E. Island, niece Mrs. Chas. E. Bynward of Los Angeles, California; Mrs. Edward Ramsay, Tyne Valley, is a grand niece.

FANS ANXIOUSLY AWAITING THE RESULT OF ABEGWEIT-CAMPBELLTON GAME TONIGHT

BY ("TEC")

and take the winner of the Charlottetown-Campbellton series into camp for the Maritime title.

From the form they have been showing all season, it looks like the Abegweits will get into the Maritime finals with the Truro stars. The Abbies have lost two games this season, but they were exhibition tilts away from home without the services of two of their stars.

At present it looks like the Abbies have an even chance of taking the honors from the Bearcats, that is providing they defeat Campbellton as they are favored to do. With Diamond in the nets, "Chick" Williams and Fred Kelly, defence and Jack Gordon, Whackie McEachern and Prowse on the attacking line the Abbies have an outfit that ranks favorably with any machine in either New Brunswick or Nova Scotia.

Joe McManus, manager of the Dalhousie Tigers, told us the first of the season that the Abbies would be well up in the running. It looks like Joe had the right done. Joe cannot forget what the Islanders did to his Tigers.

The eyes of the maritime hockey world is at present focused on Campbellton—the battle-ground where the Abegweits and New Brunswick champions will play to a conclusion in what promises to be one of the most hectic and heart-breaking struggles ever played on Maritime ice this winter.

In the game here Thursday night the "Northers" proved themselves dangerous rivals for hockey supremacy; they not only met the Abegweits on every point of the play, but skated like fiends throughout, therefore much respect for the Campbelltonians and little apprehension is felt by the local fans when the Abegweits take the word tonight. However, Abegweit backers although somewhat apprehensive are nevertheless confident that the wearers of the red and black, who are battling for prestige and honor for "right little Island," will, with the help of good ice, make the "Camp" realize just what it is to play a deciding championship hockey battle.

The boys accompanied by Manager Parkman and Byron Brown left yesterday morning with confidence personified and determination in their hearts to win or skate the New Brunswickers off their feet in the trying.

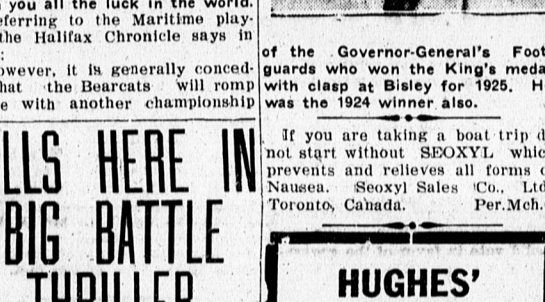

Throughout the city all day yesterday and last night the common gossip seemed to be hinged around that one big question—"Will "Parkie" and his fighting band of Island puck-chasers "make the mark"?" The exhibition Campbellton turned in on Thursday night, it looks as though the Abegweits have a "tea-party" ahead of them—without any trimmings, due to the fact that home ice in the final tilt without a goal lead against them, will make Campbellton play as they never played before. Anyway local fans and Islanders in general may rest easy that the gonfalon is yet in "no man's land," and while the Abbies are on the ice not one precious minute will be wasted by them on the advance to the Campbellton net, and victory. Abegweits we wish you all the luck in the world.

Referring to the Maritime play-off the Halifax Chronicle says in part:

However, it is generally conceded that the Bearcats will romp home with another championship

SILLS HERE IN BIG BATTLE THRILLER

Former "Sea Hawk" Scores Another Great Hit in "The Knockout."

Motion picture lovers who have tired of problem plays, psychological studies and the like, and who have been crying for pictures containing melodrama, romance, action and thrills will find all these in "The Knockout," which opened yesterday at the Prince Edward Theatre.

"The Knockout" is a screen adaptation of a D. C. Crawford novel, "The Comeback." It was adapted and produced under the personal supervision of Earl Hudson who gave to the screen the sensation of the year "The Lost World." Lambert Hillyer, who directed Silks in "The Spoilers," directed him in this picture.

Briefly, "The Knockout" is the story of a prizefighter who goes to the lumber camps of Canada as a camp superintendent when his famous right arm is injured. He falls in love with the daughter of the crippled owner of a large timber tract. The fighter's employer is using him in an effort to pull through a scheme whereby he will take away the timber holdings from the cripple. The prizefighter knows nothing of the plan but is scorned by the girl who thinks that he has blown up a dam and jammed their logs, thus placing her and her father at the mercy of a scheming timber king.

Black Jack Duane, camp boss for the girl's father, attempts to kill the fighter with his bare hands. This encounter is one of the greatest screen fights in motion picture history. Then to prove his innocence of any wrong, the hero returns to the ring he has renounced and fights a championship battle to secure money to save his sweet-heart's father from financial ruin.

Lorna Duveen plays the part of the crippled lumberman's daughter convincingly. Claude King, as the scheming lumber king, gives a polished performance.

John Philip Kolb, a giant of a man who plays the part of Black Jack Duane, makes a most successful "heavy." Ted Pruett furnishes the laughs—and does it screamingly well. One scene in particular where he bathes a skunk which he thinks is a cat, is enough to send one into hysterics.

But when all is said Milton Sills dominates the picture. He is the picture. And his performance is one of his greatest. The seventh chapter of the serial "Sunk in Silver" provides plenty of excitement throughout its two reels.
