Salary Committee

The committee had waited on the government the report went on and although members had been in sympathy with the teachers nothing had been done about it. A sliding scale of wages was also drawn up and presented to the government at that time the report stated.

The entire report gave a comprehensive and detailed account of the work done by this committee during the year and a complete account appears in another page of this issue.

"Curriculum Changes"

Dr. H. H. Shaw, Chief Superintendent of Education presided over the Forum "Curriculum Changes." Among the speakers heard were Mr. J. Walter Jones, M.L.A., Miss Jacqueline Macdonald, Mrs. Kennedy, and W. A. MacPhee, head of the Teacher Training Department at P. W. C. Various changes were suggested by the different speakers, such as the writing off of certain subjects at the end of Grade 8 or 9, the grouping together of subjects to be taught as one such as mathematics, etc., and various other phases.

Discussion

A heated discussion by several of the teachers present followed the the Curriculum Changes. Those taking part in the discussion were Messrs. James McCallum, Alfred Doucette, Davis Lidstone, Prof. J. H. Blanchard, Pius Callaghan, J. Reginald McDonald, Gordon Rice and several others.

Main topic of the discussion was that the time had arrived when something had to be done. It was pointed out and in no uncertain terms that teachers had been ignored long enough re salaries and the overcrowding of work into Grade X.

The question was asked by Prof Blanchard just how many times the Advisory Board to the Board of Education had met. Failing to receive an answer the speaker stated that it had not met once in the last four years.

James McCallum threw a bombshell into the meeting when he plainly stated that in the matter of the curriculum the teachers had the right to make any changes or additions, taking the stand that it was the teachers who had to teach the subjects and look after the curriculum. The minister of education was missing from the meeting Mr. McCallum stated and he was of the opinion that the minister should by all means be at the meeting.

Entrance examinations were also brought up and again the speakers voiced the opinion that it should be the teachers and they alone that should set those examinations. Some of the questions in examinations were beyond all reason one of the speakers stated and it was very much of a deep dark mystery as to just who had charge of setting those exams.

After much more discussion during which Mr. Jones and Dr. Shaw were asked to answer several questions Mr. J. Reginald McDonald voiced the opinion of the entire gathering when he stated that teachers had been put off long enough in their just demands. We want action and we are going to get action the speaker declared. Too much time has been wasted already and it was up to the federation to see that action was secured immediately and by immediately not this time next year but at the most by next June. It is the only way in which we are going to get results and results are what we are after not just mere talk.

Another matter brought up in the discussion was the overcrowding of work in Grade X. It was suggested that history, hygiene and geography be written off at the end of Grade IX but speakers on the matter failed to get any assurance from the chair that this would be forthcoming even by the end of next year.

Croatia, between the Drava and Sava rivers, claiming they were retaliating for bombing of Hungarian towns, but actually seeking to recover territory lost at Versailles.

Members of the Yugoslav Royal Court in flight from a country torn apart and already all but destroyed as an independent entity, were understood to have arrived by plane in Turkey, where the young King Peter also was expected to take refuge.

There were growing signs that Britain, occupied in the Balkans, faces a new showdown in Eastern Libya, which has been stripped of many troops. British sources in Cairo said that both the Imperial and Axis forces are massing for a big battle east of the Gebel El Achdar mountain range, which extends between Bengasi and Derna in Libya and at one point is 150 miles west of the Egyptian border. British reinforcements are arriving from East Africa.

This indicated—as Prime Minister Churchill already has warned—that Britain, having long since broken the Italian threat to Egypt and the Suez Canal, might be forced to fight a much harder defensive action against the Nazis and Fascists in combination.

But while the new menace to Britain grew in this sector, President Roosevelt in Washington provided potential enormous help in the maintenance of supplies by reopening the Red Sea and the Gulf of Aden to United States vessels.

Defence dept. Takes huge area In Alberta

EDMONTON, April 11 —(CP) — Transfer of a block of 700,000 acres of land in southeastern Alberta to the Department of National Defence for "immediate occupation" was announced today by Hon. W. A. Fallow, Alberta Minister of public works.

The Minister said the transfer will involve the removal of 125 families from the region, known as the Tilley east area. It lies near the Saskatchewan border, north of Medicine Hat and 120 miles east of Calgary. No details of the transfer were given.

Canadian hog Products may Go to U. S.

OTTAWA, April 11.—(CP) — Diversion from Britain to the United States of at least part of the flow of Canadian hog products seems probable, Agriculture Department officials said tonight. They added the situation was being watched closely in case action by the government became necessary to protect supplies for the United Kingdom and the domestic market.

At the same time, they said, there is no immediate danger of Canada being unable to supply both her export undertakings and her domestic requirements as there are 26,000,000 pounds of Wiltshire sides in storage for export in addition to large supplies held by packers for domestic trade.

United States hog prices skyrocketed 50 to 75 cents a hundredweight last Monday, and while later values were somewhat below that peak, it was evident that returns from across the border would appeal to Canadian hog producers.

The American government stated last week it would attempt to hold hog prices near the $9 mark to stimulate production. Prices of live hogs, fed and watered, at Montreal, have run about $8.60, with $1 a hog premium for a grade.

One Ottawa official said that if United States values ran above those in the Dominion, Canadian hogs would flow across the boundary "like water."

So what? is N. Y. Editor's Comment on news

NEW YORK, April 11 —(CP)— The following editorial, written by publisher Ralph Ingersoll and captioned "To the people on our side," appeared today in the New York PM:

The Greeks have been driven from Thrace, Salonika abandoned. The northern plains of Yugoslavia are gone, the southern mountains have been split by panzer divisions.

Across the Mediterranean, the axis has recaptured the stage on which Gen. Wavell performed the feat of swallowing Graziani's army.

