McKENNA K. O.'S RUNCORN IN THE FOURTH ROUND

Upwards Of 1200 Fight Fans From All Over The Province See McKenna Put Out The Western Boxer In The Fourth Round. Title Not At Stake.

Last night upwards of twelve hundred fight fans assembled at the Arena Rink to witness the boxing match between Jack McKenna of Sydney and Harry Runicorn of Drumheller, Sask.

The fight was scheduled to go ten rounds to a decision, but the end came much quicker than any of the fans expected, McKenna after putting Runicorn down for the count of seven in the third followed up his advantage in the fourth, landing three quick rights and a left to the body and then shot a right across to the heart that floored Runicorn for the count.

Mr. Acorn announced that the Canadian title would not be at stake. Mr. Jack Hearn was the referee picked by the committee to handle the match and was objected to on the strength that he had worked out with McKenna. Mr. Bennie Runicorn's manager then stated that McKenna failed to weigh in which was his reason for not putting the title up for last night's match.

McKenna was the first boxer to climb through the ropes and received a great ovation from the fans present and seemed to be the big favorite. Runicorn also received a big hand as he took his place in his corner. The seconds then got busy adjusting the new gloves and then the boxers met in the centre of the ring to get their instructions from James Pendergast who it was agreed by both boxers would handle the fight, they then posed for a picture and retired to their corners to await the gong to send them away.

The referee announced that the rounds would be three minutes each and the boxers met in the centre of the ring.

McKenna last night proved that he was a middleweight to be feared by any of the boxers of his class in Canada, his infighting was sharp and hard, and he carried the fight to his opponent from the first gong and it was this style that completely baffled the Western boy and carried him clear of his stride.

Runicorn is a shifty boxer and gave a nice exhibition of handling the gloves but McKenna's slugging rights were too hard for him and time and time again he was forced to the ropes.

Last night's fight was a short, hard one, McKenna setting a terrific pace and playing havoc with his opponent in the infighting, and using his speedy upper cut to good advantage.

Runicorn packs a hard right but McKenna had the ability to keep away from it.

In the first two rounds, McKenna was anxious to get it over with and as a consequence missed some mighty rights which had they landed would have ended the fray sooner than it did.

The first two rounds were fairly even, in the third McKenna after taking a hard right to the head slipped to the canvas but was up in an instant and forged right in and landed Runicorn a right that sent him down for a count of seven. Runicorn was inclined to think he had been fouled, but he got up and kept McKenna off till the bell.

In the fourth McKenna following up his advantage of the previous round kept coming in and caught Runicorn with a right to the body that sent him through the ropes, and as Runicorn comes back finishes up with a right that put Runicorn out and gave him the battle by a wide margin.

During the evening Mr. H. A. Ebers was introduced to the gathering as the "Tex Rickard" of Charlottetown and received a good hand from the fans.

Preliminaries

The first preliminary was between Alf Donovan and Borden McDonald three two minute rounds, Donovan getting the decision of the two judges. McDonald put up a much better showing than in his last appearance against the clever boxing of Donovan.

The second preliminary was between Kaney McDonald, one hundred and twenty pounds and Stanley Steele, one hundred and twelve pounds. The last bout between these boxers Steele won on a knock-out, but last night McDonald put up a better showing and although losing the decision fought a hard fight. One judge decided in favor of Steele, the other in favor of a draw, the referee giving the decision to Steele.

Officials

Referee for Preliminary bout—Jack Hearn.

Referee for main bout—James Pendergast.

Judges—James Pendergast, Wm. Halpenny and Wallace Scantlebury.

Timers—L. B. McMillan and Byron Brown.

Announcer—Ed. Acorn.

Information

To the Sports Editor:

A. bets Runicorn fights for Canadian Championship.

B. says no. Who is correct? They were to fight for the Canadian title, McKenna did not weigh in and Bennie, Runicorn's manager stated the title was not at stake. Officially there is no middleweight Canadian champion, two claim it and both were fighting here last night.—Sport Editor

HEDGES PROTECT TRACKS FROM HEAVY SNOW DRIFTS

Montreal, Nov. 2.—Over 10 miles of evergreen trees have been planted this fall by the Canadian Pacific Railway along their right-of-way in Quebec. These will replace the unsightly wooden fences that were erected for the purpose of keeping snow and sand from drifting on the railroad tracks.

The Canadian Pacific has approximately 110 miles of evergreen hedge along its right of way in the Dominion. The cost of planting and care of these trees is only a fraction of the cost of the fences and while it serves the useful purpose of keeping the railway cuts clear of snow, it also forms a compact and beautiful hedge, which adds materially to the beauty of the landscape.
