Serve Him the Coffee that's "Good to the Last Drop"

LET'S all take this opportunity for meeting and knowing the fine boys of Canada's Army. Let's turn out to see the parades and other activities. Above all, let every home within reach of our troops try to entertain at least one soldier during the week.

A HOME ON THE RANGE

CHAPTER II DOMESTIC WORRIES

"I shan't sleep to-night, I shall be terrified of the rats!" After Joe had gone to get stores from his "warehouse," Mrs. Daintry grew frantic with protest. The roaring wood fire, which Joe had made to air the mattresses, failed to add much comfort to the scene. The room was thick with dust, dull and dingy, with its old-fashioned, flower-patterned, horsehair couch, and linoleum floor. "It's a little rough, perhaps, but—ah!—it will look better when it's cleaned," Captain Daintry tried to coax his wife into cheerfulness. "And who is going to clean it? I can't do it, and I'm sure Myrtle can't. No tape, no lights, no cooking arrangements, but an old range!" Memories of their Brook-st. flat, with its decorations by an ultra-modern artist, swam before Mrs. Daintry's eyes. "Now, mother—" Myrtle, sympathetic and slightly impatient, patted her shoulder. "I wasn't brought up to things like this, I've never known what it is to be without two or three servants—or at least one. My mother always kept four."

THE COOK'S CORNER

COTTAGE CHEESE PIE

1 cup cottage cheese
2-3 cup sugar
2-3 cup milk
1 tablespoon melted butter
Salt
1-3 teaspoon vanilla
1-3 egg yolks
Mix the ingredients in the order given. Bake in one-crust pie shell in the usual way. Cool slightly, cover with granulated sugar, 2 egg whites, two tablespoons sugar and brown in a slow oven (275d).

TOMATO ASPIC

Tomato Aspic is especially good when served with a tangy sour cream dressing. To make the aspic soak 2 tablespoons granulated gelatin 5 minutes in cold water. Slicer, covered, for 3) minutes, 3 cups tomatoes, 2 bay leaves, 4 celery leaves, 2 onion slices, 6 whole cloves teaspoon salt, 1-4 teaspoon paprika, teaspoon granulated sugar, 2 parsley sprigs and 1-2 cup boiling water. Strain, reheat to boiling and pour over gelatin mix. Stir until dissolved, add tablespoon lemon juice, pour into a mold and chill until firm.

JELLIED TUNA

Here is a recipe for jellied tuna with mayonnaise that will yield 8 portions. Dissolve a package of lemon flavored gelatin in one pint hot water. Add 2 tablespoons chopped onion, 1-2 cup mayonnaise and 2 tablespoons paprika. Chill until firm. Unmold on crisp lettuce and garnish with mayonnaise and paprika.

DIES AT 98

SAINT JOHN, N. B., June 28.—(CP)—Mrs. Sarah Drummond Galivan, believed to have been Saint John's oldest resident, died today at the age of 98.

ME

There are so many of me—There's the me in the looking glass There's the me that the neighbors see There's the me that I am, alas. There's the me I used to be There's a new me when I awake—There are so many of me. No wonder my arches ache!

MAY RICHSTONE

ARMY TIP

Here's a conservation note from the boys in the camps: They've found that colorless nail polish keeps their buttons shiner for a longer time. With every bit of metal so precious — on your bags, your jewelry, your buttons — use the polish to protect the metal from scratches and keep it shiny and bright. Besides the sink brush, keep a small round one with three-inch handle, to clean frying pan or cooking dish. Boil the brushes in soda water every few days and dry in the sun.

Genuine pearls and diamonds will squeak or rattle when rubbed against dry ice, this distinguishing them from counterfeits.

Male asparagus plants are heavier and yield more spears, while spears from female plants are larger and better quality.

OF REAL VALUE

If she is a bride who will begin her new life in a miniature apartment with few material blessings but an appreciation of nice things, then for her the gift of some lovely something that she wouldn't be able to have otherwise. Real lace place doilies, for instance, with linen napkins to match. Or a china tea set, or service plates of modern pottery, lovely and expensive. Or a sterling silver tray or an old silver coffee urn. Or a hand quilted throw of pure silk. Dropped on one side plain on the other.

