Pestilence Adds To Horrors Of Chinese Flood Disaster Apathy Slows Relief Work

Thousands Sit On Roofs Waiting Resignedly For Death To Come—Believe Tragedy Is Due To Anger Of Dragon God, Whose Temple Was Recently Demolished.

NATIVES READY TO DIE AS FAMINE COMING

(By Wilfred Ling, United Press Staff Correspondent)
HANKOW, China, Aug. 26.—Pestilence broke out in refugee camps of the flood-devastated Yangtze River valley today, intensifying the suffering of hundreds of thousands in the worst disaster of China's history.
 Native survivors appeared to have been so completely demoralized that they were not even willing to save themselves from the flood, which has almost wiped out the thickly populated Wu-Han area. Many thousands have died of disease and drowning, and a winter famine now seems inescapable.
 When the United Press correspondent toured the Wu-Han district in a sampan today, visiting Hankow, Wuchang and Hanyang, thousands of starving and exhausted persons were sitting motionless on roofs or in shallow water, calmly awaiting death.
 I saw few signs of activity except on the part of the military rescue forces, and they were unable to arouse the survivors to co-operate in relief work or even to save themselves, in many cases. A majority of the 30,000,000 persons affected by the flood over an area of more than 500 miles along the river have been firmly convinced that the disaster was due to the anger of the Yangtze dragon god, who took offense because the river dragon temple was demolished recently.
 We passed along some streets where the water was 10 and 20 feet deep. Here I saw upper floors and roofs crowded with refugees, some of them foreigners whose former regard for class-lines vanished when the flood threw all together in the shadow of disaster. Other refugees floated on rafts. Some had escaped the rising water in coffins which had been washed up from burial grounds. Few survivors expressed any hope of rescue. They seemed oblivious to the suffering around them, of the floating bodies and the hot sun.

Mothers Sit Motionless
 The frantic mothers, many clasping dead children to their thin breasts, had fought for scraps of food floating on the yellow water a few days ago. Today I saw them sitting motionless, hardly willing to answer questions, convinced that the dragon god of their ancestors intends to wipe out Hankow, and that it is useless to resist.
 Some of them refused to accept

Entire Area In Darkness
 Power plants have been inundated. The entire area is in darkness at night. It is after nightfall that the natives express their emotions piercing the darkness with wails and shrieks.
 But the fatalism of the natives has made futile the inadequate relief which crews of foreign gunboats have been able to extend. The survivors know the water has covered their fields for many miles up and down the river, that it will be perhaps a month before the flood subsides—although there were indications today of a slight recession—and that there will be no food this winter. Hence, they say, they are ready to die now, rather than starve in the cold of the coming months.
 The conditions which I witnessed in the three sister cities, once one of the most prosperous commercial districts of China, exist in many other cities and villages up and down the river.
 Only a few police or soldiers were patrolling in sampans, but officials pointed out that there is little need for such duty until the water recedes. Authorities said there must be at least 10,000 dead in Hankow alone, and no burials.

Epidemic Strikes
 The dreaded outbreak of epidemic came just as relief officials had completed arrangements for inoculation of at least 100,000 persons against cholera. The equipment and medicine is pitifully meager, but the commission has worked desperately under handicaps. Despite their efforts disease was spreading through the refugee camps, taking a heavy toll of life.
 A representative of Gen. Chiang Kai-Shek, head of the National Government, arrived by airplane and placed five military river steamers at the disposal of the relief commission. Refugees will be removed in ships. Several hundred junkies are en route here for the same purpose. Gen. Pan Jen was placed in charge of Theruph Province relief work.
 J. E. Baker, American member of the relief commission, made an aerial survey of the flood area today. He said the condition of mud flats along the edge indicated gradual recession of the water. Hundreds of men are needed to remove bodies from the mud and aid in checking pestilence, he said.
 In addition to the usual danger of looting, Communist groups already have made plans for taking advantage of the situation and openly announced that they would attempt to seize control of the region when movement on foot is possible again.

