Herridge Issues Denunciation Of Government

OTTAWA, Feb. 1—(CP)—Declaring the only issue in the forthcoming election was the measure of Canada's contribution to the war, Hon. W. D. Herridge, head of the New Democracy Movement and former Canadian Minister to Washington, in a statement tonight said "those who believe in the justice of our cause must believe in maximum contribution and must unite to defeat the Liberal Government."

Mr. Herridge was called out of the city for a few days and before his departure said New Democracy Movement had not completed its plan for the coming campaign but an announcement in this conection would be made sooon after his return. He is candidate in Kindersley, Sask.

Mr. Herridge's statement follows:—

There is only one issue in this election: The measure of Canada's contribution to the war. The Liberal government has declared itself upon that issue. It intends that Canada shall not make its maximum contribution to the war. Those who believe in the justice of our cause must believe in maximum contribution and must unite to defeat the Liberal Government.

The first step to economic security at home is victory in this war. New Democracy, which is pledged to reform, stands for unity of patrotic effort.

No fair-minded Canadian wants to play politics at this time. All parties gave the Liberal Government full opportuunity to recover from a bad start and to show its capacity and purpose. Had the Government played the game by Canada and the Empire, we would have backed it to a man. But it let us down and it must go.

Dalhousie Students Vote Withdrawal From Students' Assembly

HALIFAX, Feb. 1—(CP)—The final step in severing relations with the Canadian Students' Assembly was taken by students of Dalhousie University here today.

At a mass meeting, the students voted 95-76 in support of the student council's action in withdrawing from the Assembly. The council made its decision several days ago, after similar action had been taken at four other Canadian universities.

Charges that anti-war and anti-British sentiments were expressed at the assembly's convention in December at St. Anne de Bellevue, Quebec led to the withdrawals.

A. Walthen Gaudet of Charlottetown, spokesman for the pro-C. S. A. group on the Dalhousie campus, moved at today's forum that a vote of censure be passed against the council for its action in the matter. He maintained that discussion and a "compromise solution" would be better than withdrawal from the C. S. A. The motion was lost, 95-76.

Gaudet was backed in his stand by Otto H. Antoft of Lakeville N. S., leader of the Dalhousie delegation to the C. S. A. convention. Antoft said that he saw a spirit of Canadian unity at the conference, and withdrawal from the C. S. A. would be a blow to this spirit.

Gaudet claimed that "just because one or two speakers might have expressed anti-war sentiments at the conference is no reason why the entire assembly should be branded."

John W. McDougall of New Glasgow, N. S., member of the Students' Council, said: "We think the C. S. A. is all right as an organization. It's too bad it has to have its throat cut. Under the circumstances however, it wouldn't be good policy for Dalhousie to maintain its affiliation."

Frederick Barton of Halifax, president of the students' council and chairman of today's meeting, said the Council did not seek to brand the C. S. A. He quoted the council's resolution, which simply read that connections with the C. S. A. were being severed in favor of the National Federation of Canadian University Students.

The council, Barton said, felt that the latter organization could do more for Dalhousie than the C. S. A., "and there is no sense keeping up both affiliations."

Gaudet was interrupted several times during his speech by hisses and catcalls. About 200 of Dalhousie's 869 students attended the meeting. Barton presided. Members of the students' council were on the platform.

Other Canadian universities which have withdrawn from the C. S. A. are Mount Allison, University of New Brunswick, University of Manitoba and the University of Saskatchewan. University of British Columbia has suspended membership in the C. S. A. pending investigation.

Liberals Take Lion's Share Of Radio Time

OTTAWA, Feb. 1—(CP)—Broadcast of general elections campaign speeches on national networks will be restricted to a total of 12 3-4 hours for all parties combined, over the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation network, the C. B. C. announced late today following an agreement with party representatives.

The Liberals will be allowed 5 1-4 hours, Conservatives 4 3-4 hours, Co-Operative Commonwealth Federation 1 1-2 hours, and the Social Credit party 1 1-4 hours.

