

15 TIMES THE MONEY

was spent on doctors' bills, without any benefit, as was spent in Zam-Buk, which effected a complete cure!" says Mrs. Fred Gervais of 128 Bleury St., Montreal.

"A rash broke out on my baby's skin, and she became very fretful and lost weight. I took her to a doctor, who gave me some lotion to apply, but it did not do baby any good. I then took her to another doctor, but with the same result.

"Then a friend, who saw the condition baby was in, brought me some Zam-Buk, which she so highly recommended that I commenced using it. In one week's time baby looked much better, and before a month had elapsed she was quite well again.

"Baby is now the picture of health, and I think it wonderful that $2 worth of Zam-Buk brought about this cure when $20 spent in doctors' treatments did no good whatever! I certainly advise other mothers not to experiment with useless remedies, but to save their little ones unnecessary suffering and themselves needless anxiety and expense by using Zam-Buk in the first place."

Zam-Buk is also best for eczema, ringworm, scalp sores, boils, ulcers, abscesses, bad legs, blood-poisoning, piles, cuts, burns and scalds. All dealers or Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, 50c. box, 3 for $1.25.

"HEXAGONAL NUT" EASY FOR SOLDIERS.

Men Pass Test of Five Years' Apprenticeship After Eight Months Course.

The advantage which the returned soldier who is being educated in a new trade under the direction of the Military Hospitals Commission due to his incapacity to carry on in his war trade, is most notably evident in the work of the machine tool makers' class at McGill University. There men are being so trained that they are able after six months' instruction to do the same quality of work which men apprenticed for four and five years turn out.

The feat of making a perfect hexagonal nut from a circular piece of steel is the test, and the men in the vocational training classes are attaining such proficiency in the eight months' course that they are able to satisfy the master craftsmen.

ANYTHING BUT HEALTHY

Parson Miles was a rather dry speaker, but occasionally he proved that he had a ready wit.

One evening he was addressing his congregation on the beauty of leading an upright life, when he suddenly paused, glanced around the church and beckoned to the sexton, "Brown," said he, in a clear, distinct tone of voice, as the sexton approached the pulpit, "open a couple of windows on each side of the church, please."

"Beg your pardon, sir?" exclaimed the sexton with a look of great surprise. "Did I understand you to say 'Open the windows?' It is a very bitter cold night, sir."

"Yes, I am well aware of that, Brown," was the cold, hard reply of the minister, as he gazed around the church, "but it is not healthy to sleep with the windows shut!"

DYSPEPSIA MADE A WRECK OF HER.

Ontario Soldier's Wife made worse by ordinary remedies, but soon cured by Dr. Cassell's Tablets.

Mrs. Mary Lawrence, 9, May-place, Kitchener, Ont., writes:—"Dr. Cassell's Tablets have made me a new woman. I used to be terribly depressed and suffered so much from dyspepsia that I was almost a physical wreck. I tried various things, which only seemed to make me worse, and then at last I got Dr. Cassell's Tablets. They changed my whole outlook on life. I am well now, I romp with my children, and am looking hopefully forward to my soldier husband's return."

"LOST MUSIC."

Under the caption, "Lost Music," an English reviewer reviews the "Songs of Peace," bequeathed to this war-weary world by Francis Ledwidge, the young Irish poet killed in Flanders. Lord Dunsany, who discovered and fostered him, contributes an introduction. Mr. Herbert Jenkins is the publisher, and he ought to send a batch of copies to Western Canada. The reviewer writes with a poignant tenderness of the poet who, willingly fighting in the line, was "homesick for peace" all the time and could only sing of peaceful themes. Ledwidge reminds him of Keats in his poetry and in his too early death. The poems are "pagan in beauty and Christian in suffering." He quotes a number of them, but not one is so simple and exquisitely lovely as the lyric, quoted here more than once, a glowing kind of threnody named "A Little Boy in the Morning." Like Keats, he sang of Greece, and the reviewer finds a freshness in it, an "eternal Greece," unknown in Keats. Here is one stanza from "A Hymn to Zeus."