So it's bad news.

So what?

The axis victory in Africa will not bring them back Graziani's lost armies. Or Ethiopia. Or Eritrea. Or put their submarines under the Red Sea again.

And what's happened in Greece and Yugoslavia? No one expected either Thrace or Croatia to be held. The Serbian and the British armies have retreated, but as everyone knew they would have to retreat—being outnumbered and out-equipped—into the mountains.

It all happened a little quicker than we expected. It's bad news all right. But is it as bad as this city seems to be moaning? I can't remember when I've seen this town take the nose dive into the dumps that New York has taken in the last 48 hours. Of what?

A couple of weeks ago we were resigned to the old Yugoslavian government's sellout—to more conquest by telephone. Would that have been better?

What in the world did we expect to have happen? The unprepared Greeks and a couple of mechanized British divisions— and the Greeks with three fronts to man —chopping up a carefully planned blitz with 500,000 men behind it? Go on! We hoped—but what did we expect? Nonsense.

We knew it wouldn't be good and we also knew, however bad it was, it was better than Yugoslavia being sold up the Danube without a gun fired against the Nazis.

Take it easy. A battle in the Balkans can't lose the war for anyone but Hitler. There's no evidence yet that it hasn't been managed smartly by our side, that the British and their allies haven't made the best of a bad setup.

This in the spring of 1941 when we knew we had bad news coming to us—when the offensives the Nazis had been planning all winter would be launched. But it is also the spring in which every month sees the U.S.A. stronger and able to help. Boy—if there was ever a time of which it could accurately be said: "We haven't begun to fight," this is it!

hope only if man admits his unworthiness and throws himself on God for help. Convinced that modern civilization is bad and careening at the present moment to almost certain destruction," he terms the assumption that evolution is tending ever upwards superficial and unwarranted, calls a halt to theology's capitulation to science.

Dr. Niebuhr was a social reformer before he was a theologian and until two years ago was a member of the Socialist Party. He stands as far left economically as he now is far right theologically but nonetheless presents a balanced if pointed view of society: "The anti-aristocratic emphasis of the Bible has been interpreted . . . by certain types of sectarian Christianity and by modern secular radicalism in too simple politico-moral terms. Jesus is reduced in this type of thought to the stature of a leader of a proletarian revolt against the rich. . . . Capitalists are not greater sinners than poor laborers by any natural depravity. But it is a fact that those who hold great economic and political power are more guilty of pride against God and of injustice against the weak than those who lack power and prestige. A too simple social radicalism does not recognize how quickly the poor, the weak, the despised of yesterday, may, on gaining a social victory over their distractions, exhibit the same arrogance. . . ."

The Nature and Destiny of Man was prepared for the famed Gifford Lectures at the University of Edinburgh, which only four other Americans have been invited to deliver in 54 years—William, James, Josiah Royce, John Dewey and William Ernest Hocking.

Lord Gifford, great Scottish jurist, established his lectureship in natural theology with a bequest of £80,000 in 1887. Said he in his will: "I wish the lecturers to treat their subject as a strictly natural science, the greatest of all possible sciences, indeed, in one sense, the only science that of Infinite Being, without reference to or reliance upon any supposed special exceptional or so-called miraculous revelation. I wish it considered just as astronomy or chemistry is." On this bedrock basis the world's outstanding theologians have lectured ever since. The Gifford Lectures have never been given by a second-rater, and most of the great religious writing of the last half century has been done for them.

At Edinburgh Dr. Niebuhr delighted his hearers by delivering his complicated lectures extempore, drew the largest crowds in Gifford history. Said one woman: "I dinna understand a word ye say when ye preach, but somehow I ken that ye're makin' God great." Before the lectures were finished World War II broke out. Even that did not cut down the attendance. Intent on his exposition at one crowded lecture, Dr. Niebuhr suddenly noticed that his audience had grown restless. "Gracious, I'm losing their attention," he thought. "I'd better steam up." Steam up he did, and the crowd stayed. Afterwards, intent Dr. Niebuhr found that Edinburgh had had its first air-raid alarm, that four Nazi planes had been potted overhead in the Firth of Forth Bridge raid while he spoke on man's destiny.

EASTER

To the steep hill to Calvary
The Saviour walks the weary way,
Evil seemingly has triumphed,
Christ must die today.

The Roman soldiers watch Him die,
With faces cruel and hard;
Then carefully they seal His tomb,
And 'round it place a guard.

But at Sabbath's dawn, an angel
Breaks the seal, and rolls the stone away,
And Christ comes forth victorious,
On that first Easter Day.

Sweet and lovely is that garden,
Veiled o'er by the shadow of angels' wings,
As Christ walks there among the lilies,
And birds and flowers of life immortal sing.

So to this war-torn world shall come
An Eastern beautiful and bright,
And eyes now troubled and despairing,
Be filled again with Freedom's shining light.

Evil shall be forever vanquished,
Loved ones shall not have died in vain,
And all the world be filled with glad Hosannas,
When that miracle of Easter comes again.

Claims Japan Will refrain From force

TOKYO, April 11.—(AP) — Premier Fumimaro Konoye, speaking with cautious optimism of his government's relations with the United States, emphasized anew today that Japan would refrain from force in the South Pacific.

Konoye told Japanese newspapermen that Japan's policy in the south was "purely economic and peaceful." The Netherlands, East Indies, he claimed, should have confidence in Tokyo's sincerity.

Asked if he thought Japanese-American relations would get any worse, he replied: "I do not think so."

He acknowledged, however, that Japan's position in the Rome-Berlin-Tokyo Axis and continuation of the conflict in China are obstacles in the way of completely amicable understanding between Tokyo and
