

MACHINE REPAIRS
ENGINES—IMPLEMENTS—MILL MACHINERY
FOUNDRY WORK
IRON AND BRASS CASTINGS
HALL & STAVERT
 34 QUEEN ST. CHARLOTTETOWN

Music Club Hears Fine Piano Recital

At the January meeting of the Women's Music Club held last night at the Hotel Charlottetown the members and their guests enjoyed a splendid recital by Miss Elaine Burns pianist.

Miss Burns, of the staff of the Halifax Conservatory of Music, is a brilliant young artist who is rapidly becoming widely known by her radio and concert work.

Her well chosen programme was ideally representative of music from the eighteenth century to the present day including familiar old masters—the favourites Beethoven and Chopin, and less well known works of the Italian, Scarlatti. With the more descriptive moderns, MacDowell and Scott, Miss Burns was perhaps at her most appealing. Her interpretive power and command of the keyboard were particularly evident in the modern group.

Miss Burns' encores—Swinstead's "To the Moon," Schubert's "Impromptu" and Scherzo in B Flat, and Grieg's enchanting "Puck" were also beautifully played and an additional joy which the large audience appreciated to the full.

Following is Miss Burns' complete programme.

- Scarlatti
 Bourree.
 Sonata B Minor.
 Gigue.
- Beethoven
 Sonata, Op. 10 No. 1.
 Allegro Mo to E Cpn Brio.
 Adagio Molto.
 Prestissimo.
- Chopin
 Prelude, Op. 28 No. 3.
 Berceuse, Op. 57.
 Fantaisie, Op. 49.
- MacDowell
 The Eagle.
 He clasps the crag with crooked hands;
 Close to the sun in lonely lands,
 Ring'd with the azure world, he stands.
- Debussy
 Arabesque, No. 2.
- Scott
 Lotus Land.
- Liszt
 Dance of the Cyclops.
- Dohnanyi
 Rhapsodie, C. Major.

The Central Guardian

This column is reserved for news of local interest but advertising of a new nature may be inserted at 5 cents a word strictly payable in advance.

CRASWELL for Photographs.

CONFEDERATION LIFE INSURANCE. L-9789-7-21-311.

BAND AT FORUM TONIGHT. Admission 25c. L-589-1-17-11.

THE NIGHTINGALE BRIDGE CLUB composed of nine graduate nurses of the Prince Edward Island Hospital are among the many groups doing Red Cross knitting for soldiers. In addition to this the Club recently donated $5.00 to the Junior Red Cross Crippled Children's Fund.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS S. S. TEACHING. In the annual report of St. James Sunday School submitted at the congregational meeting on Monday mention was made of the fact that Mrs. W. A. Stewart had conducted the Kindergarten Class for a quarter of a century. Nearly all the young people now members of the school, both boys and girls, have had the foundation of their faith and spiritual life laid by Mrs. Stewart's kindly and patient teaching. The report also mentioned the fact that the recipient of many personal congratulations.

FULL SILVERS AVERAGE 437. Bidding for silver foxes continued strong to the close of the four-day auction held by the New York Auction Company. Full silvers showed an advance of 15 per cent over the December levels. Three-quarter and one-half silvers, 10 per cent, and undescrbed, 20 per cent. The average for full silvers was $37; for three-quarters, $22; for halves, $16; one-quarters, $13, and slightly silvered, $9. About 87 per cent of the offering of 25,000 skins was sold.

KUHN-CAMERON. The marriage of Florence Muriel Cameron, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Cameron, formerly of Moncton, now of Bellaire, Long Island, N. Y., to Henry W. Kuhn, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Kuhn, of Queens Village, L. I., was solemnized on January 11, in the Grace Lutheran Church, Queens Village, with Rev. Louis S. Wagner officiating. A reception for the bride and groom was held in the home of Mrs. Kuhn in Queens Village. The bride wore a rose crepe gown, a matching hat, with blue veil and long train. The bride's attendant, Miss Be. Garrett, of New York City, was given in a pink ensemble. The bride's brother, Charles Vernon Cameron, later in the day, was given in a blue suit and sea toas. The bride's bridesmaid, Miss Be. Garrett, of New York City, was given in a pink ensemble. The bride's brother, Charles Vernon Cameron, later in the day, was given in a blue suit and sea toas. The bride's bridesmaid, Miss Be. Garrett, of New York City, was given in a pink ensemble.

