U. S. PUBLIC PICKS TEN MOST ADMIRED PEOPLE

MacArthur, Eisenhower, Truman Lead List— Churchill Only Non-American

By American Institute of Public Opinion

PRINCETON, N. J., June 17 — General Douglas MacArthur, General Dwight D. Eisenhower, and President Truman are the three persons most admired by the people of the United States today.

In a coast-to-coast survey by the Institute people in all walks of life were asked:

"What Person Living Today In Any Part Of The World Do You Admire Most?"

The following are the top ten choices. The names are listed in order of frequency of mention.

1. General Douglas MacArthur.
2. General Dwight D. Eisenhower.
3. President Harry S. Truman.
4. Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt.
5. Winston Churchill.
6. Former President Herbert Hoover.
7. Henry A. Wallace, Secretary of Commerce and former Vice-President.
8. Governor Thomas E. Dewey of New York.
9. Harold E. Stassen, ex-governor of Minnesota and former captain in the Navy.
10. James F. Byrnes, Secretary of State

More than 400 different names were mentioned by voters in the survey.

The list of the top ten is interesting for the types of leaders not mentioned. There are no movie or radio stars among the top ten most admired people, no businessmen, no labor leaders, no sports figures, no religious leaders, no writers, educators or scientists. While some observers say the country is moving leftward, many of the ten most admired people would be classed generally as conservative.

Names most prominently mentioned after the top ten are Pope Pius; Cordell Hull, former Secretary of State; Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg of Michigan; Bernard Baruch, presidential advisor; General Jonathan M. Wainwright, hero of the Philippine war; Walter Winchell, columnist; Edward Stettinius, Jr., former Secretary of State, and first U. N. delegate from the United States; Henry Ford; Joseph Stalin, and Fiorello LaGuardia, director of U. N. R. R. A.

Among the men polled, the five most admired leaders are: MacArthur, Eisenhower, Truman, Churchill and Hoover.

Questioning among women revealed the following to be their most admired heroes: MacArthur, Eisenhower, Truman, Mrs. Roosevelt and Churchill.

after hearing her husband convicted, was surrounded by friends who helped her light a consoling cigaret.

The defence made no immediate announcement concerning an appeal.

Rose also faces four substantive charges of violating the provisions of the Official Secrets Act.

Special federal prosecutor F. Philippe Brais, K.C., in his address to the jury said bluntly that "there was a vast conspiracy," evidence of which was "overwhelming."

Proof had been provided by documents removed from the Soviet Embassy by Igor Gouzenko, key Crown witness, and they had not been contradicted, Mr. Brais said.

(Gouzenko, 27-year-old former cipher clerk, touched off the Royal Commission investigation with his revelations when he quit his Embassy post Sept. 5, 1945. His testimony and cross-examination at the trial lasted the better part of seven days.) Mr. Brais maintained that Rose was implicated in the conspiracy by having obtained information on secret wartime development of the super-explosive RDX from Dr. Raymond Boyer, alleged co-conspirator, and turned it over to Embassy officials who transmitted it to Moscow.

Associated with Mr. Brais in the prosecution were Oscar Gagnon, K. C., senior Crown prosecutor in Montreal, W. C. J. Meredith, K.C., and, in the final stages, John Cartwright, K.C., of Ottawa.

Chief defence counsel Joseph Cohen, K. C., in his address, said "the crux of the case lies in the evidence of Dr. Boyer" and unless the jury could find there the basis for a conspiracy "then you cannot go further nor consider the evidence of Gouzenko."

He said Dr. Boyer's information to Rose was valueless from a scientific viewpoint. It had not been given "for any illegal purpose" but with a view to holding a Russian technical mission in Ottawa to obtain full details officially.

Mr. Cohen said Dr. Boyer's belief had been that the mission should stress to the Government the "promise" of its leaders that "whatever we have is yours."

Following the bringing down of the jury's verdict, His Lordship adjourned the court until Tuesday morning, when he will deal with four witnesses called by the Crown who were declared in contempt after refusing to testify. The four are Gordon Lunan, Harold S. Gerson, Eric Adams and Matt Nightingale, all awaiting trial on charges connected with the espionage probe.

The Baptist Church

At the morning service of worship in the Charlottetown Baptist Church Sunday, the Rev. I. J. Levy, in recognition of the approaching centennial of the Maritime Baptist Convention, took as the theme of his sermon "Recovering our Memories."

Through our lifetime there are many things to forget, many things we all want to forget, Mr. Levy said. A wholesome attitude to life, a great secret of a happy life is to forget and to remember. There are always those who are slaves to the past, no past however glorious, is adequate to the challenge of today, but how great is the loss who ignore the past. This is the hundredth anniversary year of the establishment of the Maritime Baptist Convention although by no means the hundredth year of Baptist history in these Provinces Long years before the establishment of the Convention there were Baptist churches through this region all of them as now independent in their church government, strongly evangelistic, inspired by the "great awakening" of the early portion of the eighteenth century and probably brought to these Provinces under the influence of the Alleynes. As time went on the need for cooperative effort was seen and so in Saint John, in September of 1846 was established the Maritime Baptist Convention with 173 churches and 14,000 members. In his centennial year there are 566 churches with 63,000 members and thousands more of adherents.

"The story of these churches, Mr. Levy said is a story of the proclamation of the gospel, a story of missionary effort at home and abroad, a story of educational ambition and attainment.

"We shall do well to recover our memories in respect to the challenge of evangelism and make the achievements of the past an inspiration to bring to all mankind the gospel of our Lord Jesus Christ."

