OUT OF THE MOUTHS OF BABIES

"Say, mamma," asked six-year-old Hazel, "who was our papa before he married into our family?" "Why," replied the astonished mother, "he was the same man he is now, of course."

"But," continued the youthful interrogator, "was he related to you or was he just one of your beaux?"

Little Elizabeth had often watched her father shave himself, and one day when a man came to white wash the fence, after a few minutes' silent contemplation, she asked: "Mr. Man, is you don't shave zart fence?"

Little Bobby—"What's an usher?"

Uncle George—"He's the man who shows people where they mustn't sit in church."
