THE stereopticon with reflectoroscope Attachment recently purchased for the Mount Allison Ladies' College has reached Sackville. The light needed to operate this apparatus will be generated by the current supplied by the electric light station and this current in order to be properly regulated in its amperage and voltage will require to be passed through a transformer which has been ordered from a firm in Toronto. The light just mentioned will be equal to 40 lamps of 15 candle-power each, so that the brilliancy and perfection of the picture cast by the stereopticon may be easily imagined. With a view to inaugurating the above apparatus, Dr. Borden is negotiating with the Rev. James McConnell, of Moncton, for a lecture on his trip from Halifax out to the Pacific coast and back via California, the Yosemite Valley, Arizona, etc., the lecture to be illustrated by 175 views of the scenery along the route.

OWNERS of fast horses and all interested in the development of speed will be pleased to learn that P. S. Brown will this season handle a number of horses for speed. Mr. Brown is a veteran horseman and years ago was known as the "Bud Doble" of the Maritime Provinces. His record as a horseman in the Maritime Provinces dates back over a quarter of a century. It was he who drove Special Blend to the record in Amherst in 1895 and he has handled many other famous animals. The following account of a race in Truro in 1877 will be of interest. Mr. Brown was the driver of Frank Allison: There was another great race at Truro; Saco Boy, Gen. Griffin, Morgan Knox and Lady Dinsmore, had won first or second money respectively in the 3.00 and 2.38 classes in straight heats the first day, and on the second, the Truro stallion Frank Allison, the St. John horse King William, who had previously been masquerading in the west, Morgan Knox and Honest Farmer, were the competitors. Morgan Knox took the first and third heats in 2:30, 2:37; Honest Farmer the second in 2:38. Frank Allison who had been last in each of the other heats captured the next two in 2:36, 2:38. Farmer, however, got the sixth heat in 2:30. Knox was distanced in the seventh, which was a dead heat between Allison and Farmer in 2:30. They made another dead heat of the eighth in 2:38, and Allison got the ninth. It was the longest race ever trotted in the Province, and never since has there been such a prolonged contest hereabouts.
