Indians Blast Athletics For Third Straight Time

NEW YORK, June 19—(AP)—Cleveland's American League-leading Indians blasted three home runs, to swamp the Athletics 12-1 at Philadelphia today for a clean sweep of their three-game series.

Outfielder Jeff Heath pounded out a home run, two doubles and a single to pace a Cleveland attack that saw every Indian except Rolfe Hemsley get at least one safety. Heath's home run came in the fifth inning with Gee Walkers on base, while Ken Keltner homered with one on in the sixth and Lou Bourreau with Ray Mack and Jim Bagby aboard in the seventh.

At New York, Yankees found their way back to the victory trail with a 7-2 assault on Chicago White Sox, who had whipped them by one run in the first two games of the American League series.

Charley Keller hit a home run with the bases loaded in the fourth inning for the big spark in the Yankee onslaught.

At Boston, Heber Newsome, a first-year man, became Red Sox' leading pitcher as he scored his sixth victory, a 6-4 triumph over Detroit Tigers.

The young right-hander, who has lost three games, was touched for 11 hits, including homers by Paddy Mullin and Pinky Higgins, but he kept the Tigers in check while the Red Sox bunched their 10 hits off four Detroit pitchers.

At Washington, Dutch Leonard was in form and Senators came up with all kinds of hitting to defeat St. Louis Browns 12-0.

The portly knuckleballer allowed just three hits and pitched to only 29 men.

Conn Keeps Friends Guessing As To Marriage

By Sid Feder Associated Press Sport Writer

NEW YORK, June 19—(AP)—Joe Louis and his somewhat shaky heavyweight championship went on a vacation today, Billy Conn started what he hoped would turn into a honeymoon and the rest of the title picture became a scramble for the next shot at the Brown Bomber.

Joe's manager, Julian Blackburn and John Roxborough, finally were convinced after Louis almost blew his crown to Conn last night, that the Bomber has "stayed off" from seven months of continuous training and needs a holiday. So he won't fight again until September, when Promoter Mike Jacobs will decide whether he tangles with Conn again for a "gate" within shouting distance of $1,000,000 or with Lou Nova, the California collegian who's been waiting for two years.

Meantime, Billy the Kid, whose "frish" cost him the championship when he got his temper up, gambled and lost in the 13th round by a knockout, slipped out of town without even telling his manager, Johnny Ray, about it. He drove to Brookway, Pa., and arranged to be married tomorrow. His "girl" is Mary Louis Smith. Her father, Jimmy Smith, former New York Giants outfielder, who had objected strenuously to the marriage, was reported by Mary, herself, finally to have given the parental blessing.

Mary told friends at St. Mary's, Pa., where Conn went after the fight last night, that "all our troubles have been settled and daddy has given his full consent and blessing." Conn said the wedding is set for tomorrow.

Earlier, however, Miss Smith's mother said at her ocean City, N. J., home that the "planned marriage of our daughter to Mr. Conn has definitely been called off."

While Joe and Billy were thus engaged in forgetting all about one of the most rousing title fights of all time, their managers stopped in at Promoter Jacob's office to pick up the pay envelopes for the night's work and to try to do something about the Bomber's "fall showing." Joe drew $154,404 from a gross gate of $451,743 which brought his seven-year earnings to just under the $2,000,000 mark. Conn collected $77,202, by far his biggest purse.

Gives detailed, Dramatic story Of Bismarck

(By Louis V. Hunter) (Canadian Press Staff Writer) LONDON, June 19—(CP)—An officer who watched the sinking of the Bismarck said the "unsinkable" pride of the Nazi navy went down "like a dog that has been run over, someone had got to finish him off—because her colors were still flying at the mainmast head."

The officer, who followed the action from the bridge of the battleship King George V, told in an interview one of the most detailed and dramatic stories of the battle that brought revenge to the Royal Navy for the loss of H. M. S. Hood, the world's biggest warship.

"Throughout the night on the Admiral's bridge we sat, good or leaned like a covey of disembodied spirits," he said after describing the early part of the engagement. "None of us will ever know if it was cold. At last daylight, enemy in sight, and then, veiled in distant rainfall is a thick squat ghost of a ship, straight toward us, end on."

The commander in chief, Admiral Tovey, saw it first.

"There is a sort of cracking roar to port—the Rodney has opened fire with her 16-inch guns, and an instant later the King George V lets fly with her 14-inch. The compass bounces out of its binnacle; My battle bowler tips over my nose and clatters down to the deck, and a pile of signal papers shoots up like a fountain in the draft made by the guns.

"I just keep my binoculars glued to Bismarck. Rodney's first salvo produced great white columns of

Gehring not Up to form of Other years

NEW YORK, June 19—(AP)—One of our favorite baseball players isn't doing so well. He isn't having "that good year" as DeJ Bakker would say, and as a consequence the fans are brought to a fuller realization of just how much Charley Gehring has meant to Detroit through the years.

He never was a fellow to beat the drums for himself. He's a ball player out there doing a day's work.

