

Berlin shifts Spotlight to Donets front

BERLIN Oct. 22—(AP)—Axis armies were described tonight as advancing eastward toward Kharkov and Rostov to carry the fight to a new Russian defence line in the Donets Basin, where the Russian forces were expected to be reinforced by fresh troops from the east.

A Nazi military commentator claimed the high command already had a great new encirclement under way to meet the Russian attempt to guard important war industries along the Donets. So far, the commentator contended, retreating Red army units were being followed so closely they had been unable to do so.

"The hot pursuit of Marshal Budenny's fleeing forces especially threatens the great harbor and industrial city of Rostov on the Don," boasted the commentator Dienst Aus Deutschland.

There were indications that the Germans expect the early fall of Kharkov, in the heart of the Donets Valley. The foreign correspondents were handed German releases pointing out the importance of the city of 854,000.

Military advisers said there were mud, rain and snow on the front, but spokesmen said mechanized and motorized forces had not been halted.

The Germans continued to pound at Moscow's fortification system, Dienst Aus Deutschland observed that "in the German military reports descriptions of going up against strongly fortified lines recur so frequently the conclusion seems warranted that fights within Moscow's fortifications zone are meant."

Officers' Ranks In C. W. A. A. F.

OTTAWA, Oct. 23—(CP)—Top-ranking officer in the Canadian Women's Auxiliary Air Force will be a wing officer or lower, at least for many months and perhaps for years, The Royal Canadian Air Force said today.

The C.W.A.A.F. establishment makes provision for group Captains and Air Commodores but R.C.A.F. headquarters said in a statement "the day is not in sight when any women's cap will be the Golden Oak Leaves of those high ranks."

"On an R.C.A.F. officer's cap," the statement said, "those leaves mean the reward of many years' service as well as of outstanding ability. These standards will be maintained by the sister force too."

"Ability will bring promotion, but with the C.W.A.A.F. as with the R.C.A.F. the second qualification of long and faithful service will be rigidly applied—and the women's force is only now being organized."

The first 150 members of the C.W.A.A.F. were convening in Toronto from all provinces to begin their five-week training course to qualify as officers or non-commissioned officers, and old Havelock College on Jarvis Street has officially assumed the new status as C.W.A.A.F. training depot.

Basil McDonald, R. C. N. spent the week end with his parents Mr. and Mrs. Gus McDonald, here.

Pte. John C. Peters arrived home from Newfoundland last week for a short stay with his wife and family. Pte. Peters reports the weather in the old colony very cold and wintry.

Pte. George McKenzie, who was home for a six day leave, has returned to his post in Quebec.

A wedding of interest took place here last week when Mary Palmer became the bride of George Phalen of Morell. The couple have taken up residence on Mr. Phalen's farm property. Their many friends wish them every success in life.

Miss Clara Ryan, R. N., has returned to the city after a short stay at her home here.

Several students from P.W.C. and S.D.U. spent the Thanksgiving holiday at their homes here.

Mr. Walter Squires and two sons Lloyd and Robert left last week for Halifax, where they are employed as carpenters.

A few fishermen are getting in readiness for the opening of the smelt fishing which gets underway this week. Reports are current that the price of smelts is very high but to get the fish to the American market in good condition is another problem, one that has never been solved for the fishermen. Smelts are packed into warm baggage cars where men can work in suit sleeves in comfort. This soon melts the ice on the fish. Again fish shipped from this vicinity in the morning are heaped up at Charlottetown until the next morning. Everything seems to be against the hard pressed fishermen.

Thrashing got under way here last week but as yet not much has been done as most of the grain is still in the fields some not even cut.

Quite a number of carpenters are working on the new Co-Operative warehouse at Morell and the building will be ready for use very shortly.

Work at the new wharf at Red Head near Morell is about completed or at least as much as will be this season, it being impossible to work owing to the extreme bad weather.

Mr. P. J. Deveaux, merchant, has purchased a light truck for his business.

Mr. and Mrs. Stannis Lapierre have moved from their summer home at the Harbor back to their house here for the winter months.

Chester McLean, C. N. R. welder and his crew are at present working in this vicinity, their cars being stationed at Morell. This crew goes over the road every summer raising the worn joints and other work in the welding line.—B.