National Conservative Convention

A Convention of the National Conservative Party of the First District of Kings will be held at the County Court House in Souris on Tuesday, January 23rd, 1940, at the hour of two o'clock.

Each Poll will send five delegates. Dated this 15th day of January 1940.

J. F. STERNES,
 President Kings County National Conservative Association.
 L-596-1-17-31.

Trinity United Church

WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 17
 3.30—7th Brownies—Social Hall.
 6.30—7th Guides—Social Hall.
 7.30—Prayer and Praise—Heartz Hall.
 8.30—Official Board—Ladies' Parlor.

The Eastern Guardian

This column is reserved for news of local interest but advertising of a new nature may be inserted at 2 cents a word strictly payable in advance.

SUBSCRIPTIONS to the Charlottetown Guardian may be sent to their Rept. Archie Hume.

THE SACRAMENT of the Lord's Supper was observed in Montague United Church on Sunday morning—L.

PAINFUL ACCIDENT. Little Jessie Hutcheson, Montague, met with a serious accident on Saturday, when skating in the rink she fell and some one ran into the little girl, breaking her arm—L.

WINTER ICE RACES. The Oyster Bed Drive Club recognized at a meeting held on Dec. 23rd with a fair attendance of horsemen, and judging from the amount of race horses around Oyster Bed Bridge and vicinity this district is in for a good winter's sport. Racing by this club will be held weekly if possible. Watch this paper for racing dates.

JUNIOR HOCKEY. The Junior Hockey Team, the Tigers of Montague and Rough Riders, played their usual game on Saturday morning in the Rink. The Tigers scoring 3 goals over the Rough Riders, by brilliant plays made by Dick MacLean, Stirling Lane and Allan Nelson—L.

SUDDEN DEATH. Mr. John Munn, Montague, passed away suddenly on Saturday night. Mr. Munn's eyesight failed some time ago and for the past year he has been totally blind. Last week while coming down stairs he missed a step and fell, cutting himself so that several stitches were necessary and death resulted from the injury and shock as Mr. Munn was well along in years—L.

FUNERAL SERVICES. Funeral services were held at the home of Mr. Duncan Macdonald, Montague on Monday at 1 o'clock for the late Mr. John Munn, the service was conducted by his pastor, Rev. O. T. Hughes of the Presbyterian Church. After the service the remains were taken by motor hearse to Murray River and was met there by the hearse from Wood Islands where further services will be held Tuesday. The Oddfellows of Hillside Lodge were in attendance. This arrangement was made owing to the con-

ADDRESS AND PRESENTATION

On Saturday evening, January 13, 1940, upwards of one hundred people gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Howard, Cornwall, to do honor to the boys of Cornwall and York Point districts who have enlisted to serve for King and Country.

Mr. John E. Heartz who served in the Great War 1914-18 acted as Chairman and after brief remarks called on Mrs. J. W. Bell who read a very complimentary address to the following young men who have answered the call to service.

Airman Ronald Butler.
 Airman Charles MacArthur.
 Pie, Bruce MacPhail.
 Pie, Andrew Gass.
 Pie, John Water.
 Pie, James Yeo.
 Jack McEachern, York Point son of Mr. A. C. McEachern, who also served in the Great War and presented the gifts on behalf of the members of the Cornwall-York Point Women's Institute.

Rev. E. R. Woodside, Cornwall, spoke a few words of admonition to the boys, and wished them well.

Mrs. Frank Howard spoke on behalf of the Institute members and Mr. John E. Heartz rendered a patriotic solo which was much enjoyed. A pleasant social time was spent, after which lunch was served by the Institute ladies and ice cream by the hostess.

A hearty vote of thanks was moved by the President, Mrs. Jack MacPhail to Mr. and Mrs. Howard for their generous hospitality and the gathering closed with the National Anthem.

(Patriot please copy)

CENTRAL ROYALTY INSTITUTE

The Central Royalty W. I. held their meeting at the home of Mrs. W. Wood, 14 members were present. The President, Mrs. E. Roper, presided. Roll Call responded to by New Year's Resolution. Minutes of last meeting read and approved. Committees heard from and new ones appointed.

Sick Committee—Mrs. C. Wood and Mrs. W. Lank.

