LEARNING AVIATION.

The Wrights have a neat little method of implanting the instinct of control into beginners. They have a biplane, without a motor, mounted on a stationary iron horse, which serves as a pivot. The machine is continually tipped first one way then the other, by machinery. The pupil sitting in its meets every tip of the machine by the proper move with his lever. If he makes the wrong move, the machine tips still further, and possibly bumps him out onto the floor. He uses the balancing machine about an hour a day, going through possibly ten or fifteen lever motions a minute

Flying alone; to make five figure eights in the air at a height from the ground of 164 feet; to land within 164 feet of a given mark; and then, to repeat the performance.

The Aero Club claims that anybody who can pass this test can fly with perfect safety, if he doesn't show off.

The Moisant School in Long Island, famous for having graduated the first two (and, so far, the only two) women aviators in America—Miss Harriet Quimby and Miss Matilde Moisant—uses a different system of instruction. It has four Moisant monoplanes. In the first of these, the engine is not strong enough to take it off the ground, and the pupils start with this. Engine Number three can make a high flight; but not for a long period, nor with great speed. Engine Number four is the standard Moisant monoplane.

The instructor, Andrew Houpert, never rides with his pupils; but coaches entirely from the ground. The Moisant school charges $750.00 and practically guarantees to keep a beginner until he learns to fly, even though it may take six months.

The future of the areoplane business, in the opinion of the best known manufacturers, lies in selling aircraft to rich amateurs and in teaching the latter how to use them.

The signs of the times are that, especially in and around New York, the young fellows with plenty of time and money on their hands will in the future have their own aeroplanes and aviators, just as now they have their own automobiles and chauffeurs.

I bought a horse with a supposedly incurable ringbone for $30. Cured him with $1.00 worth of MINARD'S LINIMENT and sold him for $85.00. Profit on Liniment, $54.00.

FARDELS.

'Tis hard to live with him who seeks self-glory—
'Bove all with him who in pursuit
doth trample down the weak—
Who uses means unfair to win his selfish ends,
Yet in one's presence seems to be so meek,

'Tis hard to bear with him whose pride cannot be hidden
Who still pretends to be so humble, just and mild—
Who prays long prayers—yet seeks the first place at a feast
And wails when crossed like any peevish child.

'Tis hard to live with him whose arrogance prevails—
With him who's narrow to his friends, yet apes the generous slave,
Who fails to know his kindred who are poor and mean
—For those of rank he recognition craves.

'Tis hard to bear with him who pious seems
Who worships God—oh with what sanctimonious pose!—
Yet whose very heart is gone from strife for gain and honors
Who still again from God to self, like Lucifer, meanly goes.

'Tis hard to bear with him who scorns the lowly,
Who slights the ordinary and disdains the struggling poor—
Who uses art and guile to win the mighty to his cause—
Nor scruples aught to lie to win the more.

'Tis hard to live with him who hiddenly deceives—
With him who to a state aspires where only love and truth resides,
Yet who in training barters soul for rank and glory
Nor cannot hide from man the workings of his pride.

Dear heart, I know, 'tis hard to bear such fardels!
And 'twould be harder still had God not given assurance of His might,
For in His Kingdom pure where nothing soiled can enter, into the depot and the Royal Party alighted and ascended the pavilion, being greeted by His Honor Lt. Gov. and Mrs. Rogers and Sir Louis Davies.
The just and true alone do reign in glory bright.

A HEARTY WELCOME

His Worship Mayor Lyons was introduced and he read the following address :

To Field Marshall His Royal Highness The Duke of Connaught, K. G., etc., Governor-General and Commander-in-Chief of the Dominion of Canada.

May it please Your Royal Highness:

In the name and on behalf of the citizens, we, the Mayor and Council of the City of Charlottetown, extend to Your Royal Highness a most cordial welcome on this your second visit to our city.

When you first visited this city as Prince Arthur, in 1869, our citizens were most enthusiastic in their greeting; thus manifesting their love and respect to your royal person and emphasizing their loyalty and devotion to your illustrious Mother, Queen Victoria, then happily reigning.

Now, in the maturity of your manhood, having achieved fame and distinction in the profession of arms, you come to us as the direct representative of our beloved Sovereign, His Gracious Majesty King George the Fifth.

The Fathers of Confederation expressed the hope that some day Canada's Governor-General would be a Prince of the Royal Blood, and we in common with all loyal Canadians rejoice that this hope has been realized in our time, and that we are privileged to greet as Canada's Viceroy the son of "Victoria the Good" and the brother of "Edward the Peacemaker."

