The Mitchell Inquiry

Verbatim Report of the Proceedings of the Commission Appointed by Order in Council to Inquire Into the Conduct of Andrew Fraser Mitchell, Recently Dismissed Immigration Agent for This Province.

Proceedings of the Court of Inquiry opened in Charlottetown, Thursday, Oct. 25th under Commissioner, C. R. Smallwood, K. C. Examination by the Attorney General. Evidence of Mr. John Mollison, Surveyor, continued from yesterday's Guardian.

Q. Were you afterwards paid by Mayne for the survey?
A. Yes.

Q. And you supplied him with the plan?
A. Yes, I mailed it to him and he acknowledged getting the plan when he sent the cheque.

Mr. Inman:—
Q. Was the plan in London made from that?
A. There was a plan made in London, but altogether wrong.

Q. How big was the plan you gave Mr. Mayne?
A. It was four times the size of this plan I have here.

TO Lieut. Jackson:— How does that compare with the plan you saw in London?
Lieut. Jackson:—Something about the same size.

Q. The plan you gave to Mayne was about two feet square?
A. Yes.

The Attorney General:—
Q. You don't know where or how this London plan was prepared?
A. It had the name of printers and draftsmen in London. It was altogether wrong. It was not prepared on the ground. If they had examined an atlas they could have got a better idea of the country.

Mr. Inman:—

ROYAL YEAST CAKES

MAKE PERFECT BREAD

AN IMPORTANT PRODUCT OF CANADA

Bread is the finest food on earth—the one food that everybody eats—that agrees with everybody.

Bread made in the home with Royal Yeast Cakes tastes better, keeps fresh longer, and is more nourishing than any other.

THE RIGHT SPIRIT.—A boy last evening halted a passing motor car on Kent Street, standing directly in the way and in plain view of the car lights. Naturally the driver stopped, and fortunately so for his car, as there were the fragments of a broken bottle on the street in front of him. These were removed before any harm was done. The thoughtful action of the lad in halting the car is commendable.

HALLOWE'EN TEA.—The annual Halloween tea in St. James' Hall yesterday under the auspices of the Guild was a most successful affair. The hall was tastefully arranged with Halloween decorations and red berries and made a pretty setting for the numerous small tables, supplied with an abundance of dainty food. There was a large attendance and the financial results were most satisfactory.

CALEDONIAN CLUB ANNUAL MEETING.—The annual meeting of the Caledonian Club for the election of officers etc. was held in the Club rooms last evening. President D. F. Bethune in the chair. Officers for the ensuing year were elected as follows:—Chief D. F. Bethune; President, Frank McDonald, 1st Vice Pres. Dr. Alex. MacFadyen; 2nd Vice Pres. John McFadyen; Treasurer John McPhee; Recording Secretary, F. A. M. McMillan; Corresponding Secretary, N. D. McLean, together with nine directors. It was decided to hold a committee was appointed to make arrangements. The Burns Concert Committee was also appointed.

CONGREGATIONAL SOCIAL.—There was a large attendance of members and adherents of the Methodist church at the Heartz Hall Monday evening when an enjoyable entertainment was given. Mr. E. T. Higgs presided. There were vocal solos by Mrs. Fletcher, violin solos by Miss Bernice Stultz and piano duet by Misses Thelma Burns and Nan Shaw, an address by the pastor and a sing-song led by Mr. G. F. Hutcheson. Adjoining was then made to the social hall where a guessing contest, bowling and other games were held. The Ladies Aid furnished ice cream and cake and the event was voted a most delightful and enjoyable one.

Q. Wasn't their London plan afterwards made off yours?
A. No. It was made, I suppose, from information given by Mr. Mitchell. It showed a small piece and then the larger part showed the area on the same scale as my big plan, 500 feet to the inch.

Q. You kept a copy of your larger plan?
A. No the intention was to get a linen tracing and print some blue prints, and the understanding was that I was to get a copy of the blue-print, and for fear anything would go astray I made this small plan.

Mr. Gaudet:—
Q. Who furnished you with the English plan?
A. Hon. John E. Sinclair gave me the one he had.

