Horometer Is Public Choice BUY GEM LYE

(Canadian Press) TORONTO, May 8.—A lanky brown gelding, yet to taste defeat has been installed as public choice for the 75th running of the King's Plate, annual classic of Canadian turfdom.

From more than two score of the best three-year-olds and up Ontario racing stables could produce, R. S. McLaughlin's three-year-old Horometer has become the strongest favorite in years for the oldest continuously-run fixture in North America.

The consistent son of Hourless, out of Star Pal has been selected as unanimously as any racing favorite could be. Horometer holds a reputation in never losing his many starts as a juvenile. Also there is a mediocre field of 1934 candidates. The present list probably will be cut down to about a dozen for the opening of the Woodbine meeting, Saturday, May 19.

Making first choice more delicate is the entry with the McLaughlin candidate of another gelding, Pitchblende, along with Mad Miss, the little bay daughter of Mad Hatter and French Miss, from the stable of R. W. R. Cowie, owner of the King's Plate in 1931 and 1932.

Horometer's Pitchblende and Mad Miss are all under the ownership of the veteran trainer, Harry Giddings, saddler of Cowie's filly Queensway which set the plate record of 1:55 1-5 for the mile and an eighth in 1932.

There is every probability, however, Mad Miss, a capable mudder, will be withdrawn unless the race is heavy going. J. T. Smallman's Andron by Merry Monarch from Ifs and Andis, is about the most definite third choice.

The King's Plate is worth 50 guineas from the King, with $7,500 added by the Ontario Jockey Club. Stringent rules of the Plate, first donated by Queen Victoria in 1859, confine the contest to Ontario-bred three-year-olds and up who have never won a race since graduating from juvenile company. It was for the purpose of encouraging the breeding of thoroughbreds in the province, the fixture was inaugurated. The Earl of Minto, former governor-general of Canada said on his return to England: "Nothing, in my opinion has done more good for horse breeding in Canada than the King's Plate run at Toronto."

Until 1883, the Queen's Plate, as it was then known, was run at various Ontario tracks—London, Hamilton, St. Catharines, Whitby, Kingston, Ottawa, Barrie, Woodstock, Prescott and Port Hope. Finally, under sanction from the Queen, the race was established permanently in Toronto. Purchasers may have the privilege of buying 50 acres or more, including buildings, balance subdivided to suit purchaser's balance. WESLEY R. DINNIS, VICTOR H. SHAW, Administrators.

BRINGING UP FATHER

Best Grasses For Home Lawns

The Experimental Farm at Fredericton, N. B. of the Dominion Department of Agriculture, is famous among other things as an authority on the growing of pasture and other grasses, and on that account Mr. L. O. Young of that Farm was asked to deliver an address at the University of Maine, Orono, on grasses for the home lawn. After having described the characteristics of an ideal lawn and having dealt in detail with the various grasses suitable for lawns, Mr. Young recommended for the average lawn a mixture of 4 parts Kentucky Blue grass and one part Red Top at the rate of 3 to 4 pounds per 1,000 square feet of lawn. If it was desired to include white clover, one-eighth part should be added to the above mixture. Where this mixture does not give satisfactory results owing to local conditions, Rhode Island bent grass should be used at the rate of 2 to 3 pounds per 1,000 square feet. For shady areas, one-third the quantity of Rough-Stalked Meadow grass should be added. As Mr. Young points out, failure to grow in shady places is due more often to conditions of low fertility and lack of moisture than to the shade itself. It has been the experience at Fredericton that, if these conditions are remedied, the standard mixture of Kentucky Blue grass and Red Top will prove quite satisfactory in most situations.

Lawn grasses may be grouped broadly under two general headings—A, the bent grasses, and B, the blue grasses and others. The more familiar bent grasses are Red Top, Rhode Island Bent, Velvet Bent, and Creeping Bent. Red Top produces a fine quality of turf generally speaking, though not as fine as some of the other bents. It is aggressive but lacks durability and permanency and for use as other reasons Red Top is commonly sown in a mixture of Kentucky Blue grass. Rhode Island Bent is smaller and much finer in texture than Red Top, but does not form as compact a sod as Creeping Bent. Rhode Island Bent makes a very fine turf and is recommended on general lawns where Kentucky Blue grass will not thrive. Velvet Bent is undoubtedly the finest of all bent grasses grown from seed for lawns and greens but requires special care and is recommended only under special conditions. It is practically impossible at Fredericton to secure a pure strain of Velvet Bent. With regard to Creeping Bent, the many different strains vary greatly in the type of turf they produce, but if a really good strain, such as Advertiser or Washington, is selected, and proper care taken of the green, the result will be the finest turf in the world. However, from their nature of growth, the bent grasses are very aggressive, and for some reason must be closely cut or tangled mass of runners will be the result. They require abundant moisture and special care in the way of top-dressing and fertilizing. They are also costly in establishment, and for these reasons bent grasses are not recommended for general lawn purposes.