School Committee—Mrs. W. McLeod and Mrs. A. Agnew.

Program Committee—Mrs. W. Ward.

Red Cross Committee—Mrs. H. MacAusland.

Mrs. MacRae reported 28 pairs socks and 3 sweaters turned into Red Cross Office. Letters of thanks were read from two residents of the district for Christmas Boxes sent to them.

Collection was taken for Cancer Fund amounting to $2.55. Questionnaire on Public Health and Child Welfare filled in by Mrs. W. Wood. Meeting adjourned and a delicious lunch served by the hostess. Next meeting at the home of Mrs. W. Lank, roll call to be 2 minutes talk on a selected subject.

(Patriot please copy)

PERSONALS

Miss Alice Fraser, Charlottetown, spent the week end in Montague—L.

Sunday visitors to Montague were Major and Mrs. Craig, Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Shaw, Charlottetown, Mr. and Mrs. A. Rodd, Miss Vera Rodd, Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Rodd, Milton—L.

Admission Macdonald, Danie MacCormac and Poch Macdonald of the Royal Canadian Artillery, Charlottetown, wish to acknowledge with thanks the nine pair of socks which they received from the Souks Line Road, Catholic Women's League.

PERSONALS

Mr. E. F. Acorn has returned home from the P. E. I. Hospital.

Mrs. A. Gordon Banks, Halifax, N. S., is visiting her sister, Mrs. A. R. Gillis and Mr. Gillis.

Miss Laura Dolron of Rusticoville, left January the 5th for Antigonish, N. S.

Miss Blanche Keenan has arrived from Moncton to visit her aunt Mrs. Arthur Richard, Water Street.

Mrs. William Cullen, R. N., North Westport, is doing nicely after an operation in the City Hospital.

Lt.-Col. L. T. Lowther, left yesterday morning for the mainland from where he will leave for England shortly.

Mrs. Catherine Walsh, 182 King Street, has entered the City Hospital for treatment.

Mrs. V. T. Howatt and son Alexander spent the week end at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wallace MacNeil, Milton.

Miss Mary Croken R. N., spent the weekend visiting the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Croken Emerald Junction.

Lance Corp. Arthur Wellner, who has been spending a few days leave with his parents Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Wellner leaves on return this morning to the mainland.

Messrs. John Hickox and Allan Hickox, Springfield, arrived home Saturday after attending the funeral of their father-in-law, Mr. Fred Frame, Princeport, N. S.

The many friends of Mrs. John Luick of Crapaud, will regret to learn of her illness in the P. E. I. Hospital, having undergone a serious operation. Her condition is satisfactory.

—Cartoon by Knight, The Windsor Star

PERSONALS

Mr. E. F. Acorn has returned home from the P. E. I. Hospital.

Mrs. A. Gordon Banks, Halifax, N. S., is visiting her sister, Mrs. A. R. Gillis and Mr. Gillis.

Miss Laura Dolron of Rusticoville, left January the 5th for Antigonish, N. S.

Miss Blanche Keenan has arrived from Moncton to visit her aunt Mrs. Arthur Richard, Water Street.

Mrs. William Cullen, R. N., North Westport, is doing nicely after an operation in the City Hospital.

Lt.-Col. L. T. Lowther, left yesterday morning for the mainland from where he will leave for England shortly.

Mrs. Catherine Walsh, 182 King Street, has entered the City Hospital for treatment.

Mrs. V. T. Howatt and son Alexander spent the week end at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wallace MacNeil, Milton.

Miss Mary Croken R. N., spent the weekend visiting the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Croken Emerald Junction.

Lance Corp. Arthur Wellner, who has been spending a few days leave with his parents Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Wellner leaves on return this morning to the mainland.

Messrs. John Hickox and Allan Hickox, Springfield, arrived home Saturday after attending the funeral of their father-in-law, Mr. Fred Frame, Princeport, N. S.

The many friends of Mrs. John Luick of Crapaud, will regret to learn of her illness in the P. E. I. Hospital, having undergone a serious operation. Her condition is satisfactory.

PERSONALS

Mr. E. F. Acorn has returned home from the P. E. I. Hospital.

Mrs. A. Gordon Banks, Halifax, N. S., is visiting her sister, Mrs. A. R. Gillis and Mr. Gillis.

