Rev. H. J. Fraser, Summerside, in a recent issue of one of the Summerside papers, outlines an educational campaign about to be undertaken by the Prince County Temperance Alliance. The intention, in brief, is "to promote temperance education by public meetings, distribution of literature, and by practical work in aid of law enforcement." "With this end in view a campaign covering the entire county is now being planned. The latest and most scientific information on the whole subject is being collected. Lantern slides and literature illustrating the physical, social and economical effects of alcohol, have been ordered for the assistance of speakers in the various districts." The movement is a commendable one and will be watched with interest by other portions of the province.