This national network time will be granted without charge, and paid political broadcasting will be confined to local and provincial broadcasts through private stations.

A continuing committee will be established to arrange practical application of the principle agreed upon. The committee, composed of representatives of the C. B. C., the C. A. B. and the four political parties, will meet daily in Toronto, and will decide what hours and dates are to be allotted to the various parties for their speeches.

A similar committee for Montreal to deal with particular problems of the French language network is contemplated.

Standing of the various parties in parliament at dissolution, number of candidates in the field and the popular vote at the last general election were among factors involved in the allottment of time to the four parties.

"It is recognized," said the C. B. C. statement, "that arrangements for broadcasting during the election which would deprive all but the established parties of the right to broadcast on a national scale might be unjust. On the other hand, it is felt that network time should not be made available for every new political movement which might choose to enter the arena, however little it might represent the thought and feeling of the people.

"Accordingly, certain conditions must be fulfilled by new parties desiring to secure free time on the national network. No exact definition is imposed, but it is suggested that eligibility will be determined by considerations such as breadth and range of policies on national issues, national leadership, extent of organization and number of nominated candidates, this to be not less than 61 in at least three provinces, approximately one for every four constituencies.

"Free time allotted to new parties fulfilling such conditions would be over and above the amounts given to the existing parties, and therefore would not affect the selection which has already been made and agreed."

Light-Heavyweight Scrap Expected To Be Tough Tussle

NEW YORK, Feb. 1 —(AP)—The second showing of one of the toughest tussles in Madison Square Garden this winter comes on tomorrow night, only this time Fred Apostoli and Melio Bettina will be pitching for a shot at Billy Conn's light-heavyweight crown.

Apostoli, former middleweight champion from San Francisco, was awarded a close decision over the ex-light-heavyweight king a month ago after a 12-round session in which both battlers wound up staggering around from the red hot pace.

Since then, the argument as to whether the verdict in the Frisco bellhop's favor was just has been a big talking point along Bash boulevard. A return go was a "natural" for promoter Mike Jacob., this time over 15 rounds; with Conn to meet the winner, probably in March and providing he wins over Gus Lesnevich in their title tea-party in Miami, Feb. 28.

Daily War Survey

(By The Canadian Press)

News from the far east to the effect that Japan's relations with Soviet Russia have not materially improved goes a certain distance towards clarifying the position of the eastern Island Empire in relation to the European War. It tends to dispel fears of a combination of three or perhaps four totalitarian powers against the democratic states.

Since Nazi Germany, the architect of the anti-Comintern pact between Germany, Italy and Japan cut the foundations from the pact by concluding a deal with Communist Russia, Japan's position has been obscure. Of the three anti-Comintern powers Japan alone had immediate difficulties with Russia. They were boundary clashes which led to a fair-sized undeclared war between the two powers and Russia's influence in and assistance to China in its fight against Japanese invasion.

German diplomats are said to have tried to bring Japan and Russia together. The two countries actually entered negotiations for a settlement of boundary disputes but these negotiations ended in a deadlock.

In a review of Japanese foreign policy in the Diet yesterday Foreign Minister Hachiro Arita said Japan was determined to purge China of anti-Japanese and pro-Comintern influence. This admission of a continued clash between Japanese and Soviet influences in China, coupled with the breakdown of negotiations on the boundary question would seem to push the prospect of any real cooperation between Japan and Russia into the fairly remote future.

While the Foreign Minister expressed a hope for improvement in relations with Russia he was more positive in his hopes for an improvement in relations with Great Britain and this in the face of the sharp British-Japanese dispute over the stopping of a Japanese passenger ship by a British warship seeking German seamen.

Mr. Arita spoke in cordial terms of Italy and Germany but definitely linked Japan's friendship towards those countries to the Anti-Comintern pact which is aimed at checking the spread of Communism.