Miss Laura Dolron of Rusticoville, left January the 5th for Antigonish, N. S.

Miss Blanche Keenan has arrived from Moncton to visit her aunt Mrs. Arthur Richard, Water Street.

Mrs. William Cullen, R. N., North Westport, is doing nicely after an operation in the City Hospital.

Lt.-Col. L. T. Lowther, left yesterday morning for the mainland from where he will leave for England shortly.

Mrs. Catherine Walsh, 182 King Street, has entered the City Hospital for treatment.

Mrs. V. T. Howatt and son Alexander spent the week end at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wallace MacNeil, Milton.

Miss Mary Croken R. N., spent the weekend visiting the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Croken Emerald Junction.

Lance Corp. Arthur Wellner, who has been spending a few days leave with his parents Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Wellner leaves on return this morning to the mainland.

Messrs. John Hickox and Allan Hickox, Springfield, arrived home Saturday after attending the funeral of their father-in-law, Mr. Fred Frame, Princeport, N. S.

The many friends of Mrs. John Luick of Crapaud, will regret to learn of her illness in the P. E. I. Hospital, having undergone a serious operation. Her condition is satisfactory.

Accused Gives Evidence In Murder Trial

Roy Large On Witness Stand Yesterday, Preceded By Other Defense Witnesses.

The accused in the murder trial of Roy Large, charged with the murder of his wife Cora Blanch Large on August 18 last, gave evidence yesterday afternoon in the Supreme Court by Roy W. Large, charged with murder of his wife Cora Blanch Large on August 18 last. The accused was first questioned by his counsel, Mr. J. Johnston, K. C., and then subjected to a lengthy cross-examination by the Attorney General.

Opening the case yesterday morning before Mr. Justice Macdonald and a jury, Mr. Johnston first reviewed in detail the evidence he proposed to submit, and called several witnesses, including the other sisters and an uncle of the accused, a summary of whose evidence is given in today's issue.

On taking the stand when the afternoon session opened, Mr. Large testified that he was thirty-two years of age. He was married twice, his first wife was Edna B. Harper. There were two children of that marriage, both born in 1937. He married Cora Blanch Large after previously obtaining a divorce from his first wife. At that time one child was already a first of months in the womb. He was divorced from Cora in 1937. He was a member of the Registrar of the Probate Court for the County of Queens, and was in charge of the estate of his wife. He testified that he was in the house at the time of the murder. He testified that he was in the house at the time of the murder. He testified that he was in the house at the time of the murder.

"You had no trouble walking around?"
 "No."
 "You found the lemon extract and in the course of your search you lit on this revolver?"
 "Yes."
 "When did you last see it?"
 "When we were in the Duffy house."
 "You are quite sure you didn't go out there to look for the revolver?"
 "Oh yes."
 "It never entered your mind until you saw it?"
 "Yes."
 "You say you felt that the way things were you would be better off dead. When did that thought first strike you?"
 "The day I was looking at the revolver."
 "While you had it in your hand?"
 "Yes."
 To further questioning witness repeated that he had no previous thought of taking his life. He testified that what stage in his search for the lemon extract did you see the revolver?
 "They were both in the same place."
 "Did you see the revolver while you were picking up the lemon extract?"
 "Yes."
 Continuing under further cross-examination witness said the bottle of lemon extract, it was about half full. He drank all that was left.
 "All this time you were looking at the revolver?"
 "Yes."
 "Then you picked it up and held it in your hand and looked at it?"
 "Yes."
 "When did this thought of doing away with yourself arise, before you picked it up or after?"
 "Just before I picked it up."
 "Before you drank the lemon, or after?"
 "After."
 "So that when you picked up the revolver you had the idea in your mind that you would be better off dead?"
 "Yes."
 "Did you have an idea in your mind that somebody else would be better off dead?"
 "No sir."
 Mr. Johnston: "I thought you couldn't ask that question."
 Attorney General: "I can ask any questions I like on cross-examination. My learned friend in his opening statement suggested that if you had met two other gentlemen in the town you might have used it on them. Did you have any such notion in your mind?"
 Witness: "No sir."
 "So that your counsel was simply drawing his imagination when he said that?"
 Mr. Johnston: "He is not going to say too much, now I told you he was not going to say anything against his wife."
 Attorney General: "My learned friend shouldn't have mentioned it, then. In opening his case to the jury he should have confined his remarks to what the accused was going to say."
 The cross-examination continuing, witness said he returned to his father's house about 1:30 with the revolver in his pocket. He could walk fairly well. He went to the phone and called his wife. He had no trouble getting to the phone, or giving the number. He called her up to ask her to reconsider what she was doing.
 Attorney General: "What did you mean by that?"
 Witness: "Breakin' up our marriage and putting our little fellow in the home."
 Continuing, witness said he was not sure if his wife said anything about her going away, or anything else. He said he heard her say she was in the father's house. He and Cora talked together about the divorce, before they were married. She had known all the time he was divorced in the States, but she said she had learned it was not legal.