Jenkins—O'Brien Nuptials
 The wedding of Miss Stephanie Jenkins, daughter of the late Lieutenant Col. Stephen Rice Jenkins and Mrs. Jenkins, of Charlottetown, to Mr. Edward F. O'Brien, son of Mr. Stephen O'Brien, Assistant Deputy Minister of Public Works, and Mrs. O'Brien of Ottawa, took place at St. Dunstan's Basilica, Charlottetown, yesterday morning at 11 o'clock in the presence of members of the families.
 The ceremony was performed by Rev. A. J. MacIntyre.
 The bride wore a gown of cream rose point lace with train and carried a bridal bouquet of Joanna Hill roses and white sweet peas.
 The bride was given away by her brother, Col. John Stephen Jenkins, D. S. O.
 The attendants were Mrs. Harold L. Palmer as matron of honor, and Miss Margaret Jenkins, sister of the bride as bridesmaid.
 They were attired in French dresses of pink tucked net with large hats of blue chipped straw, lace mittens and blue shoes.
 The groom was attended by Mr. Craeme M. Taylor, of Sherbrooke, Quebec.
 The ushers were Judge H. L. Palmer and Mr. Harry G. Jenkins, of Paris, brother of the bride.
 During the ceremony Miss Lucy Blanchard sang Schubert's Ave Maria. While the register was being signed, Miss Blanchard sang "Because."
 Mrs. S. R. Jenkins, mother of the bride, wore a gown of black lace with corsage of mauve sweet peas and hat of French velour.
 Mrs. O'Brien, the groom's mother, was gowned in black chiffon with hat of black velvet.
 After the ceremony, in honor of the happy couple, a unique salute of good wishes was performed by the visiting airmen, who have been in Charlottetown during the past three days. As the bridal party left the church, Capt. Godfrey Dean, flying the British Consols Pitcairn autogiro followed in formation flight by three DeHavilland Moth planes, piloted by Mr. Harry O'Leary of Richibucto, N.B., Mr. H. S. Jones of Moncton, N.B., and Mr. George M. Ross, Manager of the Trans-Canada Air Pageant, showered confetti from their planes.
 Breakfast was served at Brighton Villa, after which Mr. and Mrs. O'Brien left on a motor trip before returning to Montreal, where they will reside.
 The Basilica was thronged during the ceremony, and the event created much interest in social circles in this city, where the bride is a general favorite.
 The Guardian joins with numerous friends, both in and beyond the province, in extending hearty congratulations to the happy couple.

SUMMERSIDE RIFLE SHOOT
 The Summerside Rifle Club held their annual provincial shoot yesterday. Owing to the large number of competitors the shoot lasted from 9 a. m. to 7 p. m. and some excellent scores were made, especially among the newcomers. The range record was broken by Dr. Wiley Allen, of Charlottetown, with a score of 101 out of 105 in the Col. D. A. McKinnon match.
 Thirty-three contestants took part in the match from different parts of the Province. Rev. Mr. Aitken, of Sydney, N.S., who is visiting his brother, Rev. W. E. Aitken, of Lot 16, took part in the shoot. Weather conditions were ideal and some remarkably high scores were made. It was a big day for Mr. Allen, of Charlottetown, who won three out of the four matches of the day. He won the Col. D. A. McKinnon match, which was 7 shots at each range of 200, 500 and 800 yards. His score was 101 out of a possible 105, which made a new record for the range in competition. J. F. Moore came second with a score of 98. Dr. Allen also won the Summerside Rifle Club Match, 10 shots at 200 yards, with a score of 48 out of a possible of 50. Dr. Leard came second with a score of 47. Dr. Allen's next win was the Sun Glo match, set up by Mr. Lowell Hancock, of Summerside. His score was 50 out of 60 at 500 yards. M. J. Andrew, of Charlottetown scored with 48. Col. Zeig's match of 600 yards was won by Mr. Roy Coles of Milton, with a score of 48 out of possible 50. Percy Hoople was second with 48. Dr. Leard third with 47 and Rev. W. E. Aitken, 47.
 The Summerside Rifle Club wish to express their thanks to Col. D. A. McKinnon and Col. Leigh for their donations of 5 gold pieces and also to Col. McKinnon for his services as range officer for the day. Their thanks is also extended to Miss Mildred Allen and the Misses Dorothy and Eleanor Harris for their splendid work as register keepers. The shoot was considered a great success.—S.
