FINDS BABY'S BODY AND PLAYS "FUNERAL"

CHESTER, Pa., April 26.—When Laura Smith, ten years old, discovered a mysterious bundle wrapped in newspapers on the shore of the Delaware River, near Highland avenue, this morning, she investigated and found the bundle contained the body of an infant boy. Calling several of her playmates, Laura suggested, "Let us play funeral."

Tenderly placing the little body in a small express wagon, the children started slowly up the street in the direction of the morgue of E. F. White, a local undertaker, but before they reached the morgue, word of what the unusual cortege meant had reached scores of other youngsters, and when the miniature "hearse" reached the undertaking establishment there were fully 200 youngsters in the "funeral procession."

Police are investigating the case.

An effort is being made by a wing of the party to remove E. H. Hagerman, the manager of the co-operative branch. He is being strongly supported by A. C. Fawcett, M. P., and the Nova Scotia delegates. It is reported that the stockholders will be called upon to pay the balance of the subscribed stock.

MAY WHEAT DROPS OVER SIX CENTS IN WINNIPEG MARKET

WINNIPEG, April 25.—The strength shown on the local wheat market during the latter days of last week was not maintained this morning and at the close May wheat showed a loss of 61-4 and July 4 3/4 lower than Saturday. The extreme adjustments of last week in cash premiums and the adjusting of short sales has had its effects and signs of returning to normal conditions are again evident. During this session May touched a low of $1.59 1/2, and July $1.34 1/2. A less urgent demand in the cash market indicated that the short interest had been liquidated for the time being. Offerings early this morning were fairly large, while premiums were unchanged to one cent better. Later the top grade with offerings being well absorbed. The coarse grains showed lower prices in sympathy with wheat.

BARS NATIVE WINES

TORONTO, April 26.—The legislature today gave a second reading to the bill introduced by H. H. Dewart, the Liberal leader, to amend the Ontario Temperance Act by prohibiting the sale of native wines and to limit the amount of liquor given out at government dispensaries on a prescription to six ounces.

British Coal Strike Still Unsettled

LONDON, April 26.—An official report on this morning's conference of miners and mine owners which was attended by the President of the Board of Trade, the Minister of Labor, the Secretary for Mines.

The coal owners and the miners representatives says the conferees considered a statement by the owners containing a proposal for a durable scheme providing that the coal industry should depend on its ability to pay and that the country be divided into agreed areas, standard wages for the men would be fixed as against standard profits for the owners, under the proposal the standard of wages being a first charge on the industry. The Surplus Revenue of an area would be divided between owners and the men. A temporary agreement for the transaction period would provide that the country be divided into five areas and that for three months reductions in wages in each area should be uniform—not exceed an amount to be fixed by the Government, the owners and the men for each of the three months respectively. No payment would be made for days on which the men did not work; for each month of the temporary agreement the owners would not share in the Surplus Revenue or take the standard profits if wages for this reason would be likely to be reduced.

HIS MAJESTY WINS

The King sued the Taft-Peirce Manufacturing Company, of Woonsocket, R. I. for $80,000, damages, alleging breach of contract by the defendant in the manufacture of gauges for the manufacture of machine guns. The trial lasted eleven days.

Granddaughter Of Napoleon In Paris

Desires Seat at Mass in Observance of Centenary of Emperor's Death

PARIS, April 27.—In one of the parish schools of Paris there is today a teacher who is the granddaughter of the great Napoleon, the centenary of whose death France is now preparing to celebrate. She lives in a small apartment in the Boulevard St. Michel, and teaches tourchins of the district the history of France, in which her father's father played so great a part.

On the eve of the celebration a Paris newspaperman has sought her out to ask what share she would like to have in the ceremonies. That she should have a corner in Notre Dame when mass was celebrated in the Emperor's memory was her only request. "But who will think of me?" she added. Mme. Charlotte Mesnard is now the name of this descendant of the great Emperor. Although only one generation separates her from him, she is only 55 years old. In her features, especially in the forehead and eyes, there is traceable a distinct resemblance to his, and even more to those of the mother. In those of her son, Mme. Mesnard says, the likeness was even more remarkable; but her son, the great-grandson of the Emperor, is dead. When he was only 19 he fell fighting for France near Rheims.