"Was she sober?"
 "As far as I know."
 "Finally when you found that she wouldn't change her mind you took out the revolver?"
 "Yes."
 "Which pocket did you have it in?"
 "The right pocket."
 "Were you facing her?"
 "Yes."
 "So that she could see you taking the revolver out of your pocket?"
 "Yes."
 "And she then tried to get it?"
 "She did get it."
 "Was she still sitting?"
 "No, she was on her feet then."
 "You say she got out into the hall and ran through the doorway into the ante-room?"
 "She just started."
 "Where did you first catch her?"
 "Just about the kitchen door."
 "She was pulling through the door and you were pulling her back?"
 "I wasn't pulling her, I was trying to get the gun."
 "By which wrist did you hold her?"
 "I am not sure."
 "Were you holding her, pulling her?"
 "I was trying to pull the gun out of her hand."
 "Did you have hold of the gun?"
 "Yes, some of the time."
 "Which part of it?"
 "I don't know."
 "Was your finger on the trigger?"
 "Not that I know of."
 "In the course of this tussle, the gun went off? This would happen?"
 "Yes."
 "Where were you then?"
 "I don't know."
 "What happened as a result of this first explosion? Did you hear more than one?"
 "Yes, there was more than one."
 "You mentioned a report after you fell down. Did you hear more than one report while you were still falling?"
 "Yes, there was more than one."
 "Do you know how many?"
 "No, I don't know."
 "It may have been two, or three, or four?"
 "Yes."
 "And you don't recall pulling the trigger or having your finger on the trigger? You know it is possible that the trigger might catch somehow and go off, pulling accidentally, and you don't think it reasonable to suppose that this would happen three or four times within a few seconds?"
 Witness reply was inaudible.
 The Court: "Who was the first to do you know that?"
 Witness: "No."
 Attorney General: "You knew that this revolver was a dangerous weapon if it was not landed carefully?"
 Witness: "Yes."
 Jury Foreman: "Did she have possession of the gun at one time?"
 Witness: "Yes."
 "Did she grab it by the barrel, or how?"
 "I had it part way out of my pocket when she grabbed it. She didn't know what part she caught."
 "After further questioning, Attorney General: "Did she scream when she grabbed the revolver?"
 Witness: "I don't remember. She was screaming when we were tussling."
 "If you don't know at what star?"
 "No."
 "Did you tell her what you were going to do with the revolver?"
 "No."
 "You didn't give her any explanation at all when you pulled it out?"
 "I don't think so."
 Continuing under cross-examination, witness denied that he was trying to intimidate his wife.
 Attorney General: "But you took the revolver back to your pocket and you were going to take it to your wife's home. You could have found a better place than that, couldn't you?"
 Witness did not reply.
 "I can understand the force of your reasoning if you pulled the revolver out of your pocket and said, 'If you don't change your mind I will shoot myself.' But you say you were not going to do that. You didn't say anything to your wife. In other words, that revolver had no place at all to play in the visit to your wife?"
 "No."
 "But before you went there you made sure the revolver was loaded. Where did you load it?"
 "On the way up."
 Continuing, witness repeated that he had no intention of taking his own life.
 "Each time you handled the revolver your fixed intention was to commit suicide, provided you couldn't obtain a change in your own intention?"
 "Yes."
 "You say you felt that you would be better off dead?"
 "Yes."
 "What did you have for your wife after you were gone?"
 Witness did not reply.
 George Doyle, the next witness, said in reply to Mr. Johnston that he had intended to appear for the crown. He had not been called as a Crown witness. He was employed by the physician at the hospital and at the jail. He had no recollection of the murder, except for a man in the room at the hospital.
 Mr. Johnston: "Why did you stay in the room all the time?"
 Witness: "To watch him."
 "Why?"
 "I was afraid he might get away or something like that."
 "What do you mean by anything?"
 Witness made no further instructions. He was not definite. He did not stop prisoner's friends from giving him words of encouragement. He had seen the man in the room at the hospital.
 Mr. Johnston: "Had you any instructions to prevent him from trying to commit suicide when he was out in jail?"

