Kills Lice

There is no profit in raising lice that sap the vitality of your hens and other fowl. You certainly are raising them if you take no steps to destroy them when you know your poultry is infested. They are not hard to get rid of if you use for their destruction is swift and sure. Prussian Lice Killer is equally good to use on stock and to destroy fleas on dogs.

THE ANGLO-JAPANESE ALLIANCE.

Britain and Japan have reached across Europe and Asia to clasp hands in an offensive and defensive alliance. The situation is a remarkable one. There are strange points of resemblance and contrast between the two nations. The British and Japanese Isles are not very unequal in population. Both nations are insular, commercial, industrial. Both have an admixture of aristocratic and plebeian elements. Both have an ingrained love of liberty and enjoy the blessings of elective parliamentary institutions. Both people are valorous, and of unexcelled prowess in battle on sea and land. Both are great naval powers and have fought and won in the greatest sea engagements which history records. But there are contrasts between them equally striking. Britain is a Christian nation; Japan is non-Christin. Britain's parliamentary institutions are venerable with age; those of Japan are but of yesterday. In naval equipment and warfare, in the science of Government and industrial and commercial progress, Britain has been the teacher and Japan the pupil.

The new alliance is for ten years to come, and is practically a renewal and extension of the shorter term and more limited treaty which will shortly expire. The older treaty bound either party to come to the assistance of the other when one was engaged in warfare with two or more powers and otherwise to observe a strict neutrality; the new treaty requires both parties to make common cause in a war in which either may become involved. That is, if Russia and Japan become again involved in war Britain must fight on the side of Japan and vice versa. Thus the new alliance affords a powerful guarantee for the peace of world. No single power is likely to break the peace against such odds. The one danger is of a possible combination of powers leading to a general conflagration. But the combined strength of the British and Japanese navies is such as to overawe even the combined naval forces of Russia, France and Germany, were such a combination possible, which can hardly be imagined. The new treaty looks at present like a geeat historic and epoch marking instrument for the preservation of the world's peace. May it prove to be so.

The annual meeting of the Teachers Convention now in session in this city is a matter of some moment. We would be glad to have the assembled teachers take up the question of a radical change in the method of school support, so as to conform more nearly to the better system prevailing in the other Provinces. It is a radical defect in our system that it makes the support of schools almost wholly a charge upon the provincial Government. This plan of relieving the school districts of the support of the school has been long followed to the detriment of the teacher's interest and of education in general. Teachers should be paid more than they now receive, but the Government cannot afford to pay them more than it is now paying out of its very limited revenues. If teachers are to be paid as they ought to be there must be a radical reform in the entire system.

Toronto has long suffered from a poor water supply, the water being pumped from the lake in front of the city. Works are now in progress to extend the pipes further out into the lake. In the meantime typhoid fever has become epidemic and the hospitals are full of patients. Some cases of smallpox are also recorded, these being, of course due to specific infection and in no way to the contaminated water.

Two excellent and striking photographs of the late eclipse of the sun taken by W. S. Louson are on view at the Art Department of the Exhibition where they attract much attention. One of these views shows the first contact of sun and moon as seen about seven o'clock, and the other shows the eclipse at its fullest a few minutes before nine, when three fourths of the sun was obscured. The two negatives are the best results of about twenty exposures. They were taken by instantaneous process, and while thin passing clouds were intervening. The views appear as if taken at night, owing to the darkened sky, due to the eclipse. It is well known that it is extremely difficult to take a photograph of the sun, as the camera must then be pointed directly toward the light. During three fourths of the eclipse the sky was too clear for ordinary photographic work. To all lovers of nature these views will be of interest, and they afford evidence alike of Mr. Louson's keen appreciation of nature's engaging beauties and of his rare skill as an amateur photographer.

Notice to Farmers!

W. W. Loane, Ashland, Me.

Dear Sir:—During the season of 1904 The Massey Harris Co's Agent at Woodstock, New Brunswick, sold 24 Hoover Potato Diggers. This season he sold one full car and had orders for twenty diggers besides, but was unable to get them from the Factory at Avery, Ohio in time to use.

I can say without hesitation that it is the "only" potato digger on the market that does perfect work—separating the potatoes from vines and leaving them in a narrow row on the ground to be picked up.

At Houlton, Maine, and only twelve miles from here, eight carloads were sold, this year ten, which is proof of its popularity to say nothing of the quantity sold in the other towns in Maine. The Agent at Caribou, Maine, sold in the fall of 1903, thirteen carloads. I can recommend them to the farmers of Prince Edward Island and a great many should be used there as they are a great labor saving machine

Yours truly,
C. H. NELSON, of Massey Harris Co.,

The "Hoover" Potato Digger, sold by Mr. W. W. Loane, Ashland, Maine, was operated in the field of Mr. H. G. Lowther, North Carleton, last Thursday. Two horses, weighing not over 1800, did the work, and although the ground was soaked with the heavy rains that had fallen in the morning the machine did splendid work, separating the potatoes from the vines, leaving the potatoes in a narrow row on top of the ground and the vines in another row.—HENRY CROCKETT, Cape Traverse, P. L. B. Miller, Esq.,
Dear Sir:—

Some months ago we had occasion to apply to you for a Stenographer and Assistant Book-keeper from among your graduates. You highly recommended to us Miss. Carrie A. McDougall a pupil of yours for the position. Miss McDougall has been in our employ for some time, and we are pleased to state that we have found her all you recommended her to be. INDUSTRIOUS, CAREFUL and CORRECT in her work, COURTEOUS and OBLIGING, and we indeed, feel indebted to you for filling the position with so capable a person. Wish ing you and the C. B. C. every success, we are

Yours sincerely,
CARTER & CO., (Limited.)
ISAAC CARTER, Manager,

All employers of our students have the same good words to say regarding them. INDUSTRIOUS, CAREFUL, CORRECT, COURTEOUS and OBLIGING. These are but the natural outcome of a splendid course of training, and knowing exactly what our business men require, we are enabled to supply them the skilled help demanded.

Miss McDougall was graduated from the business training departments as well as the Shorthand and Typewriting departments last term. She is now nearly seventeen years of age and engaged in a good position. To graduate from a college with a reputation gives you a standing, and for thorough work and ready employ YOU MUST attend the CHARLOTTETOWN BUSINESS COLLEGE. Now is the time to enter.

Farm For Sale.

The executors of the will of the late George Clark offer for sale that valuable farm at Clarktown, Lot 37, fronting on Hillsboro River, two miles from Mount Stewart. This farm consists of 200 acres of upland and 20 acres of marsh land; all but about 20 acres of the upland is cleared and in a good state of cultivation, the balance is covered with rails and lumber. The farm has streams of fresh water along two sides of it, and has an abundance of alder and marsh mud, and is in close proximity to the mussel beds of the river. The railway station is but two miles distant and the wharf but one. On the premises are a comfortable dwelling, large barn, stable, coach house, implement and other buildings.

For further particulars, terms, &c., apply to Mrs. Clark on the premises, S. C. Clark or Kimble Coffin, Mount Stewart or W. Leitch, Charlottetown.
