Golden Text: Be not overcome of evil, but overcome evil with good. Romans XII 21.

DAVID SPARES SAUL (The Story)

Here are the most ancient tales of an ancient literature. They are unsurpassed, natural, spirited, fascinating. Incidentally they give helpful glimpses of the times and ways of a primitive age, the customs, social, political, military. But the narrative has a higher claim for consideration than that. It faithfully exhibits the evolution in ethical character of the first man of that age. It shows the moral ideas that dominated his own and surrounding nations. What enhances the value of the narrative is that it gives a real, not an idealized man. It is the fugitive and exile period of David's life, covering seven years of incessant and extreme personal hardship and peril. With all its pains and privations it is really the richest epoch of his life. It is an apprenticeship to a throne. Here too he learned in suffering and wear to myriads of his people, the caves and wildernesses of this period. They were like the grapevines growing out of the lava of Vesuvius.

It is spiritually significant that David in his flight armed and refreshed himself in the sanctuary of God. He took his own trophy, the sword of Goliath, as a weapon and ate the hallowed showbread, and ate the hallowed showbread, thus giving an example of violation of letter coincident with keeping the spirit, a circumstance to which Jesus himself refers. The incident of madness feined at Gath, the shrewd device by which the fugitive escapes after identification at the Achish, come next. Then the regaining of the army of malcontent at the cave of Adullam, the terrible slaughter of the innocent priests of Nob by Saul, the shameful and bitter fruit of David's unnecessary deception, the last interview between David and Jonathan, David's sparing of Saul in the cave of Engedi, Nabal, the church his wife and his vineyard.

INSIDIOUS EYE STRAIN

We use this adjective advisedly. Sufferers from Eye-strain may have perfect vision and therefore do not suspect the presence of any eye defect.

The motive power of the entire human organism is Nerve Energy.

Normal eyes, it is computed utilize about 20% of this Nerve Energy, but when Eye-strain is present, a much larger proportion is required. Hence defective eyes, through their consumption of an excessive amount of Nerve Energy may seriously affect the functioning of other organs of the body and produce ill health.

THE LEAGUE OF THE CROSS

Sir,—The parade through the streets, yesterday, of hundreds of members of the League of the Cross was a splendid object lesson for ministers and members of the Protestant churches of this city and Province. Each boy in the procession is pledged to total abstinence from intoxicants until he is twenty-one years of age and is invigorated by incentives to temperance and good living under religious influences. "Train a child in the way he should go and when he is old, he will not depart from it". The Roman Catholic authorities of this town have taken the right course towards sobriety and useful citizenship on the part of those who will in future live and work and exert influence in this city and province. They deserve credit and honour. It will be well if the Protestant bodies follow suite.

I am, Sir, etc.

Matric Exams.

Only In Summer

Montreal, Aug. 4.—Announcement was made this morning by Dr. J. A. Nicholson, registrar at McGill University, that the January matriculation examinations which have been conducted by the university for the past three years will in future be discontinued. The new ruling comes into effect at once so that matriculation examinations will only be written in June and in September of each year.

The January examinations for McGill were inaugurated, Dr. Nicholson explained, at the same time as the Department of Education at Quebec started the High School leaving January exams to permit classes in two of the Montreal High Schools who had finished their courses at the mid-session to write. McGill at that time, being in charge of the school leaving examinations decided also to permit the matriculation exams for entrance to the university to be written. The reason for the discontinuation lies in the fact that the Department of Education has now taken over all the High School leaving examinations. McGill therefore reverts to the old practise of twice during the year instead of three times.

The change was introduced three years ago with some reluctance on all sides, Dr. Nicholson said. In practise the January matriculations proved to be extremely scrappy, he explained, since the majority who took them were students preparing through private tuition. Only a few subjects were taken, and very few good students were the products of this method.

A councillor in a Swedish town lost his temper during a meeting and remarked that half of his colleagues were fools. An apology was demanded. He promised to make a reparation and caused bills with the following corrections to be posted on boardings in the town: "I said that half of the councillors are fools. I now declare that half of the town councillors are not fools."