Cross Examined

Cross examined by the Attorney General, witness said he saw his wife quite frequently in the two months preceding her death; two or three times every day. They were always on friendly relations. The application to the Children's Court was the first real friction that arose between them. He had not heard of the application until supper time the day before the Court met. He was very much surprised at Mr. Brawder's note, but he was not annoyed. He thought it pretty drastic action. He did not blame anyone. He had already seen his wife that morning. She had not mentioned anything about the application. Everything was peaceable and friendly before that. His wife and Mrs. Crocket gave evidence before Magistrate at the Children's Court. After that he went and had some drinks.

Attorney General: "How many places did you go to?"
 Witness: "Three."
 "You went to three separate places?"
 Mr. Johnston: "There are a many places in the town, Mr. Attorney General."
 Attorney General: "How many drinks did you have?"
 Witness: "Six or seven."
 "Was it rum you had?"
 "It was drinks of what you would call rum."
 "What were the others?"
 "Alcohol."
 Witness could not recall when he got home to his father's. They were at dinner. He did not eat with them; he had a couple of raw eggs. He did not know what time he went to the garage. It was after dinner.

Cross Examined

Cross examined by the Attorney General, witness said he saw his wife quite frequently in the two months preceding her death; two or three times every day. They were always on friendly relations. The application to the Children's Court was the first real friction that arose between them. He had not heard of the application until supper time the day before the Court met. He was very much surprised at Mr. Brawder's note, but he was not annoyed. He thought it pretty drastic action. He did not blame anyone. He had already seen his wife that morning. She had not mentioned anything about the application. Everything was peaceable and friendly before that. His wife and Mrs. Crocket gave evidence before Magistrate at the Children's Court. After that he went and had some drinks.

Attorney General: "How many places did you go to?"
 Witness: "Three."
 "You went to three separate places?"
 Mr. Johnston: "There are a many places in the town, Mr. Attorney General."
 Attorney General: "How many drinks did you have?"
 Witness: "Six or seven."
 "Was it rum you had?"
 "It was drinks of what you would call rum."
 "What were the others?"
 "Alcohol."
 Witness could not recall when he got home to his father's. They were at dinner. He did not eat with them; he had a couple of raw eggs. He did not know what time he went to the garage. It was after dinner.

Cross Examined

Cross examined by the Attorney General, witness said he saw his wife quite frequently in the two months preceding her death; two or three times every day. They were always on friendly relations. The application to the Children's Court was the first real friction that arose between them. He had not heard of the application until supper time the day before the Court met. He was very much surprised at Mr. Brawder's note, but he was not annoyed. He thought it pretty drastic action. He did not blame anyone. He had already seen his wife that morning. She had not mentioned anything about the application. Everything was peaceable and friendly before that. His wife and Mrs. Crocket gave evidence before Magistrate at the Children's Court. After that he went and had some drinks.

Attorney General: "How many places did you go to?"
 Witness: "Three."
 "You went to three separate places?"
 Mr. Johnston: "There are a many places in the town, Mr. Attorney General."
 Attorney General: "How many drinks did you have?"
 Witness: "Six or seven."
 "Was it rum you had?"
 "It was drinks of what you would call rum."
 "What were the others?"
 "Alcohol."
 Witness could not recall when he got home to his father's. They were at dinner. He did not eat with them; he had a couple of raw eggs. He did not know what time he went to the garage. It was after dinner.

Cross Examined

Cross examined by the Attorney General, witness said he saw his wife quite frequently in the two months preceding her death; two or three times every day. They were always on friendly relations. The application to the Children's Court was the first real friction that arose between them. He had not heard of the application until supper time the day before the Court met. He was very much surprised at Mr. Brawder's note, but he was not annoyed. He thought it pretty drastic action. He did not blame anyone. He had already seen his wife that morning. She had not mentioned anything about the application. Everything was peaceable and friendly before that. His wife and Mrs. Crocket gave evidence before Magistrate at the Children's Court. After that he went and had some drinks.