Q. You surveyed the land of Peter Sinclair?
A. It was Peter Sinclair, Junior's land that I surveyed. John had the English plan and I think I saw the same plan with Mr. Mitchell. It might have been a second plan or the same one. He had one when he was down at William Mayne's that evening.

Maynard Scurman, (sworn).
Examination by the Attorney General:—
Q. You live in Summerside?
A. Yes.

Q. You are a contractor and builder I believe?
A. Yes.

Q. Did you build a cottage on the land just mentioned by Mr. Mollison as having been surveyed by him?
A. Yes.

Q. A bungalow, I suppose?
A. Yes.

Q. When did you build that?
A. We finished it about two weeks ago. We began some time in August.

Q. Was it after he completed the survey?
A. Yes, I think it was completed. The stakes were there.

Q. Describe the house you built.
A. It was just an ordinary bungalow, a four roomed house with entry and pantry. There was no upstairs to it. The exact size was 23 X 26.

John Mollison (recalled).
Mr. Gaudet:—
Q. Look at this plan you have shown us, and at this larger one. Is that the same?
A. It seems to be identical with the English plan they showed me. The location and subdivision is the same.

Q. Were there any stakes driven to indicate that a previous survey was made before yours?
A. Not that I saw. Nothing was spoken of. I put the stakes there that are there.

Mr. Inman:—
Q. How many lots did you stake off?
A. We staked off 32 lots, all on the west side of the country line in Prince County.

Q. The rest is only on paper.
A. Yes. The rest is all planned and ready to be laid off at any time.

Q. Who is located on lot 23?
A. Mr. George Mayne's buildings are on lots 22, 23 and 24. 23 is the middle lot on my plan. I understand that the lot where the bungalow is, is no. 25 on my plan.

Mr. Gaudet:—
Q. You did not survey that part of the land where lot 23 is on the English map?
A. No. That might be on Hon. John E. Sinclair's land. I did not get round to that.

Capt. William Turner (recalled) pointed out his lot on the large map.

The Attorney General:—
Q. Was lot No 23 your own choice?
A. Mr. Mitchell said I had the choice of 54 or 23.

Q. What objection was there to taking the others, why did he not give you the choice of those?
A. He told me the others were more or less taken up.

Maynard Scurman (recalled).
Examination continued by the Attorney General:—
Q. Was the house you built under-pinned?
A. It was put on posts.

Q. Any cellar?
A. No cellar.

Q. How did you do it, by contract?
A. Yes, we made a plan and submitted the plan and an estimate of the cost.

Q. Who negotiated with you about that?
A. Mr. Mitchell at first.

Q. When.
A. I think it was in the early part of August.

Q. You had never heard of it before that, then?
A. No. I never heard tell of it. He called at our house and asked if we could do it and we told him that we could. He called first and went away and came back about a week afterwards. We never thought to hear any more about it. He asked us to make a plan and price. If I remember rightly he did not wait for the price. He left the rest of the business to be carried on by Capt. Harry R. Thompson and Capt. Dudley.

Q. He referred you to them?
A. Yes, he said they would complete the business with us.

Q. And did you see those two men?
A. Yes, when they came later; I think it was August 7th; they were to our office, Thompson and Dudley. I am not positive about Dudley but I think they were both together. I think it was the 7th because we wrote them a letter on that date and we gave it to them instead of mailing it. That is the only way I have of remembering it.

Q. It was to these two gentlemen you submitted the plan and the price?
A. Yes.

Q. Was it verbally or by correspondence?
A. It was by correspondence as far as we were concerned. They were staying at Summerside and they used to come to the office. On August 24th we gave them the specification and a plan of the amount that we would do the work for. Perhaps it was August 24th that they were there.

of the other date that I gave you.
Q. They accepted your offer?
A. Yes.

Q. What was the amount?
A. Our letter reads like this: Aug. 24, 1923.

Mr. Andrew Fraser Mitchell, Dear Sir:—We will build your bungalow according to plan and specification for the sum of $1,075.00 (ten hundred and seventy-five dollars). We believe we can get this ready for you in four weeks time, and the only thing that would prevent us would be the weather conditions, but in order to protect ourselves against these conditions you will notice the specification allows two weeks longer. Thanking you for giving us the privilege of figuring with you on this contract, and trusting that the work may proceed, we are,
Very truly yours
M. F. SCHURMAN CO. LTD.

