Rev. L. B. Campbell was the officiating clergyman. The bride looked very charming in a lovely wedding gown of white crepe back satin, with bridal veil fastened with a bandeau of pearls and orange blossoms. Her shoes were of white silk crepe, and she carried a shower bouquet of Orphelia roses. The bride was attended by Miss Lois Cameron, Free-town, and wore a dress of flowered silk chiffon, in a pastel shade of green. Mr. Fred Mose, of Free-town, cousin of the groom, acted as best man. The ceremony was attended by the immediate relatives of both parties. That evening the bridal party wended their way to the home of the bride, where a sumptuous wedding supper was served to about sixty relatives and friends of both bride and groom. On Thursday evening a hearty welcome was extended to Mr. and Mrs. Simmons to their home in Wilmot, where their many friends gathered to wish them every happiness. The bride wore a lovely dress of rose colored satin, trimmed with steel cut beads. Mr. and Mrs. Simmons will reside in Wilmot, where the groom is a prosperous farmer. The bride and groom were the recipient of many beautiful and costly gifts. The Guardian joins in wishing them many happy years of wedded bliss.

Storm Rockies With Tractors In Bold Quest
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)
VANCOUVER, March 16—The broad back of the Rocky Mountains where they roll from Redfern Lake to the head of the 60-kilometre British Columbia, is due for a beating this summer. C. E. Bedeaux, French explorer, engineer and business man, plans to do it with an expedition equipped with five tractors. Heberto this area, far north of rail lines or highways, has been traversed only by trappers and Indians, and then only on sufferance that they be men of heart and knowledge of the wilds. Aeroplanes have dived over it, and the map-makers have put it on paper, but mostly the mountains have stood unbeaten. It is a gesture, this expedition of M. Bedeaux, and an adventure. It has the spirit that makes men fly over oceans of ice, to leave it all unscathed and unchanged from what it was before it was known. The gesture in this case is not in bringing some new area to light, though much knowledge will undoubtedly be gained, but in the manner of the doing. One of man's most sturdy inventions has been chosen, the tractor, designed to conquer unwilling places. The surface of the mountain areas will be torn and their valleys and peaks echo to the chug of a work-a-day machine. True, they will stand as indomitable as of yore when it is finished, and passed before the summer has perished, they may have flouted the effort; they may not consent to be steam-rolled, but not claiming a toll of human victims—and therein lies the adventure. The tractors will tread where ways can be found, and otherwise will swing across canyons, or be pointed across rapid waters. The expedition will really go from Edmonton to Telegraph Creek, B. C., 1,100 miles, but the great test will be the way across the Rockies. Already a comitree has been made with various companies to help pick routes and lay caches of gasoline, and men are being sent out to cut trails in the lower levels of the early route. The size of the party is not definitely announced, but Bedeaux himself is primarily interested in exploration. The five tractors will involve five drivers and two engineers to take care of them. Then there will be guides, horse men to drive the horses, and men to drive the tractors. For where the tractor cannot go, horses must help as cables are swung and the machines transported through the air. Included in the equipment will be a 450-pound bolt capable of lifting the 4,000-pound tractors. A rubber raft reinforced with logs will be used on rivers. Not only must mountains be crossed but a way made over muskeg and swamp. The party should amount to a caravan of men, machinery and beasts when it sets out from Edmonton early in July to pursue its way to Fort St. John, B. C., and thence to Redfern. For M. and Mrs. Bedeaux the expedition will be just the latest of many in various parts of the world. It was on a trip home from the South Sea that they learned of the adventure and big-game possibilities of British Columbia; and the Sahara in Africa, and various parts of Asia, have been ploughed by their tractors. They both know British Columbia well. With a party which included 60 horses they zigzag a successful big-game hunt into the north of the province in 1922, getting as far as Redfern. In 1928 they hunted in more southern territory, that time with 27 horses to carry supplies. Now the great broad back of a mountain range dars them and they have accepted the challenge.

Of London Play

(By The Canadian Press)
MANCHESTER, England, March 16.—London has seen so often Baileff and his "Chauve Souris" that another troupe of Russians who do much the same sort of thing in much the same sort of way will be lucky if they receive an ardent welcome, says the Guardian's London correspondent.

"M. Yasha Yushay, who presented 'L'Oiseau Bleu' company at the Duke of York's, is a compe who must seem to be following in Baileff's footsteps though he may quote possibly in point of time have preceded them. And if truth be told the material presented by this Russian company is not extremely good."

showed that there was no appreciable difference in the hatching quality of eggs from hens confined in pens or on free range, the main factor governing the keeping quality being the season of the year. Eggs packed with the air cell up remained in good condition longer than those packed with the air cell down.

MONTREAL, March 15.—(C.P.)—For injuries received when she slipped on an icy sidewalk Camille Sophie Guerinville-Matto was awarded $400 and costs by Mr. Justice O. The Court's chief ruling was that if the city did sprinkle sand on the sidewalk on the day in question it did so in haphazard fashion and was thus negligent.
