THE NEW GRAINFIELDS.

The attention of the newspapers of the United States is being more and more drawn to the opening up of vast new grainfields in the Canadian Northwest and the tide of migration from the States to that fertile region. The wheat plant has itself migrated. Half a century ago such American flour as was sold in this country came from the Genesee valley, and Upper Canada, as it was then called was the granary of British America. Today Genesee is not mentioned in the flour trade and Ontario represents a steadily diminishing quantity. The wheat fields have been transferred to the Western and Northwestern States and to the valleys of the Red River of the North, the Assiniboine and the Saskatchewan.

And withal this migration of former United States farmers across the boundary northward is coming to have and will in the near future have an important bearing upon the trade relations of the Dominion and the Republic. These people have been accustomed to American usages and customs; they have all their lives used American farm machinery; they have been accustomed to buy and sell in the markets near which they were reared. Once across the line they find that a pretty high tariff barrier separates them from the markets in which they were accustomed to make their purchases. They must therefore purchase their machinery and supplies in Canada or pay heavy duties on the like articles of American production. And when their crops are grown, if they look as they have been accustomed to look to the markets of Minneapolis or Chicago they will again be met by the tariff barrier which the United States has set up.

And there remains the fact that the natural outlet for the wheat and other grains and dairy and cattle products of Manitoba, Assiniboia and Alberta is through the Great Lakes, either from Duluth at the head of Lake Superior, or from Port Arthur and Port William on the Canadian shore. They will have a natural preference because of former associations and business connections, for the American outlet and the American market. It is easy to see how under such conditions the old friends of reciprocity in Canada must receive a powerful reinforcement from these capable and substantial agriculturists who are now coming to us in tens of thousands from the United States. And as the New York Times puts it, the American manufacturers and traders in the great cities of the States will desire to supply their former customers, now removed across the line. They will come to see that the hostile tariffs they themselves have helped to set up are an absurd hindrance to the exchanges from which both peoples ought to derive profit.

LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY.

TUESDAY, April 21st.

MORNING SESSION

DR. DOUGLAS asked the Commission of Public Works, whether any action has been taken to obtain estimates of the cost of opening a new road between Bay View and Stanley Bridge as requested by the prayer of a petition from certain inhabitants of Cavendish, North Rustico, Bay View, Hope River and Stanley Bridge presented to the Government during the session of 1901. Also whether a petition has been received from the inhabitants of the same localities by the Commissioner of Public Works in reference to the same road, and what action the Government intends taking in the matter.

DR. DOUGLAS said this is a very important road, which will reduce the distance between Bay View and Stanley Bridge about one half, and avoid two very steep hills. At the present time it is very difficult to get anyone to contract for milk hauling on account of the road.

The Commissioner said that last year a petition had been received, and also a counter petition, but the latter was not entertained. This year another numerous signed petition in favor of the road was received. The engineer will investigate and if found in the public interests the work will be done.

MR. McWILLIAMS asked the Commissioner of Public Works, if a petition of certain inhabitants of Lots 9 and 10 had been received praying for the completion of the Terre Boylan Road? This road has been opened for the distance of three miles at the north end, which leaves about one mile at the south end to complete, if so what action does the Government intend taking in the matter.

The Commissioner said a petition had been received. An investigation will be held, and the work will be done, if found to be in the public interests.

MR. ARSENAULT asked the Commissioner of Public Works to explain to this House why a certain road across a Mr. Morrison's farm in Lot 14 had not been opened, also if it is the intention of the Government to make this man a present of $125 which was paid by the Government for the right of way of this road? Does the Government intend taking action in this matter in the near future or drop it altogether, thereby occasioning a loss to the Province of $125.

HON. MR. COMMERCE said that some time ago the Government proposed opening a road across several farms but Mr. Morrison was the only man who agreed to give the right of way. It is not the intention of the Government to make a present of the $125. During recess an investigation will be held and the road will be opened if found to be in the public interest.

HON. MR. WHELAN introduced a Bill to amend an act to provide for shorthand reporting in certain Courts in the province of Prince Edward Island.

On motion of HON. MR. RICHARDS House went into committee with Mr. Gallant in the chair to consider a bill to incorporate the Britannia Hall Co. of Tyne Valley. Bill reported agreed to without amendments.

An act to incorporate the Freeland Hall Company passed its third reading.

On motion of HON. MR. ROGERS the House went into committee to consider a bill to amend The Dairy Association Act. According to this bill the assessments are levied once a year, viz. first of August instead of two periods—first day of July and August. This change has been asked for by the Dairy Association.

Mr. Currie approved of the change but thought the bill should go further and limit the number of factories co-operating.

HON. MR. ROGERS said the Association had asked for legislation along these lines, but the Government did not consider it politic to do so. There is a question as to the legality of such legislation, which might mean interfering with trade and commerce. He admitted that the multiplication of factories is injurious to the industry, but the matter might be regulated by the common sense and good judgment of the people. The Government had no more right to restrain incorporation than to restrain individuals from manufacturing cheese.

HON. MR. ROGERS said that the law of survival of the fittest would prevail in the case of factories. He thought such legislation as asked for by Mr. Currie would be ultra vires.

CAPT. REID said it was generally the strongest factories that suffered by the multiplication. He thought legislation might be ultra vires, still it would be in the public interests.

In the Fourth District were all three factories within three mile or four mile of each other, if either one was started it would destroy the whole three. If this House can't legislate in this line the Dominion should be asked to pass a measure.

HON. MR. SIMPSON did not think it would be wise even if the local house had the power to pass such a radical, arbitrary measure. The Commissioner should devise some means to discourage the opening of new factories where they are not needed. People often start an agitation for new factories rather hastily. Time should be given them to take a cooler view of the matter. The steps taken elsewhere to meet the difficulty should be ascertained.

MR. MATHEWSON said that the question is a large one, involving various considerations. There is a movement now to consolidate the schools, and this principle should be applied with respect to factory districts. The present method is entirely haphazard. The country should be laid off in districts, and the roads should be arranged so that they could centralize at these points. Questions of this kind are best dealt with by a commission who could collect valuable information.

HON. MR. ROGERS said that if this were done when the country was first settled it would have been better for the country. In the west a system of this kind has been inaugurated, but it is too late now to carry out the project in this country. He believed this matter would regulate itself in the course of time.
