one could understand the move. But I would ask all fair-minded persons to throw their thoughts back say ten or fifteen years to the live stock and other exhibits shown at Souris and Georgetown, and compare the exhibits of that time with the exhibits of 1937 and 1938 at Souris or Georgetown, and also include the Fairs of Prince County, which are going strong in the interest of the farmers and ask yourselves: Is the Government justified in the interests of the people as a whole, in this purely Agricultural Province, in paying the prizes in full, and allow the several Exhibition Associations to improve their plants for the protection of those valuable animals shown at any, and all of the County Fairs.

"NIX GAMBLE" AND MILK

Sir, - I would prefer replying to "Nix Gamble" over his own name and although he may differ in opinion, he writes nothing to be ashamed of.

He says first, "I decided to show wherein I disagree with Mr. Tanton," and then, "I do not consider it right to pay less for the labor-power of the farmer, than we pay for the railroad-worker." There is no disagreement between me and him, I am in full accord with him, with the distinction only as illustrated in the parable of the talents. I conclude also to the limit that it is a mistaken policy to protect other industries in Canada, and not to protect the farmer.

His argument that when values are fixed by a balanced law of supply and demand "the price is determined by the value of the labor-power necessary to produce the commodity," is wanting lucidity, and is so complex that it would puzzle even our friend to mould it into a practical demonstration. In that labor-power is the primary force controlling the laws of supply and demand, it is plainly evident that whether up or down or on a balance it has been placed there almost wholly by labor value.

His claim that the price of milk at $1. per 100 lbs., is the result of a balanced ratio of supply and demand is I believe an indisputable fact, and it has been my contention that, based on butter fat values, that price is contingent, and I further claim can not be influenced at large by the operation of fleeing Charlottetown consumers.

He is "not sure that the price of butter fat determines the price of milk," and cites mainland prices of 10c to 12c, which he says shows that it is possible to get more for milk than those who produce for the creameries can obtain. If he investigates he will understand better. In New Brunswick the farmer, from one to two hundred miles away from a creamery or distributor, delivers his milk to the nearest receiving station, within say from 5 to 15 miles, receiving there his 90c or $1. per 100 lbs. This is then taken charge of by rail or large trucks and transported from 50 to over 300 miles to the central butter fat average of 2.50c per lb. of butter fat average. This price is exempt from this extra cost. It is paid in part by the New Brunswick Government, and the balance by the creamery milk distributor. Thus the 10c to 12c is not all paid for the milk alone, but from about 2c per quart, distant expenses of transportation and delivery. And it is the pressure of fact that it is only the heavy imports of butter from the West and other places, that prevent milk prices being much higher.

I am afraid my friend is also under the impression that the extortionists are going to the farmers. But not a dollar. The entire increase goes into the pockets of others. The rural milkmen are their own producers, and so pocket the surcharges. The factory distributors buy all their supplies, manufacturing butter and paying the $1. or 90c butter fat prices. The milk is processed and sold at 1c to 2c above raw milk limits. I fully agree with "Nix Gamble" that the farmer is entitled to the larger share of the profits, but he doesn't get it.

I agree with him in the good things he says of the farmer. I have spent many vacation summers and winter in country homes, and have closely observed conditions which would extend this letter too long to present to more fully, but I still adhere to my statement that in the main (there are exceptions) the Island farmer enjoys a life of comparative prosperity, and surely less of the discomforts and hardships of urbanians. Some time later I may give my reasons why.

I am, Sir, etc.

The wedding of Miss Mary Callaghan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Callaghan of St. John's to Dr. T. T. Monaghan, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Monaghan of Charlottetown, Prince Edward Island, was solemnized Wednesday morning, Sept. 28 with a Nuptial Mass at The Chapel, St. Bride's College, Littlefield, Newfoundland. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Dr. Gavan Monaghan of St. Dunstan's College, Charlottetown.

Yesterday was a banner day for most of the stores sponsoring the Consumers' Cash Bonus Contest. The demand for coupons continued to increase each day as the popular purchasing race progresses. The contest is one of the greatest events of the season and is the general talk of the whole city, and province. And why not? Fifty dollars in cash is not to be sneezed at these days and that is only one of the forty prizes which will be given away absolutely free at the close of the contest which is to conclude on Saturday, Oct 8 at 8.30 p. m.

There is $160.00 in the prize list as advertised elsewhere in today's Guardian. The drawing will take place at 9.30 p. m. on Saturday next and is to be held at the Rogers Hardware Co. Ltd. under the personal supervision of Chief of Police Birtwistle. Each of the forty prizes will be drawn for separately and will be awarded to the lucky purchaser as already advertised. The coupons are being distributed by the following firms: J. P. Crockett, stoves, refrigerators, radios, furniture, etc.; P. J.

MacDonald, groceries and meats; Tom Davies, operating 'The Red Indian Service Station'; Sterns' laundries, dyers, dry cleaners; Miller Bros. Ltd, radios, washers, musical supplies; T. G. Ives, new and used cars, tires, batteries, radios, automotive service; Johnson and Johnson, toiletries, confectioneries, drugs, etc.; R. P. Simpson, Queen Street, ladies ready-to-wear; The Rogers Hardware Company, Ltd., paints, roofing, silverware, etc., and the Charlottetown Guardian, subscriptions only.

One coupon is issued for each 25 cent transaction, that is four to the dollar. This applies to payments on all accounts as well as new business. The whole secret in a contest of this type is to deposit as many coupons as you possibly can. The more coupons you put in, the more chances you have of winning a prize. Do not hesitate to ask for coupons when you deal with these firms, no matter whether your transaction amounts to twenty-five cents or twenty-five thousand dollars.

Those prizes are going to be given away and you have just as good a right as anyone to win a share of the contest money. Remember—All you have to do is write your name and address on the back of each coupon and deposit them with any one of the sponsoring firms or The Consumers' Community Contest, care of The Charlottetown Guardian. One might as well do all the buying one can while the contest is on, since one might win one of the prizes, and it would be well worth one's while to have won one. Well the contest is being carried on for the amusement and profit of the public, generally and is open to every man, woman and child in this province. That lets you in on it!