In no part of this great Dominion will Your Royal Highness find more loyal and devoted subjects of our beloved Sovereign than this City and Province, so closely associated with the names of your royal ancestry and noble kindred. Our City is called after Queen Charlotte and our proine bears the name of your illustrious Grandfather, Edward Duke of Kent.

To Their Royal Highnesses the Duchess of Connaught and the Princess Patricia, we tender our homage and respect. It affords us special pleasure to include them in the hearty welcome extended to Your Royal Highness. We rejoice to know that the Duchess is restored to health after her recent serious illness.

We sincerely trust that Your Royal Highnesses may enjoy every moment of your stay in our Garden Province and that you may carry away with you pleasing memories of your visit.

In conclusion, we beg to express the hope that your term of office as Governor-General may redound to the happiness of Your Royal Highness, the glory of His Majesty the King, and the lasting benefit of our beloved Canada.

Charlottetown, P. E. I.
July 29th, 1912.

to which H.R.H. made the following reply :

Your Worship and Gentlemen,

Please accept my best thanks for your most cordial address of welcome, and also for your greeting to the Duchess and to my daughter.

I am very pleased to renew my acquaintance with the capital of Prince Edward Island, and to recall the memories of my former visit.

When I visited you in 1869, the conference at which the project of Canadian confederation first took definite shape had but a short time before been sitting here in Charlottetown. I am sure that you must feel legitimate pride in thinking that the members of that conference drew some part of their inspiration from their surroundings, and that your city, therefore, played a by no means unimportant part in the binding together of the provinces which now form your great Dominion.

Following this the Councillors were presented and then petite Miss Nora Lyons, daughter of His Worship the Mayor, gracefully presented Princess Patricia with a magnificent bouquet.

The escort, composed of P. E. I. Light Horse, and the composite Guard of Honor from Nos. three and four Batteries 4th C. A., were drawn up facing two sides of the pavilion and moved off in regular order as the carriages conveyed the Royal party from the station to the Government House to lunch. Through either side by children cheering and waving flags the party proceeded.

Certainly Charlottetown was in full dress and in its loyalty tendered a fitting tribute of patriotism to the distinguished visitors. The cadets, the school children, the A. O. H.K. of C. and C. M. B. A., assisted.

At the Government House a dainty luncheon was served and at three o'clock the party repaired under escort to the pavilion at Victoria Park where thousands were assembled.

Here the following address was read by Premier Mathieson on behalf of the Government :

To Field Marshal, His Royal Highness The Duke of Connaught, K. G., etc., Governor General and Commander-in-chief of the Dominion of Canada.

May it please Your Royal Highness:

On behalf of the Government and People of this Province, I beg to extend to you and to Their Royal Highnesses The Duchess of Connaught and The Princess Patricia, a most cordial welcome.

No Province of the Dominion of Canada, or of the Empire, excells Prince Edward Island in its loyal devotion to our Gracious Sovereign, or in its unswerving attachment to that form of government which has been maintained in the United Kingdom and throughout the northern half of this continent from its earliest settlement until the present time

It was therefore with great satisfaction that we learned of the appointment of Your Royal Highness as Governor General of Canada, and we accept it as a distinguishing mark of His Majesty's interest in and affection for the people of the Dominion

In presenting our welcome and the assurances of our high regard, we recall with interest your former visit to this Province, and we cannot forget that this Island bears the name of your distinguished ancestor, The Duke of Kent; that Your Royal Highness is the son of the august Queen Victoria, of happy and illustrious memory, and the brother of our late King, Edward the Seventh, whose great wisdom and powerful influence were so successfully devoted to the welfare of his people and the maintenance of peace among the nations of the earth.

Your Royal Highness has come to us at an auspicious time, when the opening up of new industries, the enlargement of existing ones, and the early prospect of much more constant and efficient communication between this province and the mainland of Canada have awakened new hopes and a general feeling of satisfaction and contentment.

We have an abiding faith in your wisdom and matured statesmanship; we feel assured that in the administration of your high office the best traditions of the Empire will be followed and exemplified, and that your presence at the Capital will shed new lustre upon the Dominion and will contribute to its welfare and progress.

We sincerely regret that your present visit must necessarily be of such limited duration, but we cherish the hope that it may be of so much interest and satisfaction to yourself and the members of your family, that we may again enjoy the honour and pleasure of welcoming you to this Province in the not distant future.

J. A. MATHIESON.
Premier,

Charlottetown,
Prince Edward Island,
29th July, 1912.

