S. S. LESSON

LESSON V. July 30.
THE FINDING OF THE BOOK OF THE LAW.

2 Chron. 34 : 14:33.

GOLDEN TEXT.

"Thy word have I hid in my heart, that I may not sin against Thee."—Ps. 119 : 11.

POINTED SUGGESTIONS.
By Rev. D. W. Snider.

Possibly the most fruitful thought to pluck from this lesson is the relation of heart-tenderness to reform. Put it this way if it is more suggestive: "What good things may be credited to the hard-hearted ?"

Yet, there are those who would give you to understand that tears are unmanly and that a conscience which becomes easily troubled is not only a discomfort, but also a hindrance to success. Therefore, stiffen it, sear it, harden it, blacken it—that's the way to get there !

But where is there ? Would you say that the terminal of shame that Manasseh or Amon reached is a goal to be preferred ? What did Josiah inherit at their hands ? Did not he come to a throne that was undermined, to a kingdom that was distracted, to a religion that was beastialized ?

Kidd's famous book on "Social Evolution" is built up on the belief that a thousand instances establish that the reforms which have blessed mankind have come about through the pressure of conscience upon the hearts of the worthy until they could no longer fight for the rights that had been asserted as belonging to their class, it may have been, for a thousand years.

If you have a tender heart thank God for it. Pray that it may be still more tender. Be not afraid of the grace of tears. This age is in need of the influence of the mellowing and sympathetic and reverent. The chase for money is hardening. The spiritual is hardening. Ask yourself over this lesson and study it out, "Would I have had a Bible to read today if Josiah had not had a tender heart ?"

There are some "finds" that are more valuable than those which the mine prospector can ever publish. Surely the recovery of the book of the law of the Lord was one of them.

Josiah was evidently more deeply stirred by the finding of "the book" than others who ought to have shown an equal interest at least. But to whom is yielded the greater respect, Hilkiah and Shaphan or Josiah ?

It is well to convert one's soul to the performance of the right to the point of the knowledge he has of it—and, where authority lies and responsibility with it, it is well also to bring others into the bond. It is on account of such an exercise as this that children rise up to call their parents blessed.

How about the Bible in your home ? That is an important question. What place has it there ? How is it used ? How often is it read ? How deeply is it studied ? To what extent is its heavenly teaching sought out as a stimulus and as an aid to devotion ?

But a more important matter is suggested in the Golden Text. Sam Jones used to direct words of characteristic sarcasm against those who carried Bibles under their arms on Sundays, but had not gotten enough gospel in their heads or hidden enough of it in their hearts to point a sin-sick soul to Jesus. How about that ?

TOO DANGEROUS.

In the struggling days at Tuskogee, Booker T. Washington found that he would have to use an old chicken-house for a schoolroom.

"Uncle," he said to an old colored man: "I want you to come down at nine o'clock tomorrow morning and help me clean out a henhouse."

"Law now, Mr Washington" the old man expostulated, "you-all don't want to begin cleanin' out no henhouse roun' yere in de day time.—Success Magazine.

DEATH OF LITTLE NELL.

Dickens met a woman who told him that she could never forgive him for permitting the death of Little Nell in "The Old Curiosity Shop." Dickens is reported to have replied: "Surely you would not have liked her to marry a butcher or a baker."

IT LOOKED GOOD TO HIM.

The teacher was demonstrating the powerful corrosive effects of intoxicating beverages upon a stomach's lining. The class looked on with horror when she poured some ninety-five per cent. alcohol on an egg, thereby causing it to shrivel and coagulate. The demonstrator was pleased to observe the interest displayed by the janitor who had come in for the waste baskets. It was well known that he had need of such warning.

"Ma'am," he asked timidly, "wud you mind telling me where you buy yer licker?"—Success Magazine.
