

THE CHARLOTTETOWN GUARDIAN

President—W. Chester B. McKinnon, M.P. Vice-President, J. E. Burnett, F.J.I. Secretary—Lloyd—Col. D. A. MacKinnon, D.S.O. Editor and Managing Director—J. E. Burnett, F.J.I. Associate Editors—Frank Walker and D. B. Currie

THURSDAY, JANUARY 31, 1935.

WILL HE BACKSLIDE?

A curious anomaly has developed in the Liberal attitude toward the Bennett economic and social reform policies. Mr. Mackenzie King, federal Liberal leader, professes to be eagerly desirous of expediting the passage of the reforms through Parliament, and the Toronto Globe is doing its best to pin him down to a policy of co-operation rather than hindrance.

EMPLOYMENT IN 1934

According to statistics furnished by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics by leading employers, the recovery in industrial employment in 1934 continued with considerable force in 1934. The fluctuations differed from those of the preceding year, but the gains then made were consolidated and extended until employment in 1934 was in greater volume than in either 1933 or 1932.

EDITORIAL NOTES

Pegged prices for potatoes in the Maritimes and Ontario, and grading of spuds in Quebec goes into effect tomorrow. Premier "Mich" Heppburn thinks there are still too many Tories in the Ontario legislature, so he has intimated that as soon as he can get down to it, he will reduce the membership to some figure below 90, so as to be in readiness for next election.

WORK WITHOUT FAITH

There is a not quite irreverent story, says the Mail and Empire, of a darkey preacher down south who used to be driven about by his parish in a ramshackle automobile by one of his young colored church members. One day the car balked quite a long way from a garage.

Notes By The Way

On March 4, 1935, when Franklin Roosevelt became president, four of the five largest post offices in the United States—New York, Philadelphia, St. Louis and Boston—had cancer men as postmasters. Only the Chicago district had a politician in charge.

A man knows what is right and what is wrong, but an incorporated company may not know. It has too many people in it to be guided by an individual's conscience. It does not employ a lawyer to tell it what is right and what is wrong; it employs a lawyer to tell it what is legal and what is not.

In a recent address Joseph Stalin, the Russian dictator, marked out the path for Soviet industry. He declared that attention would be focused not merely on machines, but on the people who run them. What Russia now needed was not so much increased machinery as an increase of perfection of technique—and technique is not just a question of machinery, but of men and women, M. Stalin said.

The increased use of the air services will advance the day when Colombo, or some convenient centre close at hand, will be an important air mail base, and the absence of benefit from the cheapening of the Imperial service would increase Ceylon's need for her own aerial terminus. Indeed, the performance in the century race to Australia gave rise to the possibility which would have been considered highly fanciful only some months ago.

The world wonders about its abnormal weather. Following typhoons, hurricanes and storms, European blizzards have been in the news. Hunger-maddened wolves invade rural towns; 40 kill cattle; and attack peasants near Bistriz. One farmer, while his work horses are being devoured, escapes up a tree, where his frozen body is found. The Black Sea shows a strange margin of ice. The North Atlantic seaboard sees dense fog lift after five days. More than 85 anchored liners and freighters move into New York harbor.

In this matter of embargo (on Newfoundland salmon), you would know our Canadian brothers to go slowly. Newfoundland's annual purchase of goods from the Canadian Dominion is around ten million dollars; while Canada's purchases from Newfoundland do not reach one-third of that amount. We would further point out to them that there is provision in our Customs Act whereby we can hit back should necessity arise. Be it further noted that for a number of years Canadian mails have been carried over the Cabot Strait without one cent cost to Canada. We have no desire to pick a trade quarrel with our big Dominion to the west. But we wish just to point out that in such a matter Canada stands to become the greatest loser.—Western Star.

Elizabeth Bergner was acclaimed in New York recently as the greatest living actress. Yet this genius was banished from Germany because of her Jewish blood. For the same cause the Hitlerites expelled the greatest living scientist, Einstein, confiscating his property and that of his daughters.

Britain was forced off the gold standard; the United States went off voluntarily. Britain has first of all based recovery on reduction of governmental costs and promotion of production; the United States has based recovery on reduction of labor costs and restricted production. That difference is fundamental. Mr. Roosevelt now appears to be at least partially aware of it and to be retreating from the unwise and unwise planning for poverty which multiplied restrictions mean.—Monitor.

That Body of Bones. Why Mental Ailments Should Be Relieved. By James W. Barton, M.D.

Despite the fact that of every 10 patients that enter a mental hospital 6 or 7 are able to return home or to business, the fact that 3 or 4 still require treatment means that our mental hospitals now have as many patients as all the other hospitals combined.

It is because all this is now so well known to the family doctor and to the general practitioner that there are hopes that mental ailments will become less in the future.