The anthem of the morning was "Teach Me the Way of Thy Statutes." Miss Louise Cox, organist and choir director was in charge of the music of the day.

The flowers on the communion table were placed in memory of Mr. William Gregory by his sons.

Mayor MacDonald Home From N.Y.

After a two-weeks visit to New York and other American cities, His Worship B. Earle MacDonald, Mrs. MacDonald, and daughter Beryl have returned to Charlottetown.

Upon his arrival in New York, Mayor MacDonald received an invitation from Mayor William J O'Dwyer to attend a presentation to the President of the New York City Police Athletic League which took place in the Mayor's office at noon on Monday, June 3.

After the presentation, Mayor O'Dwyer appointed City Police Officer Peter Larkin to escort Mayor MacDonald about the City. He also authorized Librarian Miss R.B Larkin to make available to Mayor MacDonald any information which His Worship might desire concerning points of historic interest in the City.

Mayor MacDonald reports he was greatly interested in the La Guardia Airport which has its own police staff of 114 officers. People daily arrive and depart from La Guardia Airport, His Worship said, in numbers which would choke the transportation facilities of such small cities as Charlottetown.

Approximately one million dollars a day is wagered at the Aqueduct Race Park which Mayor MacDonald visited. He also attended the races at the Roosevelt track on Westbury, Long Island, where he saw the much-talked-of Phillips starting gate in operation.

The Mayor was profuse in his appreciation of the hospitality extended him by his many American hosts but told a Guardian representative he was glad to get back to Charlottetown.

Dog Show Entries May Exceed 100

Plans have been finalized for the Fourth Annual Dog Show to be held at the Forum Wednesday. Mounting interest the past week, as is evidenced by the large number of entries, has assured its success.

Billed as "the foremost dog show of the Maritimes" officials of the Charlottetown Kennel Club have left nothing undone in promoting this instructional and educational event which will have among the entries many of the aristocrats of dogdom.

Entries top well over the 100 mark and there are about 40 breeds with 125 classes. New improved ring facilities will provide for better display.

Judge of the show this year is Mr. Walter Reeves of Oakville, Ont., who is expected to arrive in the city today. Mr. Reeves enjoys an international reputation as a judge and local dog fanciers will follow with interest his activities in deciding winners.

In connection with the show and "Dog Week" several firms have co-operated in promoting interest by show window displays.

An essay contest with the theme, "The Breed of Dog I Like Best" is being held in schools open to pupils up to and including grade nine. It is expected that many of those entering the contest will receive much valuable information through the show.

Two puppies will be lotteried off during the show, a Golden Cocker Spaniel and a wire haired terrier.

KESTON, Kent, England — (CP) —Every year, led by a piper, villagers of Keston walk the footpaths of their parish, fulfilling an ancient custom which preserves their rights of way.

In Memoriam

GLORIA ARSENAULT

Classmates of Gloria Arsenault were saddened to hear of her death on the morning of May 29th after a two weeks illness in the City Hospital, an illness which she bore with Christian patience and fortitude, passing to her eternal rest after the best of medical and nursing care had proved fruitless to combat the disease with which she was stricken.

A pupil of Grade six of St. Joseph's Convent, Gloria was a universal favorite with her classmates a fact which was well borne out by the large attendance at her funeral.

Very mild mannered Gloria had a big future stretching in front of her until stricken with her fatal illness. Hopes were held for her ultimate recovery but God willed otherwise and her gentle spirit winged its way heavenward on the above-mentioned date.

Left to mourn the loss of a loving daughter are her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Arsenault of Edward Street, City, and one sister and four brothers; Patricia, Robert Jr., (Bobby), David, Ivan and Ian.

The funeral was held from the A. A. Hennessey Funeral Home on Friday, May 31st to St. Dunstan's Basilica, Requiem Mass being celebrated by Rev. George McCormack who also officiated at the grave.

Pallbearers of the deceased were six uncles, Messrs. Gilbert Arsenault, and Phillip, Henry, Fred, Frank and Ivan Gallant.

Eternal Rest Grant Unto Her, O Lord, and Let Perpetual Light Shine Upon Her."

"May her soul rest in peace."

(St. John Telegraph Journal)

A large number of the congregation of Westfield United Church were present at an impressive service at the church when Donald Graham Littlejohns, son of Rev. and Mrs. F. H. Littlejohns, Westfield, was licensed to preach the gospel by a commission of the Saint John Presbytery. He will be ordained on June 16 at the Maritime Conference and later will leave for Saskatchewan to begin his ministry.

Rev. Cater Windsor, chairman of the presbytery, presided; Rev. G. F. Sears read the scripture and Rev. A. Long offered prayer. A challenging sermon was delivered by Rev. J. H. MacLean, and a combined choir of the Westfield and Grand Bay United Church led in the singing.

Following the service, a social period was conducted in the church hall. Refreshments were served by members of the Westfield and Grand Bay Women's Associations. Assisting in serving were: Mrs. G. A. Lockhart, Mrs. W. G. Usher, Mrs. H. Mealey, Mrs. R. Harper, Mrs. A. Cox, Mrs J. Pogson, Mrs. R. Damery, Mrs. V. Rutherford, Miss M. Mealey, Miss E. Rupert, Miss Shirley Baxter, Miss B. The new licentiate was born in Charlottetown, P. E. I. He was educated in the public schools of the Maritimes and received his bachelor of arts degree in 1941 from Dalhousie University. He was accepted as a candidate for the ministry and graduated with honors from Pine Hill United Church College this spring.
