Ch'Town Bishop Sends Greetings

The National Chaplain of the Catholic Women's League (the Bishop of Charlottetown) sent the following Easter message to the League, his first in his capacity of Chaplain:

No matter how unworlly the motives which inspire our good deeds, an honest word of praise is always appreciated and at times seems almost a necessary tonic for young and old.

We all need the sunshine of encouragement. The budding faculties of childhood's unschooled heart expand and flower under its feeble rays. Even while life's battles have knocked all softness and sentimentalism out of us, a single word of sympathetic praise will cause the coldest heart to throb at a faster and merrier pace, just as surely as the continued lack of appreciation will cause the most buoyant spirits to languish, and the best of enthusiasms to cool and perish. Possibly this hunger for a word of appreciation is a reflex of humanity's universal consciousness that life's fabric is being spun out under the searching eye of Omnipotence: it may be a distant longing to anticipate the final verdict that awaits us all.

At any rate there is something in our make-up which seems to crave this stimulant. Of course, in the true analysis of life's endeavors we are to look solely to God for praise. We have to keep on doing our duty, heroically and perseveringly, even though surrounded by the chilling silence of indifference, or its worse counterpart, which is contempt. But in the ordinary course of events, human words of praise and encouragement have their time and place, and saints and sinners stand fairly good doses with beneficial results.

THE LEAGUE'S WORK

It seems the proper time for someone to say such a word of praise to the officers and members of the Catholic Women's League for the fine work they have accomplished, especially since last autumn, in spite of really overwhelming difficulties.

If the office of National Chaplain, with which you honored me last summer, has any obligations attached to it, one must surely be the pleasant duty of expressing the appreciation which is so sincerely

United Action

The League came into existence precisely to meet conditions that call for united action. Its founders fully realized that there would be numerous occasions when the national organization would be the only efficient means of coping with problems that are incapable of solution by sporadic efforts in the districts where they crop in. They foresaw all too plainly that the needs of modern times would call, with increasing frequency, for the united expression of our Christian conscience and its defense in matters of such vital importance as marriage, education, social legislation and kindred subjects. Above all, they hoped that the League would weld together all classes of women, not only in clear-cut propaganda of Christian morality, but into a might phalanx of zealous champions of the Faith, inspired with enthusiasms that would sweep away the petty social and racial barriers which have retarded the Church's progress in the past.

Catholic Action

Were these merely dreams—nice ravings of pious souls, but impracticable? Some thought so, and it has been a slow work educating even a respectable following who were convinced that this was a feasible project.

have not been able to understand the purpose back of the League, and it is not surprising that some of your members failed to take any interest in works which seemed strange and unnecessary to them.

To show positively that this was no dream, but on the contrary an urgent necessity of our times, we need only recall the striking words used by our beloved Holy Father in describing Catholic Action. He says: "It consists not merely of the pursuit of personal Christian perfection (which is, however, before all others, its greatest end), but it also consists of a true apostolate in which Catholics of every social class participate, coming thus to be united in thought and action around those centres of sound doctrine and multiple social activity, legitimately constituted, and as a result, aided and sustained by the authority of the bishops." The League, as it existed in the mind of its founders, certainly provided the proper machinery for carrying out the Pope's ardent wishes and it has been endeavoring ever since it started to carry out this program.

Much To Do

The thing now is to consolidate your forces, for likely the future will be cloudy enough for months to come and there will be lots to do, sufficient to tax the energies of many times our numbers. Make sure that all your members have grasped the ideals of the League and are filled with a holy determination to extend its usefulness. I hope you will gradually discover suitable contacts with sister organizations that Bishops and parish priests will permit to affiliate with you, while retaining their own identity, so that you may really fulfill your designed role in the sphere of Catholic Action. It is a work which calls for wise leadership, unselfish merging of personal and local interests for the common good, and an unflagging enthusiasm in the welfare of all League enterprises on the part of even the most modest and retiring member.

EDUCATIONAL VALUE

If we look a little closer at the picture, we will see that the League has been doing something which is even more important than the actual activities it has fostered. It has been developing, slowly but surely, among its members, a fine sense of corporate responsibility.

The Future

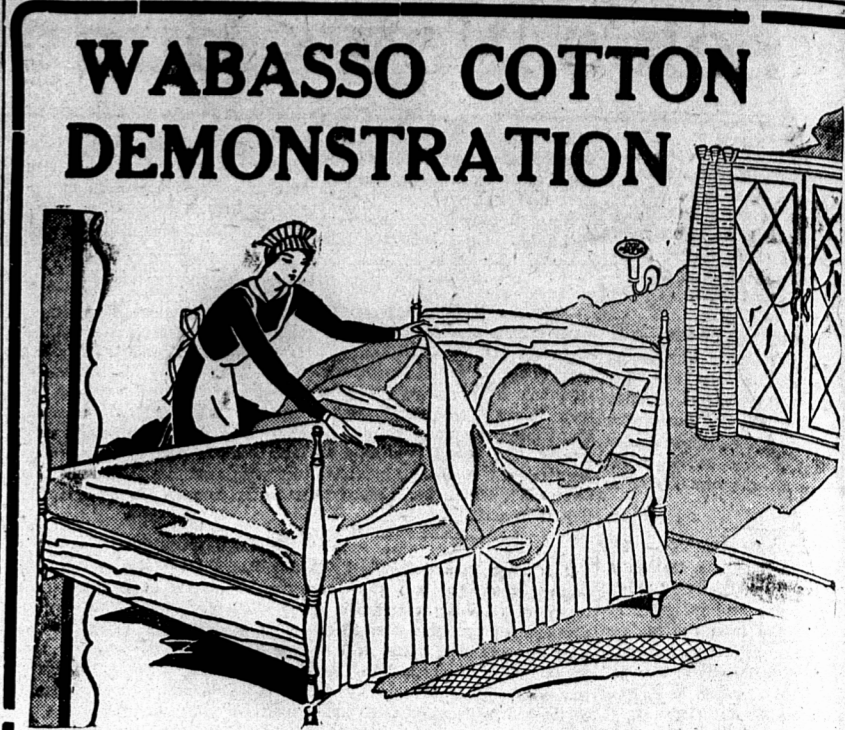

I felt this Easter festival would be a suitable time to urge you all to a restatement of your aims, and a reconsecration of yourselves for the welfare of God's interests and those of our country. Easter speaks to us of new hopes, new life, new victories. We need its sweet encouragement in these days, but I am sure it is a refreshing thought for the devoted members of the League to remember that the first messages of the Resurrection were heralded by a little band of women, and that Catholic women have always borne their share in the sufferings, and have signally co-operated in the triumphs of the Church down through its long history.

Courage Needed

Great courage and unbounded trust in God must inspire you to continue what you have begun so well, and carried to such successful issues. Certainly there is much still to be done, for you have scarcely emerged from the period of justifying your existence and educating your members to proper outlooks and national perspectives. It is not surprising that in this process there should have been many misunderstandings, and that many may not have kept up their interest in the society. Those losses have been regrettable, but inevitable. Some of the finest people in the country