There is general agreement among taxpayers at the present time that the public debt contracted during the past two or three decades constitutes a heavy burden indeed. It has been increasing more rapidly than the national wealth.

There is general agreement among taxpayers at the present time that the public debt contracted during the past two or three decades constitutes a heavy burden indeed. It has been increasing more rapidly than the national wealth.

There is general agreement among taxpayers at the present time that the public debt contracted during the past two or three decades constitutes a heavy burden indeed. It has been increasing more rapidly than the national wealth.

There is general agreement among taxpayers at the present time that the public debt contracted during the past two or three decades constitutes a heavy burden indeed. It has been increasing more rapidly than the national wealth.

There is general agreement among taxpayers at the present time that the public debt contracted during the past two or three decades constitutes a heavy burden indeed. It has been increasing more rapidly than the national wealth.

There is general agreement among taxpayers at the present time that the public debt contracted during the past two or three decades constitutes a heavy burden indeed. It has been increasing more rapidly than the national wealth.

There is general agreement among taxpayers at the present time that the public debt contracted during the past two or three decades constitutes a heavy burden indeed. It has been increasing more rapidly than the national wealth.

There is general agreement among taxpayers at the present time that the public debt contracted during the past two or three decades constitutes a heavy burden indeed. It has been increasing more rapidly than the national wealth.

There is general agreement among taxpayers at the present time that the public debt contracted during the past two or three decades constitutes a heavy burden indeed. It has been increasing more rapidly than the national wealth.

There is general agreement among taxpayers at the present time that the public debt contracted during the past two or three decades constitutes a heavy burden indeed. It has been increasing more rapidly than the national wealth.

The Selkirk Settlers

Excerpts from the Earl of Selkirk's own account of the Settlement formed at Belfast, Prince Edward Island, in 1833; its Difficulties, Progress and Final Success.

The prevailing soil of Prince Edward's Island may be described as a sandy loam, such as in England would be reckoned of medium quality. In some spots on the coast, it seems a more barren sand; yet these crops in these places are generally much better than a stranger would expect from the appearance of the soil.

The mode in which the woods are cleared away is a matter of surprise to the European, who has been accustomed to consider timber as an article of value. The extent of land which an industrious man may annually bring into cultivation, furnishes a quantity far beyond the consumption of any settler for fuel and other purposes.

The brush-wood, with which the forests generally abound, is first cut close to the surface, to allow the workman free access; he then begins at one side of a piece of land, and fells the trees in a regular progress. By making his cut on the two opposite sides of the tree only, he can regulate the direction in which it is to fall.

These are the boys' welfare at heart. The object of the Boy Scout Movement is to train the boy to make good use of those sixty hours per week, to put the time to doing something useful which he has not been commanded to do, to taking part in games that will help him physically, and to finding an opportunity to do a good turn for some needy body.

These are the boys' welfare at heart. The object of the Boy Scout Movement is to train the boy to make good use of those sixty hours per week, to put the time to doing something useful which he has not been commanded to do, to taking part in games that will help him physically, and to finding an opportunity to do a good turn for some needy body.

These are the boys' welfare at heart. The object of the Boy Scout Movement is to train the boy to make good use of those sixty hours per week, to put the time to doing something useful which he has not been commanded to do, to taking part in games that will help him physically, and to finding an opportunity to do a good turn for some needy body.

These are the boys' welfare at heart. The object of the Boy Scout Movement is to train the boy to make good use of those sixty hours per week, to put the time to doing something useful which he has not been commanded to do, to taking part in games that will help him physically, and to finding an opportunity to do a good turn for some needy body.

These are the boys' welfare at heart. The object of the Boy Scout Movement is to train the boy to make good use of those sixty hours per week, to put the time to doing something useful which he has not been commanded to do, to taking part in games that will help him physically, and to finding an opportunity to do a good turn for some needy body.

These are the boys' welfare at heart. The object of the Boy Scout Movement is to train the boy to make good use of those sixty hours per week, to put the time to doing something useful which he has not been commanded to do, to taking part in games that will help him physically, and to finding an opportunity to do a good turn for some needy body.

These are the boys' welfare at heart. The object of the Boy Scout Movement is to train the boy to make good use of those sixty hours per week, to put the time to doing something useful which he has not been commanded to do, to taking part in games that will help him physically, and to finding an opportunity to do a good turn for some needy body.

These are the boys' welfare at heart. The object of the Boy Scout Movement is to train the boy to make good use of those sixty hours per week, to put the time to doing something useful which he has not been commanded to do, to taking part in games that will help him physically, and to finding an opportunity to do a good turn for some needy body.

These are the boys' welfare at heart. The object of the Boy Scout Movement is to train the boy to make good use of those sixty hours per week, to put the time to doing something useful which he has not been commanded to do, to taking part in games that will help him physically, and to finding an opportunity to do a good turn for some needy body.