Attorney General: "How many places did you go to?"
 Witness: "Three."
 "You went to three separate places?"
 Mr. Johnston: "There are a many places in the town, Mr. Attorney General."
 Attorney General: "How many drinks did you have?"
 Witness: "Six or seven."
 "Was it rum you had?"
 "It was drinks of what you would call rum."
 "What were the others?"
 "Alcohol."
 Witness could not recall when he got home to his father's. They were at dinner. He did not eat with them; he had a couple of raw eggs. He did not know what time he went to the garage. It was after dinner.

Cross Examined

Cross examined by the Attorney General, witness said he saw his wife quite frequently in the two months preceding her death; two or three times every day. They were always on friendly relations. The application to the Children's Court was the first real friction that arose between them. He had not heard of the application until supper time the day before the Court met. He was very much surprised at Mr. Brawder's note, but he was not annoyed. He thought it pretty drastic action. He did not blame anyone. He had already seen his wife that morning. She had not mentioned anything about the application. Everything was peaceable and friendly before that. His wife and Mrs. Crocket gave evidence before Magistrate at the Children's Court. After that he went and had some drinks.

Attorney General: "How many places did you go to?"
 Witness: "Three."
 "You went to three separate places?"
 Mr. Johnston: "There are a many places in the town, Mr. Attorney General."
 Attorney General: "How many drinks did you have?"
 Witness: "Six or seven."
 "Was it rum you had?"
 "It was drinks of what you would call rum."
 "What were the others?"
 "Alcohol."
 Witness could not recall when he got home to his father's. They were at dinner. He did not eat with them; he had a couple of raw eggs. He did not know what time he went to the garage. It was after dinner.

Cross Examined

Cross examined by the Attorney General, witness said he saw his wife quite frequently in the two months preceding her death; two or three times every day. They were always on friendly relations. The application to the Children's Court was the first real friction that arose between them. He had not heard of the application until supper time the day before the Court met. He was very much surprised at Mr. Brawder's note, but he was not annoyed. He thought it pretty drastic action. He did not blame anyone. He had already seen his wife that morning. She had not mentioned anything about the application. Everything was peaceable and friendly before that. His wife and Mrs. Crocket gave evidence before Magistrate at the Children's Court. After that he went and had some drinks.

Attorney General: "How many places did you go to?"
 Witness: "Three."
 "You went to three separate places?"
 Mr. Johnston: "There are a many places in the town, Mr. Attorney General."
 Attorney General: "How many drinks did you have?"
 Witness: "Six or seven."
 "Was it rum you had?"
 "It was drinks of what you would call rum."
 "What were the others?"
 "Alcohol."
 Witness could not recall when he got home to his father's. They were at dinner. He did not eat with them; he had a couple of raw eggs. He did not know what time he went to the garage. It was after dinner.

Cross Examined

Cross examined by the Attorney General, witness said he saw his wife quite frequently in the two months preceding her death; two or three times every day. They were always on friendly relations. The application to the Children's Court was the first real friction that arose between them. He had not heard of the application until supper time the day before the Court met. He was very much surprised at Mr. Brawder's note, but he was not annoyed. He thought it pretty drastic action. He did not blame anyone. He had already seen his wife that morning. She had not mentioned anything about the application. Everything was peaceable and friendly before that. His wife and Mrs. Crocket gave evidence before Magistrate at the Children's Court. After that he went and had some drinks.

Attorney General: "How many places did you go to?"
 Witness: "Three."
 "You went to three separate places?"
 Mr. Johnston: "There are a many places in the town, Mr. Attorney General."
 Attorney General: "How many drinks did you have?"
 Witness: "Six or seven."
 "Was it rum you had?"
 "It was drinks of what you would call rum."
 "What were the others?"
 "Alcohol."
 Witness could not recall when he got home to his father's. They were at dinner. He did not eat with them; he had a couple of raw eggs. He did not know what time he went to the garage. It was after dinner.

