NEW YORK'S HEARTY GREETING TO H. R. H. PRINCE OF WALES

Prince Accorded as Enthusiastic a Welcome as the Historic Demonstration Given General Pershing on Return from War. Prince Made Splendid Impression Both as Heir Apparent and as "that Young Fellow, the Prince of Wales."

(Special to The Guardian.)
NEW YORK, Nov. 19.—New York gave to the future King of England a reception such as could hardly have been expected from it in view of the subsidence of the war fever which animated earlier spectacles. Far from showing itself jaded with the welcome it has extended to a long line of illustrious foreign visitors, the city proved that both for His Royal Highness and for "that Young Fellow, Prince Edward Albert" it had an abundant supply of vociferous, cordiality from the moment the Prince set foot in New York early this morning till he had taken his cheerful way homeward after the day and night of functions.

New Yorkers lost no opportunity to show that they liked him and the country he came to represent. Particularly along his route from the battery to the City Hall, where he was welcomed officially, for the state by Secretary of State Francis M. Hugo, and, for the city, by Mayor John P. Hylan, a reception was given to the Prince which surprised and very nearly overwhelmed him. Bearing himself modestly throughout he showed himself here apparently abashed and the crowds were quick to grasp and to sympathize with his unaffected wonder.

Farther up town when he left the City Hall to lay a wreath upon the hier of General Grant, to deposit another at the base of the Joan of Arc Statue and to review a troop of Scottish Boy Scouts, he met with less dense and less enthusiastic crowds, because his route had not been announced.

In the business heart of the city he was welcomed every bit as warmly as was General Pershing when the Commander of the American forces came home to receive the nation's thanks.

It was here that he was treated by a particularly big welcome. An institution of merry making in which he seemed to find great fun was the now inevitable paper showers, in his case so dense that the streets through which he passed were carpeted with a "snow" that looked more the real thing than it was on the warmer occasions of some previous celebrations.

Police Guard Prince.

NEW YORK, N. Y., Nov. 19.—More than 2,500 policemen, detectives and federal secret service agents lined the street traversed by the Prince of Wales yesterday. Large numbers of plain clothes men were stationed on the roofs of the smaller structures down town. They were particularly noticeable on the old Astor house and the post office opposite the City Hall. During the drive up Broadway five agents of the department of Justice rode immediately behind the Prince in an open car scanning the fans in the crowds. At the same time hundreds of operatives mingled with the throngs.

N. Y. Stock Exchange Gives Mad House In Honor of Prince

(Special to The Guardian.)
NEW YORK, N. Y., Nov. 19.—A slender boy with cheeks flushed and eyes blinking from a ride in an open auto through a nipping north wind stopped business on the New York Stock Exchange for two minutes today. He was Edward Albert, Prince of Wales and New York's most recently adopted citizen.

The Prince breezed into the Stock Exchange shortly before lunch. It was during a heavy selling period but the brokers stopped all business for two minutes while they cheered the future ruler of the British Empire. Then they resumed trading and put on what they called a mad house scene for his benefit. "Come on down Prince!" a trader yelled when the stampee was well under way. The Prince, who was in the balcony, did not go to the floor however.

SHOOTING FATALITY AT HALIFAX ON SUNDAY

HALIFAX, N. S., Nov. 18.—A shooting accident at Herring Cove yesterday resulted in the death of Patrick Pelman, a well known fisherman. After church, Pelman decided to take a short trip in the woods for a moose that had been seen in the vicinity. He was accompanied by Joseph Reyno. The two entered the bush two miles from the village and separated. An hour afterwards Reyno heard a shot followed by a cry, running hastily in the direction from which the sounds came, he found Pelman face downwards on the ground. The man was still conscious and told Reyno to hurry into the village and call a doctor. When the doctor arrived, Pelman was dead. He had evidently leaned on his gun which went off, the bullet entering his abdomen.

ST. JOHN, N. B., Nov. 18.—More than 2,000 quarts of assorted liquors and a plant supposed to have been used for the manufacture of liquor were seized today when liquor inspectors raided the residence of Wm. Webber in an exclusive residential district. This is said to be the largest single seizure of liquor in the Province since the Prohibitory Act came into effect and the discovery of the main plant lends additional interest to the affair.

Webber was placed under arrest on Monday evening as he was leaving the city on the Halifax train, as the result of the discovery of five one-gallon tins containing liquor in a stateroom which had been engaged by him. He was released early this morning when he made a deposit of $200 for his appearance, but was called later in the day. It is reported that he has left the city. They found in his cellar hundreds of bottles of liquors of many varieties and brands, neatly arranged in wooden racks, and a cask of liquor set up and tapped ready for action.

Italian Delegate's Minority Report

WASHINGTON, Nov. 18.—Defeated in sub-committee of the international labor conference Gino Badesi, Italian workers' delegate, intimates that he will submit a minority report to press forward his scheme for international regulation of the distribution of raw materials as a specific for unemployment. In sub-committee, on a motion by E. Blake Robertson, of Ottawa, Mr. Badesi was defeated by seven votes to four. The ground taken in Mr. Robertson's motion was that international regulation of the type proposed could not constitutionally or profitably be dealt with by the conference. On the same vote, the sub-committee reached a like decision regarding proposals for the abolition of private ownership of land and property, the international regulation of ocean freight rates and choice between free trade and protective policies.

None of the committees being as yet ready to report plenary sittings of the conference have been suspended till Wednesday. This afternoon's proceedings were purely formal. A CITY WHERE HUMAN MISERY HAS REACHED ITS LIMIT

Vienna, once "the Beautiful," has Become the Waif of the World, Children Dying of Cold in the Hospitals and Conditions Elsewhere Desperate. Coming of Winter Looked Forward to in Agony.

(Special to The Guardian.)
PARIS, Nov. 19.—There is one large city in Europe where human misery has reached its limit, that is the once proud capital, Vienna. The reports reaching here from correspondents and from accounts given in Vienna newspapers of conditions in that city almost surpass belief.

Vienna has become the great waif of the world. Newborn babies are dying daily in the hospitals where the greatest physicians of the world, summoned hurriedly, are attending them. Their deaths are due in many cases simply to lack of fuel to keep them warm.

If these conditions are true in the hospitals what can be the state of misery and want in the homes? A survey of the stricken city which reached Paris from a special correspondent gives this graphic description:

"Vienna is dying slowly; the cold climate has made its appearance with out any transition from the heat of summer and the suffering that has ensued is beyond words. Abandoned by all the states which were its associates or its subjects the city sees nowhere to turn for aid. Without bread or fuel the Austrian people are regarding the coming of winter with agony and turn appealingly toward the representatives of France in Vienna for aid.
