Strange Case Revealed By Simple Accident

TILSONBURG, April 22.—Sgt. Joseph W. Pidgeon, who has gone through two work-ups in the Canadian Army, and pulled the casualty list in both, pulled the one of what seemed unquestionably to be his left ear and announced very emphatically "That is not my ear."

Was A Sniper

"I was out ahead of the Canadian lines sniping along the Canal du Nord on Oct. 2, 1918," the sergeant explained. "Suddenly I saw a road I saw a movement. Before I could drop I felt a blow on the side of my head and I knew I was hit."

Hospital In England

"I had gone three or four hundred yards when I fell on a narrow gauge railway and lost consciousness. I was bleeding very severely from my head. The next I knew was when I woke up in hospital in England. I was treated by the best surgeons in the world."

Felt Strange

The Sergeant said that for a long time he felt strange to have the grafted ear of a man long dead but he has grown accustomed to it and no one ever notices that his ears are of a different pattern and that the doctors found it necessary to attach the Australian ear and innervate it with his own.

RETAIN NATIONALITY

CANBERRA, April 22.—(CP)—The House of Representatives has passed a bill by which Australian women married to aliens may retain their British nationality as long as they continue to live in Australia.

Bristol and Vicinity

Sgt. P. A. MacDonald, who arrived from overseas a few weeks ago, left last week for Halifax to receive his discharge. Another man with several years in his credit in the Canadian Navy Gerald M. Adams, leaves this week for Halifax to receive his discharge.

THE SHAMPOO METHOD

No matter how much you vacuum or carpet sweep your rugs, through the seasons they become filled with dust to the very back. This dulls their appearance and if not cleaned out periodically affects the fibres.