Cross Examined

Cross examined by the Attorney General, witness said he saw his wife quite frequently in the two months preceding her death; two or three times every day. They were always on friendly relations. The application to the Children's Court was the first real friction that arose between them. He had not heard of the application until supper time the day before the Court met. He was very much surprised at Mr. Brawder's note, but he was not annoyed. He thought it pretty drastic action. He did not blame anyone. He had already seen his wife that morning. She had not mentioned anything about the application. Everything was peaceable and friendly before that. His wife and Mrs. Crocket gave evidence before Magistrate at the Children's Court. After that he went and had some drinks.

Attorney General: "How many places did you go to?"
 Witness: "Three."
 "You went to three separate places?"
 Mr. Johnston: "There are a many places in the town, Mr. Attorney General."
 Attorney General: "How many drinks did you have?"
 Witness: "Six or seven."
 "Was it rum you had?"
 "It was drinks of what you would call rum."
 "What were the others?"
 "Alcohol."
 Witness could not recall when he got home to his father's. They were at dinner. He did not eat with them; he had a couple of raw eggs. He did not know what time he went to the garage. It was after dinner.

Cross Examined

Cross examined by the Attorney General, witness said he saw his wife quite frequently in the two months preceding her death; two or three times every day. They were always on friendly relations. The application to the Children's Court was the first real friction that arose between them. He had not heard of the application until supper time the day before the Court met. He was very much surprised at Mr. Brawder's note, but he was not annoyed. He thought it pretty drastic action. He did not blame anyone. He had already seen his wife that morning. She had not mentioned anything about the application. Everything was peaceable and friendly before that. His wife and Mrs. Crocket gave evidence before Magistrate at the Children's Court. After that he went and had some drinks.

Attorney General: "How many places did you go to?"
 Witness: "Three."
 "You went to three separate places?"
 Mr. Johnston: "There are a many places in the town, Mr. Attorney General."
 Attorney General: "How many drinks did you have?"
 Witness: "Six or seven."
 "Was it rum you had?"
 "It was drinks of what you would call rum."
 "What were the others?"
 "Alcohol."
 Witness could not recall when he got home to his father's. They were at dinner. He did not eat with them; he had a couple of raw eggs. He did not know what time he went to the garage. It was after dinner.

Cross Examined

Cross examined by the Attorney General, witness said he saw his wife quite frequently in the two months preceding her death; two or three times every day. They were always on friendly relations. The application to the Children's Court was the first real friction that arose between them. He had not heard of the application until supper time the day before the Court met. He was very much surprised at Mr. Brawder's note, but he was not annoyed. He thought it pretty drastic action. He did not blame anyone. He had already seen his wife that morning. She had not mentioned anything about the application. Everything was peaceable and friendly before that. His wife and Mrs. Crocket gave evidence before Magistrate at the Children's Court. After that he went and had some drinks.

Attorney General: "How many places did you go to?"
 Witness: "Three."
 "You went to three separate places?"
 Mr. Johnston: "There are a many places in the town, Mr. Attorney General."
 Attorney General: "How many drinks did you have?"
 Witness: "Six or seven."
 "Was it rum you had?"
 "It was drinks of what you would call rum."
 "What were the others?"
 "Alcohol."
 Witness could not recall when he got home to his father's. They were at dinner. He did not eat with them; he had a couple of raw eggs. He did not know what time he went to the garage. It was after dinner.

Cross Examined

Cross examined by the Attorney General, witness said he saw his wife quite frequently in the two months preceding her death; two or three times every day. They were always on friendly relations. The application to the Children's Court was the first real friction that arose between them. He had not heard of the application until supper time the day before the Court met. He was very much surprised at Mr. Brawder's note, but he was not annoyed. He thought it pretty drastic action. He did not blame anyone. He had already seen his wife that morning. She had not mentioned anything about the application. Everything was peaceable and friendly before that. His wife and Mrs. Crocket gave evidence before Magistrate at the Children's Court. After that he went and had some drinks.

Attorney General: "How many places did you go to?"
 Witness: "Three."
 "You went to three separate places?"
 Mr. Johnston: "There are a many places in the town, Mr. Attorney General."
 Attorney General: "How many drinks did you have?"
 Witness: "Six or seven."
 "Was it rum you had?"
 "It was drinks of what you would call rum."
 "What were the others?"
 "Alcohol."
 Witness could not recall when he got home to his father's. They were at dinner. He did not eat with them; he had a couple of raw eggs. He did not know what time he went to the garage. It was after dinner.