Kentucky Blue grass is the most generally recommended of all lawn grasses. It thrives under a great range of soil and climatic conditions, and is resistant to drought but naturally reaches its best development in a rich moist soil. It produces a firm, even sod of fairly fine texture, and though, of course, not as fine as the bents, is durable, permanent and aggressive. It has the disadvantage of being slow in germination and for that reason "Red Top" is added to the mixture. Kentucky Blue grass is reported in various quarters to be not thriving in acid soils but such has not been the experience at Fredericton. Fertility and not acidity is the limiting factor. Canada Blue grass will grow on poorer soils than Kentucky Blue but does not produce a desirable turf and should not be used for lawn purposes. Chevring's or European Red Fescue and Rough-Stalked grass may be recommended for shady situations. White Dutch Clover may be included in the mixture if desired. It will not grow on an acid soil, but under satisfactory conditions it will prove permanent and has an added advantage in that it is always green—even immediately after cutting and during dry weather.

HISTORIC SITE TO BE MARKED SAINT JOHN, N. B., May 8.—(C. P.) Establishment of Presbyterianism in New Brunswick 150 years ago will receive public recognition on or about May 18, when a shaft of granite bearing an inscription will be unveiled and dedicated outside of St. Andrew's Kirk, where the first Presbyterian Church in New Brunswick was founded in 1784.

The United Church Presbytery of Saint John has approved the preparations. Last spring the Presbytery superintended the erection of a bronze tablet commemorating the organization of the first Methodist congregation here. The site of local Congregationalism, that historic church now within the United Church, also is due for future marking.

A fund started by young people of St. Andrew's Kirk towards establishment of the Presbyterian memorial has been increased by a donation from the New York City. Many of the Loyalist Presbyterian churches who organized the Church here, it is believed, had been members of the New York congregation founded as early as 1715.

BERMUDA GOVERNOR SCORES HABITS OF YOUNG GENERATION HAMILTON, Bermuda, May 9.—(C. P.) Bermudians seldom left their native isle to seek adventure abroad for two reasons—"the picnic habit and a lack of parental discipline." His Excellency, the Governor, Lieutenant General Sir T. Atley Cubitt declared in speaking at a ceremony at Saltus Grammar School.

"The picnic habit is inculcated very early and grows and grows until you come to adolescence. Bodily it is excellent but I do not think it is good mentally, for when you come to adolescence a great many of you cannot break the habit and you are unwilling to leave your islands and go away and seek what I call fresh conquests overseas."

The Governor continued: "The other cause of this disinclination is I think, want of discipline in this island. It may be ludicrous to doubt that—but probably it is because the parents, to my English way of thinking, were not sufficiently disciplined themselves."

His Excellency would like to see the boys enter the Colonial Civil Service and make themselves available in any part of the British Empire. By doing so, he declared they would pay their Bermuda flag a tribute and incidentally confer a great benefit upon the Trade Development Board.

Can that elephant do tricks? The elegantly dressed young man asked the keeper at the circus. Rather, said the keeper. We've taught him to put money in that box up there. Give him half-a-crown and he'll do it.

The elephant took the coin and deftly placed it in the box upon the wall. Remarkable! cried the young man. Now let's see him take it out again. We haven't taught him that yet, blandly replied the keeper.

HIS CRUTCHES BOILED KETTLE

Once Crippled with Rheumatism NOW BACK AT WORK

He was not wrong, either—this man who concluded that he would never need his crutches again. For it is now six years since he burned them, and he is still quite active. Writing of his experiences, he says—

"For five years I was a cripple, due to rheumatism, and was given up as a hopeless case. I also had a bad stomach, and I could never enjoy a meal without my food repeating on me. One day an old friend of mine told me to try Kruschen Salts. So I bought a bottle and gave it a trial. After taking two bottles I was able to sit down and enjoy a good meal, and also have a good sound sleep—a thing I had not done for years. I was also getting about more freely. One morning I got up and lit the fire, and put the coffee on. My mother thought I was crazy, because I saved my old crutches up and boiled the kettle with them. "That was six years ago, and I am now back at my old job as a chef—and a chef puts in some long hours on his feet."—H. A. B.
