

FALSE TEETH ARE A GREAT INVENTION BUT KEEP YOUR OWN AS LONG AS YOU CAN

PYORRHEA threatens all mankind

False teeth often follow pyorrhea, which comes to four people out of five past the age of 40

PYORRHEA lurks in almost every mouth some time during life. This insidious dread disease of the gums preys on four people out of five past the age of forty and is responsible for one-half the false teeth worn today.

Because this dangerous disease works down the roots, between teeth and gums, its vicious presence may go undetected for as long as ten years before tender, bleeding gums warn you that pyorrhea is destroying the health of your mouth.

Act in time—before the gums bleed

At the very first trace of those grim, warning signals, tender or bleeding gums, go to your dentist without delay and start the daily use of Forhan's. If you have been so fortunate as to escape pyorrhea thus far protect yourself from danger by the regular daily use of Forhan's.

Safeguard yourself with the right dentifrice

Don't gamble with just as good's. No other dentifrice can do what Forhan's does. Not only does it protect your mouth from dangerous infections, it cleans your teeth and preserves their whiteness and natural beauty. It cleans without damaging the enamel, for Forhan's contains no harmful abrasives. Its regular use hardens the gums and reduces inflammation, or prevents it. It will give your gums the tingle which comes with the glow of perfect health. In many cases, it will also cause loose teeth to tighten by its astringent action on spongy tissues.

Forhan's is the formula of R. J. Forhan, D.D.S., who for 26 years specialized in the treatment of pyorrhea. It contains Forhan's Astringent, an ethical preparation widely used by dentists in the treatment of this dread disease. Forhan's Limited, Montreal.

The TRAIL OF '98

A Northland Romance
by Robert W. Service
ILLUSTRATIONS BY IRWIN MYERS

"Forget you! No, Berna, I'll never forget you. It cuts me to the heart I can do nothing now, but we'll meet up there. We can't be divided for long. And you'll be all right, believe me, too, little girl. Be good and sweet and true and every one will love you and help you. Ah, you must go. Well—God bless you, Berna."

"And I wish you happiness and success, dear friend of mine."
Suddenly a great impulse of tenderness and pity came over me, and before I knew it my arms were around her. She struggled faintly, but her face was uplifted and her eyes starlike. Then, for a moment of bewildering ecstasy, her lips lay on mine, and I felt them faintly answer.
Poor yielding lips! They were as cold as ice.

CHAPTER IV
Never shall I forget the last I saw of her, forlorn, pathetic figure in black, waving a farewell to me as I stood on the wharf. The gray eyes were clear and steady as she bade good-by to me, and from where we stood apart, her face had all the pathetic sweetness of a Madonna.

Well, she was going, and sad enough her going seemed to me. They were all for Dyes, and the grim old Chilcoat, with its blizzard-beaten steeps, while we had chosen the less precipitous, but more drawout, Skagway trail. Among them I saw the inseparable twins; the grim Hewson, the silent Mervin, each quiet and watchful, as if storing up power for a tremendous effort. There was the large unwholesomeness of Madam Winklestain, all jewelry, smiles and coarse bandage, and near her, her perfumed husband, squinting and smirking adomidably. There was the old man, with his face of a Hebrew seer, his visionary eye now aglow with financial enthusiasm, his lips ever muttering: "Klondike, Klondike!" and lastly, by his side, with a little white smile on her lips, there was the white-faced girl.

How my heart ached for her! But the time for sentiment was at an end. The reign of peace was over; the fight was on. Hundreds of scattered tents; a few frame buildings, mostly saloons, dance halls and gambling joints; an eager, excited mob crowding on the loose sidewalk, floundering kneed in the mire of the streets, struggling and squabbling and cursing over their outfits—that is all I remember of Skagway.

The Prodigal developed a wonderful executive ability; he was a marvel of activity, seemed to think of everything and to glory in his responsibility as a leader. Always cheerful, always thoughtful, he was the brains of our party. He never abated in his efforts a moment, and was an example and a stimulus to us all. I say "all," for we had added the "Jam-wagon" (A Jam-wagon was the general name given to an Englishman on the trail) to our number. It was the Prodigal who discovered him. He was a tall, dissolute Englishman gaunt, ragged and verminous, but with the earmarks of a gentleman. A lost soul in every sense of the word, the North was to him a refuge and an unrestricted stamping-ground. So, partly in pity, partly in hope of winning back his manhood, we allowed him to join the party.

Pack animals were in vast demand, for it was considered a pound of grub was the equal of a pound of gold. We were lucky in buying a yoke of oxen from a packer for four hundred dollars. On the first day we hauled half of our outfit to Canyon City, and on the second we transferred the balance. This was our plan all through, though in bad places we had to make many relays. It was simple enough, yes, oh, the travail of it! All days were hard, exasperating, all crammed with discomfort; yes, bit by bit, we forged ahead. The army before us and the army behind us never faltered. It was an endless procession, in which every man was for himself. There was no mercy, no humanity, no fellowship. All was blasphemy, fury and ruthless determination. It is the spirit of the gold-trail.

At the canyon head was a large camp, and there, very much in evidence, the gambling fraternity. On TAKE TWO—STORY . . . . . one side of the canyon they had established a camp. It was evening, and we three, the Prodigal, Salvation Jim and myself, strolled over to where a three-shell man was holding forth.

It was Mosher, with his bald head, his crafty little eyes, his flat nose, his black beard. I saw Jam's face harden. He had always shown a bitter hatred of this man, and often I wondered why.