He's done it with such ease and rhythm that he has been taken more or less for granted, and the fans abruptly realize something is missing when Gehring's bat stops blasting.

Most ball players, particularly infielders, are long since through at 35, so expecting a man at that age to stage a comeback perhaps is asking for too much.

It was predicted the Tigers would slip when Hank Greenberg left the lineup, and his absence unquestionably has much to do with the club's present fifth-place spot in the American League.

But there is a doubt as to whether Greenberg's absence or Gehring's slump has the most effect on the team.

P. W. C. beat Hawks 12-11

In an exhibition game of softball which was played last night at the Park diamond the P. W. College team edged the New Dome Hawks by one run.

There was hard hitting by both teams and fine catching by Jimmie Tawell for the Hawks while there was good pitching by Auld for the college team and McCourt for the Hawks.

Two home runs were hit during the game, one by Gillis for the college team and one by McCourt for the Hawks.

Phillies edged By Cards 7-6

NEW YORK, June 19—(AP)—Frank Crespi's 11th-inning single with the bases filled drove in Johnny Hopp to give Cardinals a 7-6 victory over Philadelphia Phillies today at St. Louis.

At Chicago, the Brooklyn Dodgers scored a 15-hit, 9-4 triumph over Cubs for Kirby Higbe's eighth victory of the season.

Peewee Reese, who has been benched a couple of times this year for weak hitting, led the Dodgers' attack with four hits in six trips and his teammates followed suit.

At Pittsburgh, Harry Danning hit two doubles and a triple to lead a 12-hit assault as New York Giants overpowered Pirates 9-6.

The Pirates made 11 hits and each team used three pitchers in the wild and loose affair, which came up to the eighth inning with the score tied at six-all.

Then Bill Jurges, returning to the Giants' lineup after a four-day rest, singled in the eighth to score Babe Young and break the deadlock and in the ninth added two more to two singles, an intentional walk and Vince Dimaggio's second error of the game.

Will erect Monument to Lou Gehrig

NEW YORK, June 19—(AP)—A granite monument honoring Lou Gehrig will be unveiled in Yankee Stadium July 4, on what would have been his 37th birthday. New York Yankees announced today.

The monument, identical to one erected to Miller Huggins in 1930, will bear this inscription:—

Hon. Lou Gehrig.
A man, a gentleman and a great ball player, whose amazing record of 2130 consecutive games should stand for all time.

This memorial is a tribute from the Yankee players to their beloved captain and teammate.

water 120 feet high that would break the back of a destroyer and sink her like a stone if she steamed through one of them.

"The second spian I missed, all except one shot which seemed to belong to King George V and was a little ahead of Bismarck. Then I watched Rodney to see if she was being hit but she just sat there like a great slab of rock blocking the northern horizon and suddenly belched a full salvo. I actually saw these projectiles flying through the air for some seconds after they left the guns, like little diminishing footballs curving up and into the sky.

"Now, I am sure that four or five hit. There was only one great splash and a sort of flurry of spray and splash which might have been a watering tin. The others had bored their way through the Krupp armor belt like cheese and pray God I may never know what they did as they exploded inside the hull.

"Bismarck turned north, making about 12 or 14 knots. We kept turning in and out to confuse the enemy angles, all the while closing the range rapidly.

"The Admiral kept saying: 'Close the range; get closer, get closer. I can't see enough hits.'

"And so we closed the range."

From then on, the officer continued, there was no escape for the Bismarck.

He said that after 20 minutes, "when the glow of great fire was incinerating men inside the German ship," although some of the secondary armament still was firing a little wildly, he saw a steady trickle of little human figures racing across the deck and jumping into the sea.

"We just shot the guns out of her and left a smoldering, lurching black ruin. It made one feel a little sick to see such a mighty powerful vessel brought to the state of an impotent hulk.

"Our battleships turned away and (the cruiser) Dorsetshire closed in and finished her off."

A STORY OF THE "MARCO POLO"

The "Marco Polo", 1625 tons, most famous of Canadian sailing ships, was built at St. John, N.B. in 1851.

Many tales are told of the "Marco Polo". In 1874, when her glory had departed and she was carrying cargo down the Chilean coast, a seaman noticed a large shark following and decided to catch it. The shark, a 16-foot monster, gave fight when it was hauled on deck. After smashing the cabin skylight with its tail, it fell bodily through, splintering the table, panelling and furniture. After a long struggle, the ship's carpenter managed to kill it with an axe and the body was dragged out through the forecabin.

According to reports from Rio de Janeiro, not confirmed in Washington, the U.S. steamship Robin Moor, formerly the Exmoor, has been sunk by a German submarine. The Brazilian steamship Osorio is reported to have picked up one lifeboat containing 11 survivors, but 35 of the passengers and crew are still missing. The Robin Moor was en route to Cape Town with a general cargo, including munitions, and may have been intercepted south of the Cape Verde Islands, half-way across the South Atlantic. A sister ship is shown here.
