ULSTER AND HOME RULE

(Canadian Press.)
LONDON, Special Cable, May 13.—The London correspondent of the Belfast news letter, writing before yesterday's proceedings, says the Commons would only be doing its duty if, instead of accepting Asquith's closure resolution, it ordered the Government to produce at once the plan for the exclusion of Ulster. Unfortunately the Unionists are not strong enough to employ such a measure, hence it looks as if the tactics of the Government would once more be strong enough to deprive Ulster of another protective measure. Fortunately the Unionists have one unshakable argument. In the form of 100,000 Ulster volunteers to point to as proof that are feeling strong against Home Rule with Ulster included in the terms of the compulsory pact.

When the United States Declared its Independence

In the year 1776 Charles Robin was founding his first fishing and trading post at Pasphebiac on the Gaspe Coast of Quebec.

At the outset he met with many reverses, having his stores plundered and his vessel captured by American privateers, and he was after a time forced to leave the country for two years. He returned to the close of the Revolution in 1783 and from that period prospered and crowned his efforts.

From this humble beginning so long ago at Pasphebiac has been evolved, after successive amalgamations with other companies, the great fishery house of Robin, Jones & Whitman, Limited. This parent company now operates 28 flourishing branches in Nova Scotia, New Brunswick and Quebec, with headquarters at Halifax, and has just published an excellent report for its fiscal year, ending March 31st last.

This report mentions a new dividend distribution which will prove interesting to investors. A copy of the report may be had on application of our office.