NOW IS TIME FOR REPAIRS

If your furnace will need new pipes next fall, if your radiators need new valves, if your boiler will need new insulation, this is the time of year to see to it instead of waiting until the next busy season. The next two or three months are naturally normally quiet ones in the heating contractor's calendar. Consequently, he is in a better position to give attention to home heating problems during this period; furthermore, his stock of repair parts is fullest just now and he is able to offer a wider range of equipment and replacements. Another factor which suggests having the heating plant attended to now is that it will cause least inconvenience to all concerned to carry out such repairs at a season of the year when the system is not in operation. Repairs can, of course, be effected in the winter but as many of such repairs involve shutting down the system the summer is the most comfortable season in which to have such work accomplished.

FLOORS "GLAMORIZED" BY USE OF STENCILS

An old floor can be glamorized with stencils. In a young girl's room the floor was enamelled white and a two-color flower stencil applied at widely spaced intervals gave real spark to an old and badly worn floor. In another study bed-room — one large square design repeated to make an all-over pattern worked magic in camouflaging the uneven floor.

Dorothy Dix Says—

OUR SWEET GIRL GRADUATES SHOULD BE SELF-SUPPORTING

Men Will Be Scarce When War Is Over; Getting Husband Called Sheer Luck

The schools are sending forth their armies of sweet girl graduates who are about to face their first great battle with life. It is a spectacle that always brings a lump into the throat of the beholder, for these little soldiers are so brave, so gallant, so full of hope and faith, so ill-prepared for the dangers they must meet and so bewildered by them, and we oldsters know that many of them will be maimed and broken in the struggle, many will be slain.

Every year this same human drama is enacted when our girls, as the ironic phrase goes, "finish their education," but never before has it had such significance as it has now when war has changed the status of their sex and when their country is calling upon the womanpower, as well as the manpower, to help save it in its hour of need.

The world which the sweet girl graduate of today enters is a different world from that which her mother knew. No time now for pleasant dalliance, for idle flirtations, for gay parties, for swanky debuts, for playing at a career if you are a trifle highbrowed and very advanced, of which mother tells in speaking of her own girlhood.

Now everything is grim reality. The party is over. There is no make-believe work. It is back-breaking and heart-breaking labor. Girls are not embroidering doilies. They are making precision machines. They are not going buggy for their best beaux. They are not screaming at the sight of a mouse. They are daring death without the quiver of an eyelid.

All these altered conditions have brought up strange, new, difficult problems that the modern girl has to solve, for well she knows that life will never be for her what it was for her mother. When Mother was a girl she didn't know whether she wanted to go into business or not. Daughter knows she will have to be self-supporting, or starve.

It never crossed Mother's mind that she wouldn't marry and have a husband to take care of her. Daughter knows that after every war there are not enough men left to go around, and that even if she does get a husband he may be so crippled that she will have to be the breadwinner. Mother made being a woman an aim for sloppy work. Daughter knows that war took the sex out of work, and that if a woman expects a man's salary she must do a man's labor.

So when the sweet girl graduate of today sits down to try to plan her future, she should do a lot of serious thinking and try to decide on some occupation for which she not only has a natural bent, but that she will be interested in doing the balance of her life. There is no use in her kidding herself into thinking that it doesn't make any difference whether she goes in for stenography because Jane is doing it, or modeling because it must be fun to do nothing but put on expensive gowns, because she won't be doing it for long anyway, for the chances are that she has enlisted for the duration and the war with hard times is never going to be over for her.

Nor need she deceive herself into the wishful thinking that it is not necessary to make herself proficient in her job because some man will soon come along and marry her and she will stand before a counter instead of behind it. When this war is over there will be millions more women than there are men in the world, and getting a husband will be an act of God, or sheer luck. So every girl should make herself an expert in her line of work in order that she may command a fat pay envelope instead of a thin one.

I hope that when the sweet girl graduate of '42 asks herself "where do I go from here?" she will see that the only road that leads to success is the rocky one of hard work, and that most of the women whom she meet are those who do common-sense, everyday things, such as superintending a dress so that it takes twenty pounds off a fat woman, or nursing sick people.

But whatever she does and wherever she goes here's wishing the sweet girl graduate good luck, and, as the Mexicans say, "may God walk with her."

A Morning Smile

PRIVATE

Jones had gone to the cinema, but the inane chatter of two women seated immediately in front of him at last became more than he could stand. He tapped one of the women on the shoulder and said: "Pardon me, madam, but I can't hear."

The woman snorted. "You're not supposed to—this is a private conversation," she snapped.

