IN MEMORIAM

MRS. HENRY MACKENZIE

On Sunday July 21st at the home of her daughter Mrs. MacRae of Waterside, Mrs. Henry MacKenzie in her 78th year passed peacefully home to be with Jesus, her Saviour, whom she loved and trusted, since her early childhood. Mrs. MacKenzie had not been in the best of health, especially since the death of her husband who died just a few weeks ago.

Everything that love and medical skill could do was done by those who loved her but without avail. The Heavenly Father had come for his third sorrowing child and she exchanged the things of earth and the changing scenes, for the more enduring substances of the Summer-land of light and love.

The funeral took place on Monday July 22nd at the late residence. Her pastor Rev. R. W. Lindsay conducted the service, assisted by Rev. H. O. Pierce who offered prayer and Rev. J. P. Campbell, who read the scripture lesson. A solo was rendered by Rev. R. W. Lindsay "The Summer-land up Yonder."

Pastor Lindsay spoke a few words based on the text 1 Thess. 4th chapter 13th verse.

Expressions of sympathy and comfort was given to the sorrowing ones. They were commended to the God of all grace and consolation.

The speaker gave what he would consider the secrets of Mrs. MacKenzie's hope and trust and to us a good reason for taking this text as our source of help and comfort.

The first secret:—She was brought up in a home that had a spiritual atmosphere. A place where God was honored in family worship and divine things were highly esteemed.

The second secret:—She grew in grace because of a spiritual atmosphere in church. She mingled with people who loved God, served Jesus and prayed much, whose songs of praise were continually going up to God.

The fourth secret was, she was rich in deeds of love and kindness. Nothing was too much trouble to her, if she only brightened some ones pathway.

The fifth secret and not the least, she was a woman of strong and deep convictions. She knew what she believed and nothing could move her from the simple teachings of Jesus or the high moral standards of life.

From the beginning of their married life Mr. and Mrs. MacKenzie sustained the family altar honouring God in worship and christian service.

Sorrow said the speaker is Gods gift to the bereaved, a merciful relief to them. Sorrow is nowhere forbidden, for the believing soul sorrows not as those who have no hope.

"O ye tears! O ye tears! till I felt you on my cheeks, I was selfish in my sorrows, I was stubborn, I was weak; Ye have given me strength to conquer, and I stand erect, and free And know that I am human by the light of sympathy".

Mr. Lindsay appealed to all, that came to sympathize with the sorrowing ones, to make this occasion one of consecration to the highest and best things of life making our homes spiritual in tone. Then when the Day Dawns and Shadows flee away we shall meet those whom we have loved and lost awhile. Ours is the joy of looking forward when in that Summer-land up yonder we shall see Jesus.

The hymns, "Nearer my God to Thee" "Shall We Gather at the River" "Jesus Lover of My Soul".

Funeralbearers:—Messrs. M. W. Wood, Malcolm MacRae, Boswell Jenkins, Henry Young, Earl Jenkins, Boswell Carver. Place of Interment Mt. Herbert.

PEAKES' STATION WOMEN'S INSTITUTE MEETING

The regular monthly meeting of this branch was held at the home of Mrs. Thomas Dunphy, July 17, with an attendance of nine members and four visitors.

Meeting opened with an old time tune on the Victrola, followed by reading and adoption of minutes of last meeting. Roll Call was answered with hints on canning.

Report of convention was given, which proved interesting and instructive. A discussion took place concerning the improving of the school house. It was not definitely decided how much money to give until full particulars will be given as to what it will cost.

Sees Need Of Proper Wage To P. E. I. Teachers

Commenting editorially on the work before the Education Commission, recently appointed by the Provincial Government, the Halifax Herald says:

"It is within the memory of most of us that the Prince Edward Island school teachers threatened "to go on strike" a few months ago, and that the dispute was at least temporarily composed by the promise of a Commission to investigate and report upon the alleged grievance. That Commission has now been selected, with Professor Cyrus MacMillan as Chairman, and all who appreciate the matters at stake will wish it God-speed.

"For what is at stake is nothing less than the prospect of getting a supply of competent men and women for the most responsible task of public education. Perhaps we should say a supply of competent women, for the drift of men away from the teaching profession has become so complete that it seems chimerical, at least in Prince Edward Island, to hope for its arrest. "The average salary here," says a despatch from Charlottetown "is $537 per annum." It is true that the cost of living has declined since the peak of the war years, but such pay as this, without the maintenance that is given to a general servant, is such as no general servant with her wits about her and any real capacity for her job would dream of accepting.

"Prince Edward Island has a high and deserved reputation for the intellectual quality of its people. It has provided for the public service of Canada not a few illustrious men. It has shone by the character of those who have come from its schools in days gone by to enter the universities and afterwards themselves to guide the higher learning of the Dominion. With what feelings, then, must the news be received that in this province, with so great a past "the teachers are the lowest paid of any in the Dominion of Canada!"

"This is not a pre-eminence that anyone, least of all surely the Islander, will desire. There may be circumstances not yet disclosed, which must be taken into account in judging the whole matter. It is for the Commission to find these out, and to inform the public. For one can hardly over-emphasize, especially in these days, the public importance of keeping the standard of teaching high, nor is there any other method by which it can be so fatally lowered as by deterring the proper sort of candidates from taking it up as their life work. One awaits this enquiry with interest, and with some degree of concern. Everyone does lip-service to education. But the degree to which such service was sincere is revealed at a crisis, when the thing we professed to value is in danger, and the price of saving it is some degree of personal self-sacrifice."