J. O. HYNDMAN President of Hyndman & Co. Ltd., Provincial Managers at Charlottetown for The Great-West Life Assurance Company.

The Poet's Corner

Weep not today; why should this sadness be? Learn in present fears To o'ermaster those tears That unhindered conquer thee.

These are the boys' welfare at heart. The object of the Boy Scout Movement is to train the boy to make good use of those sixty hours per week, to put the time to doing something useful which he has not been commanded to do, to taking part in games that will help him physically, and to finding an opportunity to do a good turn for some needy body.

These are the boys' welfare at heart. The object of the Boy Scout Movement is to train the boy to make good use of those sixty hours per week, to put the time to doing something useful which he has not been commanded to do, to taking part in games that will help him physically, and to finding an opportunity to do a good turn for some needy body.

These are the boys' welfare at heart. The object of the Boy Scout Movement is to train the boy to make good use of those sixty hours per week, to put the time to doing something useful which he has not been commanded to do, to taking part in games that will help him physically, and to finding an opportunity to do a good turn for some needy body.

These are the boys' welfare at heart. The object of the Boy Scout Movement is to train the boy to make good use of those sixty hours per week, to put the time to doing something useful which he has not been commanded to do, to taking part in games that will help him physically, and to finding an opportunity to do a good turn for some needy body.

These are the boys' welfare at heart. The object of the Boy Scout Movement is to train the boy to make good use of those sixty hours per week, to put the time to doing something useful which he has not been commanded to do, to taking part in games that will help him physically, and to finding an opportunity to do a good turn for some needy body.

These are the boys' welfare at heart. The object of the Boy Scout Movement is to train the boy to make good use of those sixty hours per week, to put the time to doing something useful which he has not been commanded to do, to taking part in games that will help him physically, and to finding an opportunity to do a good turn for some needy body.

These are the boys' welfare at heart. The object of the Boy Scout Movement is to train the boy to make good use of those sixty hours per week, to put the time to doing something useful which he has not been commanded to do, to taking part in games that will help him physically, and to finding an opportunity to do a good turn for some needy body.

These are the boys' welfare at heart. The object of the Boy Scout Movement is to train the boy to make good use of those sixty hours per week, to put the time to doing something useful which he has not been commanded to do, to taking part in games that will help him physically, and to finding an opportunity to do a good turn for some needy body.

These are the boys' welfare at heart. The object of the Boy Scout Movement is to train the boy to make good use of those sixty hours per week, to put the time to doing something useful which he has not been commanded to do, to taking part in games that will help him physically, and to finding an opportunity to do a good turn for some needy body.

STRAND - LAST TIMES TODAY "THE CAPTAIN HATES THE SEA" WITH WALTER CONNOLLY... VICTOR McLAGLEN HELEN VINSON... ALISON SKIPWORTH ALSO NEWS AND MICKEY MOUSE

THEY'RE OFF! In the Greatest Race - Up or Down Smiles and Spills Eye-Opening Fun to the rear of bicycle bands and rubber wheels! That thrilling cyclone that's tearing tornado of the track! STRAND STARTS FRIDAY 2 DAYS ONLY

AMONG THE MISSING. Tangled Lives... Broken Hearts. BUCK JONES IN "RED RIDER" AND COMEDY "CRACKED SHOTS"

FEARFUL OF FUTURE. LONDON, Jan. 30.—(C.P.)—A 78-year-old woman, obsessed by fear for her future, committed suicide here recently. "Fear is torment," was the only message left.

BOY BITES PRIEST. COLOMBO, Jan. 30.—(C.P.)—While administering last sacraments to a boy suffering from hydrophobia as result of dog bites, a priest was bitten by the boy. He was rushed to hospital for treatment.

Buy the Best TEA. Brahmin Orange Pekoe. Ceylon Small Leaf. Scouting Stands for Service

The chew for You. Outdoor men are unanimous—you can't beat it for flavour and lasting goodness. BLACK TWIST CHEWING HICKEY & NICHOLSON

Your complexion will reflect the great superiority of PENSLAR Cream of Almonds. This preparation is recognized by discriminating women everywhere as the best of its kind to protect your skin from wind and frost, keeping it smooth and velvety.

MAGS BLOOD FOOD. FOR PALE AND THIN PEOPLE. A combination especially valuable in the treatment of those diseases where their origin is traceable to an impoverished condition of the blood.

OUR BOYS. Sir—There is always before us the age-old question: What can we do for the youth of our country that they may develop into Christian, Patriotic, Industrious and Useful Citizens? Churches, government, societies, educational institutions, sports clubs, etc., all realizing that the future of a country depends on its manhood and that the manhood of the future is the result of today, are putting forth their best efforts to improve the conditions under which our children are living today.