We stood a little way off. The crowd thinned and filtered away until but one remained, one of the tall young men from Minnesota. We heard Mosher's rich voice: "Say, pard, bet ten dollars you can't place the bean. See! I put the little joker under here, right before your eyes. Now where is it?" "Here," said the man, touching, one of the shells.

"Right you are, my hearty! Well here's your ten."
The man from Minnesota took the ten and was going away. "Hold on," said Mosher, "how do I know you had the money to cover that bet?"
The man laughed and took from his pocket a wad of bills an inch thick.
Quick as lightning Mosher had snatched the bills from him, and the man from Minnesota found himself gazing into the barrel of a six-shooter.

"This here's my money," said Mosher; "now you git."
A moment only—a shot rang out. I saw the gun fall from Mosher's hand and the roll of bills drop to the ground, the man from Minnesota recovered them and rushed off.
That night I said to Jim: "How did you do it?"
He laughed and showed me a hole in his coat pocket which a bullet had burned.
"Good job you didn't hit him worse."
"Wait a while, sonny, wait a while. There's something mighty familiar about Jake Mosher. He's mighty like a certain Sam Moseley I'm interested in. I've just written a letter outside to see, and if it's him—well, I'm saved; I'm a good Christian, but—God help him!"
"And who was Sam Moseley, Jim?"
"Sam Moseley? Sam Moseley was the skunk that busted up my home and stole my wife, blast him!"
Day after day, each man of us poured out on the trail the last heat of his strength, and the coming of night found us utterly played out. Salvation Jim was full of device and resource, the Prodigal a dynamo of eager energy; but it was the Jam-wagon who proved his mettle in a magnificent and relentless way. Brian Wanless his name, a world tramp, a derelict of the Seven seas. He must once have been a magnificent fellow, and even now, with strength and will-power impaired, he was a man among men, full of quick courage and of a haughty temper. It was ever a word and a blow with him and a fight to the desperate finish.

Albany and Vicinity

Miss Flora MacDonald spent the week end pleasantly in Albany, the guest of her Aunt Mrs. W. F. Cameron.

Congratulations are extended to Mr. and Mrs. Claude Howatt of Cape Traverse on the birth of a young son.

Miss Margaret Noonan, Albany recently spent a few days with her cousin, Miss Evelyn Noonan, Carleton.

Miss Valerie Arnett and Master Billie Arnett, Summerside, motored to Lower Tryon on Sunday, and were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Howatt.

Miss Olive Inman, Principal of Albany Village school, spent the week end in Augustine Cove.

Poultry buyers are predicting a considerable fall in price late in the season for live and dressed poultry. Geese buyers were paying no more than $1.10 cents recently for live geese. The best grade of chickens have dropped eight cents a pound dressed.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Jordan and son, Sheldon of Borden are visiting at Mrs. S. Davidson, Peters Road.

Mrs. MacDonald, Springton, recently visited Albany the guest of her daughter Mrs. Cameron.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur MacFarlane and little daughter, Norma of L. Bedeque recently motored to Glenwood the guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Webster Boulter.

Miss Mary McCarville, R. N. has returned to Charlottetown to her duties in the provincial sanatorium after attending the funeral of her father.

A very successful bazaar and chicken supper was held in Albany Village school Tuesday evening October 27. There was a fairly large crowd attended despite the inclemency of the weather and bad roads. A neat sum was realized which goes toward maps for school. It was under the auspices of the Jubilee Women's Institute.

Painful Piles

Go Quick—No Cutting—No Salves
It takes only one bottle of Dr. J.S. Leonard's prescription—HEM-ROID—to end itching, bleeding, protruding piles even in old, stubborn cases. HEM-ROID succeeds because it heals and restores the affected parts and removes blood congestion in the lower bowel—the cause of piles. Only this internal medicine can do this. That's why salves and cutting fail. Hughes Drug Co., Ltd., says HEM-ROID Tablets must end your Pile misery or more back.

trail where there was so much cruelty, he was constantly on the verge of combat.

"That's a great man," said The Prodigal to me, "a fighter from heel to head. There's one he can't fight though, and that's old man Boose."

MILLVALE INSTITUTE

On October 7th twelve members of the Millvale Women's Institute met at the home of Mrs. Clement Trainer for their regular monthly meeting, which opened with the Ode, followed by repeating the Creed in unison. Roll call was answered with "Receives for removing stains," after which the minutes of last meeting were read and adopted. It was decided by vote that the Institute enlarge the school fifteen feet provided the men supply the rough lumber. A committee of three was appointed to attend to the buying of the material and the hiring of a carpenter. At the next meeting to be held at the home of Mrs. John Hogan, Roll call is to be answered with Conundrums. The following were appointed on the different committees: Sick, Mrs. Irving Parsons, Mrs. Wendell Murphy; Program, Mrs. Ernest Cousins; Mrs. Irving Parsons; Festival, Mrs. Alfred Parsons; Mrs. Kenneth McInnis, Mrs. Wendell, Murphy.

On October 30, ten members of the Millvale W. I. held a special meeting in the school at which they decided to hold a Masquerade, Pic social and dance in the school for the purpose of raising funds to defray expenses of enlarging the school. Mrs. John Parsons and Mrs. Ernest Cousins were appointed to purchase supplies required. The women of the district are to provide fudge.

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Reid and Mr. and Mrs. Elliot Wright, Middleton, were recent visitors to Albany Village.—A.