Bobby was in a store with his mother when he was given candy by one of the clerks. "What must you say, Bobby?" "Charge it," he replied.

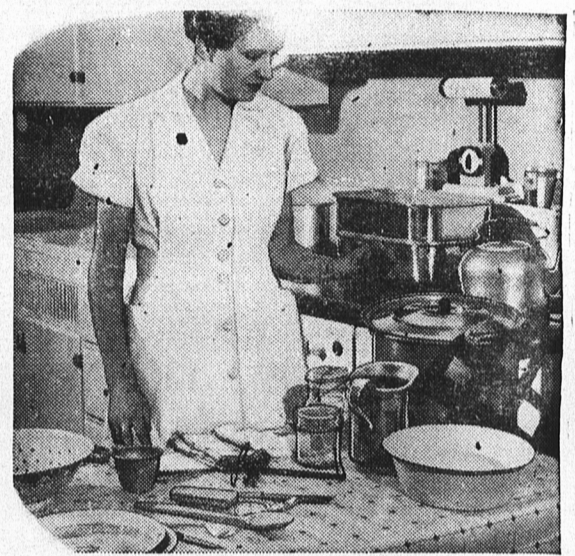

GASEMENT GAME ROOM REDUCED RUG CUTTING

Afterbug dancing — a delight to the youngsters and a source of regret to parents — still reigns in shanties, and a dark blue front popularity.

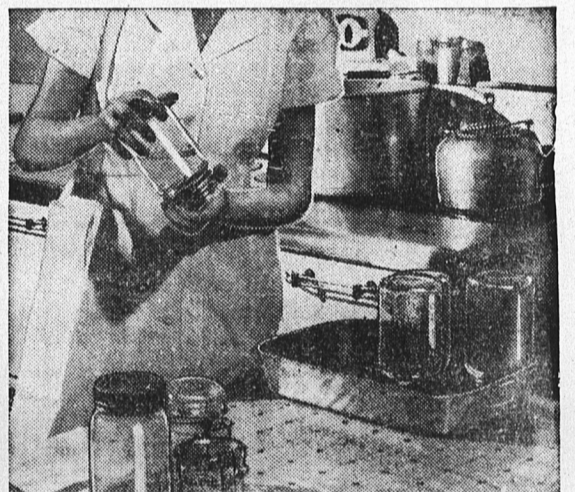

SEVEN STEPS IN CANNING

First step in canning is to select, sort and grade good fruit. The quality of canned food depends upon the quality of the raw material used.

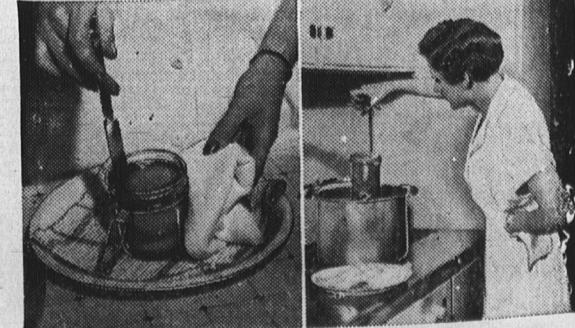

Check all equipment. Needed are sharp knives, a colander, bowls, measuring cups, enamel pie plates, wooden spoons, a wide mouthed funnel, a jar lifter and sterilizer which may be the wash boiler, even or steam-pressure cooker.

Test jar for leakage; see that it isn't cracked and there are no chips in the rim or cover, fill with water, seal and invert to test.

Test rubber rings. To be effective they must be elastic. Bend rings double; a poor one will crack. Then stretch; a good rubber will spring back.

To remove air bubbles, after filling dip the blade of a knife in boiling water and run down and around inside of the jar until all bubbles have disappeared completely.

For processing, adjust sterilized rubber bands and tops, partially seal. With wire clamp jars adjust top but do not spring down lower. With screw top screw tight then unscrew half turn.

Needlecraft For The Home

A hint for service workers in this practical cover-apron, similar to that prescribed for nurse's aid work. Wear it at home, and feel your efficiency-rating go up.

Style No. 2594 is designed for sizes Small, Medium and Large. Medium size requires 3 3/4 yards 35-inch fabric. No. 3148, sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, 20, 36 38, 40, 42 and 44, is a separate pattern. To order pattern: Write or send picture with your name and address with 20 cents in coin or stamps to the Needlecraft Bureau, Charlottetown Guardian, The Charlottetown Guardian Needlecraft Department.
