The ceremony was performed by her pastor, Rev. George Tilley, in the parlor, which was decorated with flowers, there being an arch of ever-green and white astors, under which the bridal couple stood. The bride, who was given away by her father, was becomingly dressed in blue silk, trimmed with sand silk and silver bugle beads, and carried a shower bouquet of sweet peas and fern. The wedding march was played by Miss Anna McDougall, cousin of the bride. After the ceremony the guests retired to the dining room, where a sumptuous repast was partaken of. They received many beautiful presents, among which was a rattan rocker from the members and choir of the Pownall Methodist church, of which the bride is a member. They were given a lively chivari after which they left for their home in Melbourne. Among those present were Mrs. Frank Burhoe, of Westboro, Mass., and Miss Marie Murray, of Port Elgin, N.B.