"God, who fights the little stars,
And over night the white dew spills
Whose hand doth move the season's cars
And clouds that mock our pointed bills,
Whose bounty fills the cow trod
wound,
And fills with bread the warm brown sod,
Who brings us sleep, where we lie low old
'Til sleep and age together nod."

Another fragment is from a poem written in hospital in Egypt. It is called "My Mother," the mother being a spirit of his imagination:

"She came unto the hills and saw the change
That brings the swallow and the geese in turn.
But there was not a grief she deemed strange,
For there is that in her which all ways mourns.

Kind heart she has for all on hill or wave
Whose hopes grew wings like ants to fly away.
I bless thee God Who such a mother gave
This poor bird-hearted singer of a day."

The last stanza in the volume — was it the last song he uttered — must have suggested the term "Lost Music":

"My song forsakes me like the birds
That leave the rain and grey
I hear the music of the words
My lute can never say."

RUSSIAN EXPLAINS BOLSHIEVIK'S STRENGTH

In explanation of the events in Petrograd it is necessary to recall the circumstances which led to the predominance of the Bolshievi or Maximalist influence in the Soviet, otherwise the Council of Workmen's and Soldiers' Delegates, says the Petrograd correspondent of the Times, who is now in London. The Bolshievi, under the guidance of Nikolai Lenin, a propagandist who returned to Russia under German auspices, had long been agitating for the conclusion of a separate peace and had systematically indoctrinated the ignorant masses and the demoralized soldiery of Petrograd with the idea that peace would bring a solution of the bread crisis and would enable the peasants to take the land.

Deceived the Troops.

In July, when the Russian armies assumed the offensive and desperate attacks west of Tarnopol had almost exhausted the enemy reserves, the Bolshievi organized an armed rising in Petrograd. At that time they did not have a majority of the Soviet, but Bolshievi agents in the wireless service misrepresented the facts and the troops at the front were misled into the belief that the Bolshievi had obtained control of the Government and that the war was over. Some divisions opened in front of the enemy and the Russian armies retreated panic-stricken. General Korniloff, assuming the high command, introduced the death penalty and saved the armies of the whole of Southern Russia from the enemy. Premier Kerensky temporized with General Korniloff on the latter's demand for stern measures to introduce discipline into the army and order into the country and within the extreme faction of the Soviet. Summoning a conference at Moscow he endeavored to reconcile all these discordant elements.

Disregarded Oath.

Early in September another armed rising was expected and Premier Kerensky appealed to General Korniloff for help; at the same time he negotiated with the Bolshievi. Steps taken with Premier Kerensky's approval to enroll armed bands of workmen in Petrograd. More than 40,000 of these were provided with rifles and ammunition. This organization owned allegiance exclusively to the Soviet and probably has played an important part in the events of the last few days. After the repudiation and arrest of Korniloff came the proclamation of the republic in defiance of the oath of the Provisional Government not to change the status of the country pending the decisions of the Constituent Assembly. Thereupon there was convened a democratic conference, the so-called preliminary Parliament from which the moderate element were almost entirely excluded. Meanwhile the Bolshievi were fast increasing their hold upon the Soviet. Kerensky resigned from the Soviet committee, and his supporters, Chkeidze and Tseretelli, withdrew from the leadership, leaving the way open for the advent of Lenin's representative, Trotsky, and other pro-Germans.

NO RUSH OF WOMEN FOR WAR VACANCIES

(New York Times.)
The war has not yet caused New York City any large employment of women in the place of those who have joined the military forces or who have engaged in war industries. The Industrial Bureau of the Merchants' As-

A CHILD HATES OIL, CALOMEL, PILLS FOR LIVER AND BOWELS

Give "California Syrup of Figs" if cross, sick, feverish, Constipated.

Look back at your childhood days. Remember the "dose" mother insisted on—castor oil, calomel, cathartics. How you hated them, how you fought against taking them.