H. R. H. the Governor General replied as follows :

Mr. Mathieson and Gentlemen,

I beg that you will accept for the Government and people of Prince Edward Island my heartfelt thanks for your most loyal address of welcome.

It was a source of the deepest satisfaction to me to be called on by my brother, the late king, to serve the Empire in this new sphere; and since my arrival in Canada in October last my pleasure at being designated as His Majesty's representative in this Dominion had steadily increased. For each journey that I undertake, and my travels are wide and almost continuous, shows me the progress and contentment of the Canadian people : everywhere I go I hear expressed the same pride in their nation and in the Empire, and the same deep-seated reverence for the Throne and Person of the Sovereign.

Your address shows me that the same sentiments reign in Prince Edward Island as in the other provinces, and with these sentiments as the basis of national character nothing can prevent Canada from occupying the prominent position in the world which it is her undoubted destiny to fil.

Then the members of the Government and a number of prominent citizens were presented before the party drove to the Marine Wharf and boarded tne Earl Grey.

If the city was pleasing by day it was entrancing by night. Decorations were dimmed by darkness but the illuminations which took the place of bunting, flags and trimmings produced a delightful effect. The scene at Victoria Park where a display of fireworks was given over the breast. work around which floated bewitchingly decorated launches and other crafts was one to linger long in the memory of those who fortunately witnessed it. The park was brightened by myriads of small lights and the spectacle on land and water was a splendid one. Around the city the same desire to manifest loyalty both day and night was apparent in the illuminations of public and private buildings and premises. The Victoria Hotel, Charlottetown Club, Bishop's Palace, St. Dunstan's Cathedral, Queen Square School, Bank of Nova Scotia, Railway Station, Freight Shed, Stores and Shops Richmond Street opposite the Square, Queen Street and Sunnyside all were radiant with lights. The Canadian Bank of Commerce was particularly brilliant; Rochford Square and other places reflected the loyalty and patriotic affection of the people in ample wealth of light.

The Governor General drove incognito around the city and Park last evening, admired the display and enjoyed the atmospherical change to which he was becoming gradually accustomed and found most acceptable.

At the dinner to be given in Government House tonight the guests will include the six members of the royal party, Sir Louis Davies and Lady Davies, Chief Justice Sullivan, and Miss Sullivan, Mr. Wesley, Frost, American Council, and Mrs. Frost, Premier Mathieson and Mrs. Mathieson, Senator Yeo, Mayor Lyons and Mrs. Lyons, Colonel Peake, A. D. C., and Mrs. Peake, Capt Palmer, Private Secretary. This will make a party of twenty-two including Lieutenant Governor Rogers and wife.

At the lunch and dinner to be given at Government House, no wine will be served.

As the request of the Governor General's Secretary, no wines will be served on the trip by the S. S. Harland, up West River tomorrow.

COLONEL ROOSEVELT ANNOUNCES NEW PLATFORM.

OYSTER BAY, N. Y., July 27—The Confession of Faith of Colonel Roosevelt is now down in black and white. When he has completed the recital of his doctrines in Chicago, on the night of August 5, he probably will be called socialistic or anarchistic and may be both, he said last night. But he insisted that the measures be advocated must come. They are corrective to socialism and an antidote to anarchy he declared:

Two of the more striking measures, favored by Colonel Roosevelt, are the fixing of minimum wage scales for women workers, and a guarantee by-law to workmen, employed in what he calls the continuous industries of eight hour shifts and one day's time in every seven. Colonel Roosevelt said that he had not wished, at the present time, to take up new things but that he had come to the conclusion that he must develop some of his doctrines, in his Chicago speech, he had gone further than ever before in advocating what might be regarded by his opponents as radical measures. He said he was curious to see how his speech would be received by the large business interests and recalled the opposition which was stirred up among business men by his speech in Columbus, last Feburary in which he first advocated the recall of judical decisions. He hoped things which he now has to say would not frighten these men for if they were wise, they would see that he was acting in their interests.

Business should be encouraged in every legitimate way he said but at the same time business prosperity should be made the Hand maiden of the People and the tendency should be toward a diversification of the ownership of property.

Colonel Roosevelt mentioned these two measures merely as illustrating the kind of legislation which he believes should be adopted to meet existing conditions.

DOCK STRIKE HAS COME TO AN END.

LONDON, July 28—The strike at the London docks, which started early in May, and has caused about 50,-000 dock workers and their families to live in a state of semi-starvation for ten weeks, was declared at an end today by the strike committee. Work is to be resumed on Monday.

