JUST A GIRL

BY JANE PHELPS

ZENA TRIES PAWNING

Chapter 69 The sign of the three balls in front of a dingy little shop down the street was my destination when, an hour after Mary left me, I started out to raise money so that I might live until I found something to do.

I walked rapidly, my cheeks burning like fire. I went past the shop, around the block, then by again before I could summon up courage to go in. Then when the man behind the counter found I didn't want to buy, but had something to sell, or upon which I wanted to raise money, he sent me out into the street again, telling me to go to the entrance marked for such as me.

I felt an almost insane desire to run back to the boarding house, to put as great a distance between myself and that shop with the hard faced man who had spoken so roughly to me. But I forced myself to walk calmly and to the designated entrance, first looking up and down the street to be sure no one saw me.

"I want to pawn this," I stammered, as I held up the ring. "How much so you want?" It was the same hook-nosed man I had spoken to out in front, and his harsh voice took away all my courage.

"All you will let me have." "Tell me how much you want and I'll see if we can let you have it," he insisted.

"Can I have $30? It cost a great deal more." "I'll see," he interrupted so quickly I was tempted to call him back and ask for more.

He was back in a moment. "Yes, I can let you have $30," he said shortly. Then he gave me a yellow ticket and the money.

I almost ran to the place and back to the house. How hateful it all was—pawning for small amounts the things one loved, gifts I had often read of such things, had heard that people were forced to part with their possessions in this way, but that I, my father's daughter, would ever be so situated, was almost unbelievable.

"That night when I told Mary what I had got for my ring, she smiled. 'I guess you didn't ask for any more,' she said. 'I would have given you, or he wouldn't have been so wful quick about it. But never mind, the interest won't be so big, and you'll know better next time.' She took it for granted there would be a 'next time.'

"Oh, I never shall go there again." "Oh, yes you will they all, does when they once starts, I never had nothing to pawn else I would have been there too. But I know lots of girls that has, and once they begin, they keep going."

I said no more, but I determined I would not "keep going"—that it was the last time as well as the first. I would never have been obliged to go had it not been for my fainting and so being robbed.

"Come on, Mary! We'll go and have a first-class feed to-night." I felt absolutely reckless I had money in my purse again, even if the purse was one of Mary's. We had steak, baked potatoes and rice pudding—a real feast for us. Afterwards we went to a motion picture show in the neighborhood, Mary's treat.

As we left the show I heard a voice that made me shiver, at my elbow: "Haw'd you like the show?" It was Mike, and at his side Joe shambled along.

"I pretended not to hear. 'I saw'd you like the show, dearie?' he asked again, plucking my sleeve. 'Very well,' I answered so that he would not do anything more to attract attention. Mary was back of me—two or three people had crowded between us, so she had not heard nor seen.

"I'll take you home. Where's your pal?" I looked wildly about for Mary. Just then she saw Mike and Joe, and pushed her way to my side. Mike kept up a running talk until we reached 'the lobby. There Joe joined us, and also talked about

LIDSTONE SAYS TANLAC RESTORED HIS HEALTH AND HE IS NOW BACK ON JOB FEELING FINE

"Well, sir, I never dreamed there was a medicine that could make me feel as well and strong as this 'Tanlac' has," said Arch Lidstone, a well known fisherman living at 23 Young Street, St. Johns, Newfoundland.

"For more than six years I suffered from chronic indigestion and stomach trouble, and lost my appetite almost completely. Even what little I did manage to eat caused me such intense pains that they nearly doubled me up, and after almost every meal I became so nauseated I couldn't retain a thing I had eaten. I was troubled a lot with constipation, had severe pains in the small of my back, and suffered constantly from dizziness. There were black spots floating before my eyes nearly all the time, and I couldn't even walk uphill without having to stop and rest. I always felt weak and worn out, and had to give up my work altogether.

"I read where Tanlac was helping so many others in a similar condition to myself that I could see no reason why it shouldn't help me also, so I got a bottle and found it to be the very thing I needed. My appetite picked right up, and I haven't been nauseated or had a bit of trouble in retaining my food since I first started on the medicine. My stomach no longer troubles me, I'm freed from those dizzy attacks, and never have a pain of any kind. I'm feeling so strong and full of energy that I'm back on my job again, and I give Tanlac all the credit for putting me in such good health."

Tanlac is sold in Charlottetown by Reddin Bros., in Montague by J. Mabon, J. P. White, Murray Rivor H. M. Chisholm, North Tryon, R. H. Cameron & Co., Crapaud, and H. P. Coohon, Murray River.

"Seeing us home," Mary quickly turned to the doorman: "These two toughs are trying to get acquainted with us," she told him.

"I'll see they don't do it any more," he said, taking them by the arm. "This is a decent place—we don't allow anything of that kind."

Children Cry for Fletcher's CASTORIA

Fletcher's Castoria is strictly a remedy for Infants and Children. Foods are specially prepared for babies. A baby's medicine is even more essential for Baby. Remedies primarily prepared for grown-ups are not interchangeable. It was the need of a remedy for the common ailments of Infants and Children that brought Castoria before the public after years of research, and no claim has been made for it that its use for over 30 years has not proven.

What is CASTORIA?

Castoria is a harmless substitute for Castor Oil, Paregoric, Drops and Soothing Syrups. It is pleasant. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other narcotic substance. Its age is its guarantee. For more than thirty years it has been in constant use for the relief of Constipation, Flatulency, Wind Colic and Diarrhoea; allaying Feverishness arising therefrom, and by regulating the Stomach and Bowels, aids the assimilation of Food; giving healthy and natural sleep.