With our children it's different. Mothers who cling to the old form of physic simply don't realize what they do. The children's revolt is well-founded. Their tender little "insides" are injured by them.

If your child's stomach, liver and bowels need cleansing, give only delicious "California Syrup of Figs." Its action is positive, but gentle. Millions of mothers keep this harmless "fruit laxative" handy; they know children love to take it; that it never fails to clean the liver and bowels and sweeten the stomach, and that a teaspoonful given today saves a sick child tomorrow.

Ask your druggist for a bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has full directions for babies children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly on each bottle. Beware of counterfeiters sold here. See that it is made by "California Fig Syrup Company." Refuse any other kind with contempt.

sociation made public yesterday day result of an inquiry among New York employers which shows that in the United States there has taken place no such industrial changes, effected by the employment of women, as the war has brought to France, England and Germany. The inquiry also discloses that, contrary to popular belief, the women of American are not rushing into industrial life.

Not less than 1,000,000 men have this year been with drawn and put into the army and navy. A large number has engaged in munition and shipyard work. The review of the Merchants' Association presents no opinion as to the wisdom of the employment of women in America for jobs usually performed by men, but presents the results for the guidance of employers who are facing labor shortages.

"Careful investigation," the report said, "has failed to reveal that there has yet been very much substitution of female employees. This does not mean that women are not used extensively in industry, for women have regularly been employed in a great many lines of manufacturing and form a more important element in our labor supply than is usually thought. For instance, of 150 employers in New York City and vicinity who reported concerning the substitution of female workers in their factories or offices only thirty-five are now using female workers more extensively than formerly."

LITTLE SUBSTITUTES BY WOMEN.

"Special inquiry," the report said, "has been made in certain businesses in which there are many occupations for which it would seem as though women are about as well fitted as men, as, for instance, in hotels as elevator operators, bellboys and waiters. However, it has been impossible to find any great amount of substitution of females in this type of operation. The fact that such substitution has evidently not taken place is significant, because it indicates very little experience in which employers in this country may have the solution of the problems which will confront them if frequent substitution of female labor does become necessary."

However, the inquiry showed a large tendency to increase the employment of female in business irrespective of the shortage in male labor caused by the war.

Had Piles For Ten Years

And Tried Nearly Everything Except a Surgical Operation Without Obtaining Relief — Tells How Complete Cure was Effected.

Brantford, Ont., Nov. 23.—There is reported here three cures of chronic cases of piles. In all three cases many treatments were tried before it was discovered that Dr. Chase's Ointment is about the only real cure for this distressing ailment.

Mrs. A. Oates, 22 Gilkinson street, Brantford, Ont., writes: "I have used Dr. Chase's Ointment as a household remedy for ever so long, and am particularly indebted to it for a cure from Piles. I had suffered from this annoying trouble for ten years, and tried nearly everything I heard of. After using Dr. Chase's Ointment a short while I was completely cured."

Mrs. Wm. Shantz, 155 Albert street Kitchener, Ont., writes: "For several years I was troubled with bleeding piles, tried different remedies for relief without success. I read in Dr. Chase's Almanac of the benefits other people were receiving from Dr. Chase's Ointment, so I sent to your office for a sample box. I found it gave me such relief that I went to a drug store and purchased a full-sized box. I have used several boxes since, and have derived more benefit from its use than any remedy I have ever used."

Mrs. F. Cussons, Victoria street, Ingersol, Ont., writes: "About two years and a half ago I was suffering from Piles. I had tried many different remedies for this distressing trouble, but nothing helped me. Finally I got a box of Dr. Chase's Ointment, and after using it found that I was completely cured, and have not been bothered in this way since. I can cheerfully recommend Dr. Chase's Ointment to anyone suffering as I did."

Dr. Chase's Ointment, 50 cents a box, at all dealers or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto. There are no rivals to Dr. Chase's Ointment as a treatment for Piles.
