(Canadian Press)

EDMONTON, Alta., Dec. 17.—The anti-pest campaign waged under the direction of the Alberta department of agriculture has proved disastrous to approximately 300,000 crows, gophers and magpies, according to figures just released.

Nearly 1,300 contestants have taken part in the competition and about $3,000 have been distributed to successful hunters. The campaign has taken a toll of 195,525 gophers, 70,000 magpies and crows eggs, while 38,275 destructive birds have been killed.

School children, farmers and members of the Game Protective association, participated in the contest.