Unrest flares in the Balkans

LONDON, Oct. 22—(CP Cable)—Unrest is flaring in the German controlled Balkans. Nazi "atrocities" are reported forcing the Yugoslavs into civil war and the Bulgarians are committing atrocities against the conquered Greeks in Thrace in the hope of provoking resistance which would justify a massacre.

(The Greek government in London on Monday said 15,000 Greeks had died in a series of massacres in Bulgarian-occupied areas.)

Reliable information reaching London confirms that in many instances the Bulgarians have burned some villages or ordered the Greeks to evacuate their homes, which were then given to Bulgarian immigrants.

The Bulgarian intention apparently is to drive out the Greeks from Thrace so that after the war they will be able to contend that the rich tobacco land is inhabited mainly by Bulgarians. The remaining Greeks there would be compelled to Bulgarianize their names.

Meanwhile Czech circles in London report Hitler has ordered Czech-Slovak quislings, whom he received at his headquarters yesterday, to mobilize more men for the German war machine. These sources said that in view of desertions and general dissatisfaction in the Slovak army, many "unreliable" men had been released and a Nazi officer attached to each battalion.

Anti-Nazi Feeling

Reporting anti-German feeling growing in Slovakia, Czech sources pointed out that Hitler could blackmail the Slovaks into anything they said he also could promise rich Russian rewards if the Slovaks complied with his wishes and otherwise could threaten to allow the Hungarians to take over all Slovakia.

Yugoslav peasants are reported by Turkish sources to be hoarding their produce, with the result that eggs and milk are unobtainable in Belgrade. Rioting has occurred outside butcher shops. Coal, charcoal and wood are reported so scarce the Nazis are compelled to forbid the cutting of trees in streets and backyards.

Circles conversant with events in Czech-Slovakia said "many acts" of sabotage and popular demonstrations against Hitler had occurred recently in various Sudeeten centres.

They listed an explosion in the big Kunert factory in Schenklendeburg, which they said was producing explosives. The destruction by fire of a "huge" store of supplies for the German army in a chemical factory at Usti and Labem (Aussig), and the burning on the river Elbe of a freighter carrying supplies to Germany.

They said handbills were distributed in at least two towns exhorting the population "to join the civilized world against the Nazis."

Berlin reports Capture of Stalino; Silent on Moscow

BERLIN, Oct. 21—(AP)—Germany's high command closed the fourth month of the Russian war tonight with a claim of the capture of the southern industrial city of Stalino but it kept silent on its armies around Moscow.

Capture of Stalino, a city of some 455,000 formerly known as Yuzovka, if true placed the German armies within 100 miles of Rostov on the northwest and in the vital of the Donets Basin, in a position to swing in a wide arc around Rostov toward the Don and the Russian Caucasus. Other German columns stand 30 miles west of Rostov on the eastern shores of the sea of Azov, after reportedly taking Taganrog.

The only reference in the day's reports on the central front was an announcement that Gen. Petrov, commander of the Soviet 50th army, had been killed with several of his staff near Bryansk, which is southwest of Moscow, and that 300 wagons and horses had been taken in the mop-up in that same general sector.

The high command said that Dago, last of the group of Russian-held islands off the Estonian coast, was entered Oct. 12 at its southern tip in a surprise German infantry thrust and that a bitter fight raged until today, when six coastal batteries were silenced and 3,000 prisoners taken.

Leningrad was encircled finally, it was said, despite fierce and repeated Soviet counter-attacks.

A military commentator said, however, that Russian counter-attacks were continuing, with tanks and artillery, against the German advance in the Lake Ladoga area east of Leningrad.

TODAY'S WAR MAP

The main defences of Moscow still are holding in the face of German attacks of steadily increasing power. Kalinin, north of Moscow, appears to have been recaptured and held by the Russians, but the Germans edged their way a few miles farther eastward, determined to envelop the city on the north. The enemy has cut the railway to Leningrad which runs northward and also the railway that runs due north. So far the Germans have not established a front here wide enough to be very dangerous, but Moscow would be safer if this eastern spearhead north of the city were nipped off. No positive word of German progress with the enveloping movement on the south side of the capital has been received. It is doubtful that Ryazan or Vyazma, southeast of Moscow, have been captured as intimated by Berlin. Which side holds Orel is uncertain. Surrounded Russian forces at Bryansk may be moving slowly eastward in an attempt to meet relief forces near Orel. On the far south the Germans have captured the important city and port of Taganrog, increasing the danger to the Donets basin and the Caucasus. The map shows the recent German gains, and their battlefront.