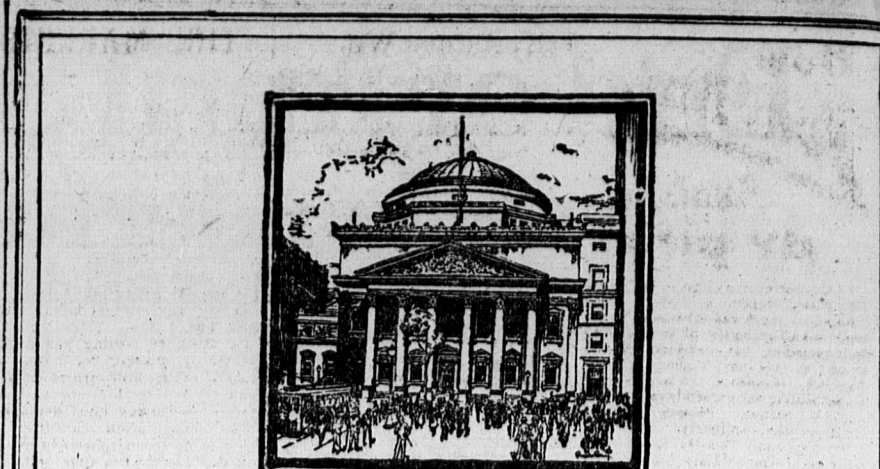

Mme. Mesnard's father was known in history as Count Leon. He was the natural son of Napoleon and Elouare de la Plaigne, a maid of honor of Princess Murat. In 1806 when he was born, his father recognized him and his first years were spent at Court. Napoleon, then without legitimate heirs, had him educated as a real prince and even after his marriage with Marie Luise of Austria, kept him at the Tuilleries and treated him affectionately.

Count Leon's life after the fall of the Emperor was adventurous and troubled. Napoleon had made provision for him in his will, drawn at St. Helena, but the terms of the will were never carried out. Leon became famous as a gambler and duellist. Late in life he married a woman of humble birth and had three sons and one daughter, the woman whose one wish it is on the day of the centenary to have a seat at the mass in the cathedral where the Pope crowned her ancestor. Of the sons of Count Leon, two are dead, one as the result of wounds and exposure in the World War. The third, with his children, lives quietly in the Vosges district.

Wild Rumors Over Nickerson Arrest

YARMOUTH, April 26.—By the report published in a city daily on Saturday, to the effect that Fred Nickerson had been arrested by Provincial constable McMillan at Yarmouth, at Argyle, the previous Thursday brought before Stipendiary Pelton and fined $31.60, and in default of payment sent to jail for two months, is somewhat absurd, considering penalty and what that report charges him with. The report showed that the prisoner was involved in a cattle stealing episode about seven years ago, escaped justice at that time by leaving the country, but had recently returned and the strong arm of the law had got after him, brought him to justice with the above results, and with the additional sentence that he must provide bonds to keep the peace, after he is released, for two years.

Such a report going broadcast over the country would lead desperadoes to believe that Yarmouth would be an easy place for them to carry on any nefarious work they may choose, particularly when they read or learn of a cattle thief of seven years' standing being fined $31.60, or in default of payment two months in the common jail. Another absurdity of the report was the statement that Nickerson, when he saw the officers of the law after him, beat a hasty retreat to the deep woods, armed with a Winchester rifle, revolvers and field glasses, presumably for the purpose of spying on his pursuers, and when they approached to take him prisoners he would shoot, and for all that the seriousness of the only saw fit to impose the foregoing charge against him can be readily imagined, when Stipendiary Pelton only saw fit to impose the foregoing sentence. The real charge for which Nickerson was taken was for assault, and it was not known that Nickerson was in the country the day before the arrest, and the charge was preferred against him by a neighbor.

Banking Service for All

AS the majority of the first directorate of the Bank of Montreal, formed in 1817, were Scotchmen or bore Scotch names it was but natural that they should seek in Canada "to extend and to perpetuate for the farmer and the merchant the benefits and stimulus of a system the worth of which Scotland's prosperity could abundantly prove." One of the outstanding features of the system was the maintenance of numerous branches by banks of large capital.

The Bank of Montreal, in adopting this feature from the outset, laid the foundations of a service by which branches have been established throughout the entire Dominion.

At each of these branches the full service of the complete organization is available.

Through this service the Bank of Montreal offers to all classes of the community, from the smallest savings depositor to the largest commercial organization, good and adequate banking facilities. Each customer whether his account be large or small is welcome as a client of the institution.

ESKIMOS OF REPULSE BAY REPORTED STARVING

THE PAS, April 27.—The Eskimos of Repulse Bay, on the fringe of the Arctic Ocean, are starving trappers reaching here report. The failure of the caribou herds to come into their vicinity has caused a shortage of food during the winter and many deaths are reported.

The great herds of deer are reported at Chesterfield Inlet and westward and the eastern coast tribes have fared well.

TIGHTENING UP THE LAW

WASHINGTON, April 27.—As the first step of the fight in Congress to tighten up the Volstead prohibition enforcement law, a bill designed to prohibit the sale of beer to the sick on a doctor's prescription, was introduced in the House today by Chairman Volstead of the judiciary committee. The measure would not prohibit the use of wine for medicinal purposes, but would make more specific and stringent the regulations on this subject. Frankly declaring that there was no real necessity for beer as a medicine, Mr. Volstead declared that this bill, described as supplementary to the National Prohibition Act, was put forward at this time to meet the situation created by the opinion of former Attorney-General Palmer that beer and wine, under the Volstead Act, could be prescribed for the ailing.
