A GARDEN OF THE SEA.

Submarine Life of the Harbor of (From the Manila "Times" pines.

Port Galera, in the Philippines is one of the most beautiful spots in this part of the tropics and when the islands are developed will be one of its great show places. There are two entrances to the harbor and both are remarkably pretty. Rugged bluffs alternate with stretches of gleaming white beaches and the water is clear as crystal. Cocoanuts and fan palms line the shore and the scenery is distinctly tropical.

Along all the beaches lie a series of wonderful seagardens. There are coral structures of almost every shape and design imaginable, and around them are gardens and groves of sea plants and trees. Through them play hundreds of colored fish, some of them brilliant hues, others deep purple, others white, with curious black and yellow stripes. The wonderful clarity of the water permits a perfect view of all this submarine life.

Under favorable conditions the bottom can be seen at sixty feet, and at half that distance when the water still, the smallest objects may be plainly seen. The coloring is wonderful. The sand is almost pure white and above it are the greens, blues, reds and yellows of the coral plants and rocks, and these effects are further heightened by the wonderful painted fish that play around. Men who have seen the sea gardens at Bermuda, the Bahamas and Catalina declare that those at Port Galera are quite as wonderful and marvel that they are so little known. Governor-General Forbes visited the port some time ago and so interested has he become that he has ordered a glass bottom boat, in which he intends to make a more thorough exploration. Port Galera is ninety miles from Manila, and although it is close to Verde Island Channel, is not visited by many steamers.

FIRE SWEEP HARBOR OF MONTE VIDEO.

MONTE VIDEO, Uruguay, Oct. 5.—Fire swept the water front of this city yesterday, destroying the new grand docks, the Customs House, and vast quantities of European and American imports. Within a few hours the loss had reached $500,000 and it was estimated that the damage would total between $1,000,000 and $2,000,000. The flames were aided by the wind and fanned by inflammable substances, and the firemen and police were unable to cope with the situation. The flames spread towards the Mariel wharves, and the fire-fighters practically gave up the attempt to save the Customs House and docks and imports, and turned their attention to saving the wharves.

Captains of many of the steamers weighed anchor and hurried away from the seething fire zone. Vast quantities of tallow, beef products and hides added fuel to the flames. Some of the ships at the quays had their holds nearly filled with tallow and it was feared that this would ignite.

Some of the modern built ships were equipped with fire-fighting apparatus, and these ships aided the firemen on shore by directing streams of water upon the burning piers. Bits of blazing wood, canvas and hides were carried by the wind far out into the harbor.

Monte Video is the capital and the chief port of Uruguay. Its chief exports are grain, beef products, tallow and hides. The population is approximately 250,000.

Ships laying at the piers were menaced by the flames and it was feared that some of these would be consumed. Among the shipping in the harbor were many sailing vessels, their spars jutting into the air zone and offering a new element of danger.