Amendment To Migratory Bird Act Is Made

Notification has been received from Ottawa of amendment of the Migratory Birds Convention Act, on recommendation of the Minister of the Interior, open and close seasons being fixed in accordance with the following:

No person shall kill, hunt, capture, injure, take or molest any migratory game birds except in the case of the birds hereinafter specified in the section and during the period specified for each Province, the presence of persons with fire-arms, with or without decoys, lying in wait for migratory birds to be considered prima facie evidence of hunting.

In P. E. Island the season for ducks, geese, brant and rails is Sept. 1 to Dec. 14.

Shore birds or waders, including only woodcock and Wilson's or Jack snipe—in P. E. I. Sept. 15-Nov. 30 inclusive; Nova Scotia and New Brunswick, except the islands of the Grand Manan group, Oct. 1-Nov. 30; in Islands of Grand Manan, N. B., Oct. 15-Nov. 30.

The amendments include provision that close season shall continue until Jan. 31 1932 on the following migratory game birds. Little brown, sandhill and whooping cranes, swans, curlew, greater and lesser yellowlegs, black bellied and golden plover and all shore birds except Wilson's or Jack snipe and woodcock.

No one may in one season kill in excess of 25 woodcock.

POTATO PROSPECTS

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 24—(C. P.)—With a new late potato crop in the ground that promises at least to equal the 2,600,000-acre crop of 1927, farmers must determine before fall whether greater profit lies in early, gradual, or late selling.

In 1926-27, production averaged 3.0 bushels per capita population of the United States and late selling paid producers who held their crop from the market at the time of harvesting.

As a general rule, whenever total potato production falls below 3.2 bushels per capita the price trend usually has been upward, and whenever it has approached or exceeded 3.8 bushels the price has tended downward during the season.

Wells A. Sherman, principal marketing specialist for the federal bureau of agricultural economics, says potato prices are closely related to production, which in turn depends on acreage and yield. While the late potato acreage, forecast before planting was completed, indicates a crop similar to that of 1927 the actual yield cannot be forecast until August or September.

During the last 27 years, he says, the grower usually was justified in holding only when the indicated crop was far below the average or was not much more than three bushels per capita. In other years the chance of profit to the grower was too uncertain to balance the added risk, cost and shrinkage. The grower who acted according to early forecasts, selling at once when heavy yields were indicated, or selling at convenience in case of doubt, and holding only in very scarce seasons, apparently had a chance of being right three out of four times.

ALL-STARS WIN FROM S. SIDE BY 10-1 SCORE

The local All-Stars decisively trounced Summerside last night at the Abegweit grounds by a score of 10 to 1. At no time during the game were the visitors within striking distance of a victory, faulty fielding and weak hitting in the pinches being the cause of Summerside's one-sided defeat.

Only a small attendance viewed the game. The line-ups were: Summerside—Peters, Perry, Schurman, Daley, Campbell, McInnis, Monley, Clow, Durant.

Smaller Vessels As Plane Bearers

(Canadian Press)

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 24—The new aircraft carrier to be built under the fifteen cruiser programme is regarded by students of naval affairs in congress as a move toward discarding high-tonnage plane-bearing ships for smaller vessels.

Out of such a step, they believe, would come more economical operation and a lessening of the loss that would be caused in war time by the destruction of a carrier by an enemy.

Representative French, Republican, Idaho, chairman of the Appropriations sub-Committee which supplies the funds for the navy department's activities, predicted today that in the years to come five of the smaller carriers would replace the Lexington and the Saratoga, the two high tonnage ships that now are the first line carriers for the fleet.

The new ship contemplated would be of 13,900 tons as compared with approximately 33,000 tons each for the Lexington and the Saratoga. Naval experts estimate that it will carry 70 planes for regular use and 35 in reserve. The Lexington and Saratoga each carry 90 serviceable planes and 43 dismantled ones in reserve.

French said the new cruiser will be of a type that we suppose will be similar to the five carriers that congress will build as the years go along.

"Everyone knows," he went on, "that those two ships, the Lexington and the Saratoga, are money consumers; money consumers when in operation or when they are idle. They have cost upwards of $40,000,000 each. They cost for maintenance more than any other ships of the American navy for fuel.

"The amounts that are involved in just the keeping of those ships are so stupendous that we think the government will consider, and the members of our committee will consider, that they ought to be withdrawn from commission just as soon as their places can be taken by other airplane carriers of a type that will be capable of caring for our needs more economically."

A comparison with the Lexington of the type of carrier now contemplated by the navy shows that the latter could be operated for $1,797,813 against $2,512,698 for the former. The smaller ship would require 500 fewer men than the Lexington and less than half as much fuel.

Another advantage seen by French is the lessening of the hazard to the system of defense by having a larger number of carriers instead of concentrating the airplanes of the fleet upon two or three ships.

If one of five carriers should be bombed in time of war, he said, the damage to the naval defense would be but a small percentage of that which would accrue from the destruction of a 33,000-ton ship bearing half or a third of the planes allotted to the carriers.

Five ships of the 13,900 tonnage could be squeezed into the remainder of the United States' allotment for aircraft carriers under the Washington Treaty. The Lexington and the Saratoga use only 66,000 tons of the 135,000-ton total the United States has for that purpose.
