Mr. McCormack has not been in the Province for the past seventeen years, when he first left it, and came home on hearing the news of the serious illness of his father, Captain John McCormack, Collector of Customs, Cardigan. Captain McCormack has improved rapidly in the past week. His daughter Miss Mary McCormack, Boston, also came home to visit her father and returns this morning on the express with her brother.

A. Horne & Co., Kent Street, whose ad appears elsewhere, have on display something very choice in sleighs for the coming winter, manufactured by The Canada Carriage Company, Brockville, Ont. Many new styles are to be had and the variety of shapes, colors and patterns are innumerable. The idea this year seems more than ever to combine beauty with lightness and durability and the catalogue shows they have not failed in securing something to please every horseman, even showing sleighs equipped with buggy tops, something entirely novel in this Province. The single, double and three seat sleighs combine comfort and warmth with a luxuriousness and elegance quite unlooked for in sleighs. The upholstery and wood work are exquisitely designed and can be had in the high or low style just as the fancy dictates. The sleighs are all built to run smooth and light and the intending purchaser who wishes to secure the acme of refined style for his coming winter's drives should at once call at the firm's large showrooms and make a selection while the lines are replete.
