The U. S. S. Idaho, 33,400-Ton Battleship.

BIG GUNS still mean business on the 33,400-ton battleship Idaho despite her 25 years of age. Like her sister ships the Mississippis and New Mexicos, the Idaho mounts 12 14-inch guns, along with 20 five-inch guns and numerous anti-aircraft weapons. The vessel was launched in 1917, just after U. S. entered World War. I but was not completed until 1919. The Idaho is 624 feet long, has a 14-inch armor belt amidships, makes 21 1/2 knots, carries three airplanes and a complement of 1323. Italy claimed last October that an axis submarine sank the Idaho in the Atlantic off West Africa, but there has been no allied confirmation of this report.