Altho the strike committee has declared the strike of the dock workers at an end and has ordered the men to return to work at once, it is by no means certain that a settlement has been reached. Thirty thousand angry dock workers held a mass meeting in Southwark part today and unanimously rejected the manifesto issued by the committee respecting resumption of work. Protesting that their leaders had betrayed them into unconditional surrender, the men adopted a resolution not to resume work until they had conversed with their unions.

MURDERER IS STILL AT LARGE.

(Canadian Press.)

CARMEL, M. R., July 27—The murderer of Naomi Mitchell, the 14 year old girl whose body, with throat cut was found in a corn field near her home yesterday morning, is still at large, despite the all day search of roads and woods in the vicinity.

Pursuit is still consentrated on the degenerate farm hand who is missing since he was seen on the North Carmel road following Mitchell girl on Wednesday night.

Search led a posse today to South Newburg Road in Carmel where a man answering the description of the suspect was seen to come out of the woods, and upon finding he was observed disappeared again quickly. The woods is surrounded by an armed posse who will keep strict guard until day light.

VIATOR MAKES A VISIT TO MONTAGUE.

These scattering remarks I shall sign "Viator" which is shorter than my regular name.—Montague I found at the old stand and racing after the dollar with very swift strides.

While the town does not rush ahead with alarming rapidity, the advance is steady and fully assured.

The handsomest stream in the Province cuts the village in twain, and when the place has arrived at the stage of houses being numbered, it will be convenient to say "260 Montague N." or "290 Montague S." There is naturally a pleasant rivalry between the two sections which cannot fail in giving vim to proceedings. Does one side put down a section of walk, the other at once orders the plaster. Just here I may notice that probably the most urgent public improvement is a sidewalk from Main Street to the Roman Catholic Church; this needed convenience Viator expects to be put down before his next visit. Money judiciously spent on local improvements pays a high rate of interest; for instance, suppose 500 house-holders are taxed ten dollars a piece, each shares in the value, not of ten dollars but of $5,000, that is if the funds are judiciously invested.

Surprise is often expressed at the rapid growth of towns in the west compared to the slow growth of places at home. The principal reason is evident:—the west is mostly peopled from the east, those leaving being generally the most ambitious, enterprising and brainy. A western town the size of Montague would have at least two daily papers, but The Morning Guardian is found in every cottage and hall, and in order to compete with any show of success the publisher would require to own a ranch of black foxes. The spirit of the age is not lacking in Montague, and the black nose of a fox may be seen protruding from its den as in the west of Prince County.

The site of the commercial capital of King's is unusually attractive, and there adjoins a section of land, wild as imagination can picture, which requires only a touch of art to become one of the finest parks at home or abroad. For aquatic sports and amusements, no situation surpasses Montague in the required conditions.

Many years ago a business of questionable utility was started among us, the importation of carriages from other sections of Canada. Nearly all the carriage shops on the Island were soon closed, but Viator is pleased to notice that John McLean & Son, carriage-builders of Montague, continue to do business at the old stand with undiminished success. The wise men of the east doubtless recognize that the home-made article pays best in the end.

Many Guardian readers will be pleased to learn that Senator Robertson is able to be out each day for an airing, and his medical advisers entertain good hope of his ultimate recovery. He sleeps well, is entirely free from pain of any sort, while his mind is clear and active as ever. Viator has seen but few spots more delightful than the surroundings of the Senator's bungalow. If the kind solicitude of neighbors would restore health, the ailing gentleman would be very soon on his feet.

So far as one could see from the train, fields from Charlottetown eastwards gave indications of suffering from drouth, but the copious precipitation of the 22nd must have set matters to right. Agricultural votaries will have an easy spell before harvest which they can improve by visiting different sections and other parts of the Province. Credit is due to Mr. Clark of the Experimental Farm for promoting a scheme which it is hoped will become general, while the yeomanry of Mount Carmel deserve credit for setting an example to others. Improvements are marching steadily forward and those who fail to recognize the fact will be left in the wake. The lately-appointed superintendent of the P. E. I. Railway is the right man for the country and he doubtless will make transportation easy for farmers' picnics such as referred to above.

Beaver Flour

makes more bread to the barrel than any other flour on the market—bread that takes up water readily, "stands up" well in the oven, looks well, tastes well and is light and nutritious.

Being a carefully prepared blend of Manitoba Spring wheat and Ontario Fall wheat, Beaver Flour is also an ideal pastry flour, making the most delicious cakes, pies and biscuits.

Keeping two flours—one for bread and one for pastry — involves unnecessary expense and bother. Beaver Flour is best for both.