P. S. In addition to the above offer, we agree to put in a window on the east side of the living room, 28 X 36, 2 lights, for the additional cost of $6.50.—M. F. S. CO. LTD.

Q. That letter was addressed to him at Summerside?
A. Yes.

Q. Mitchell was the man you were doing business with?
A. Yes. He was not in Summerside then but we considered he was the man and we handed the letter to him. It was addressed to Mr. Mitchell, I think they accepted our offer but I have not got that here.

Ex-Premier A. Bonar Law

Andrew Bonar Law's career, to a slight degree, followed on the lines of that of Joseph Chamberlain. Both made a fortune in business in their early years, and in middle life felt themselves called to relinquish the direction of manufacturing and commercial interests for a career of politics. Both were stricken down at the height of their fame by physical affliction. The comparison between the two great statesmen ends about here however, for in temperament and in personal characteristics the men were wide apart, although Bonar Law was one of Chamberlain's most enthusiastic apostles in his Tariff Reform Campaign.

Bonar Law (it is curious how Canadian and United States papers almost invariably referred to him by his full name, although his British papers never did) was born in New Brunswick in 1858. His father was a Scottish Presbyterian Minister. The future Premier of England was sent to Scotland at an early age. His family connection with Canada thereupon practically ceased, although he was always eager both in his public duties and in social relations to maintain his warm interest in the Dominion. His mother was a daughter of Wm. Kidd, a stone, iron merchant, at Glasgow. At the age of 16 Bonar Law entered his uncle's office. When he was 28 he became a partner in the firm of William Jacks & Co., Glasgow iron merchants. For fourteen years, business affairs absorbed all most of his attention. His commercial interests prospered, and in 1890 he felt justified in retiring from industry, he devoted himself to politics. He was chosen to contest the Blackfriars Division of Glasgow at the general election of that year, and secured a notable victory by converting a Liberal majority of nearly 500 into a Unionist preponderance of close upon a thousand.

Mr. Bonar Law's first speech attracted a good deal of attention. It was in reply to one delivered by Mr. Lloyd George in criticism of the conduct of the South African War, and at once marked him as a force to be reckoned with. Less than two years after his entrance into the House of Commons he was appointed Parliamentary Secretary to the Board of Trade in succession to the Earl of Dudley, who went to Ireland as fully revealed. Possibly the time never will come. This can be said though, that in all the rumour and gossip which flew about when war they fell to pieces; and when after-war ministries were the same way as war ministries. Bonar Law's reputation remained without a stain or suspicion. During his period as a Coalition Minister his financial measures and the enormous taxation which he imposed were variously judged, but the country felt a deep sympathy for him in the bitter sacrifice which he had made for his country. His wife had died shortly before and he was chosen Unionist leader and early in the war two of his sons perished in action, after distinguishing themselves by their gallantry. His speeches had a peculiar ring of sadness and sincerity which gave them signal force.

Bonar Law was brought into contact with the Canadiana Forces in England on more than one occasion during the war, more especially when he held the office of Colonial Secretary in 1915-1916. In August, 1915, on the first anniversary of Britain's declaration of war, he inspected the Canadiana then at Shorncliffe, being conducted round the camp by the then Minister of Militia, Genl. Sam Hughes, Genl. Sam Steele being in command of the troops. In his speech that day Mr. Bonar Law said: "The Minister of Militia has told you I was born in Canada; though most of my life has been spent in the Old Country. But I am proud of my Canadian Birth, and of what the soldiers of Canada have done, and I am proud of what the future has in store for you."

In July, 1916, an evening or two after the Somme offensive opened Bonar Law addressed the Overseas Parliamentary representatives who were then in London. "I not only have my old sympathy for Canada where I was born," said Mr. Law, "but I also retain many of her prejudices. I believe that never has the mother country done better, or even so well. There never has been the slightest jealousy here when so much has been said of what the Dominion troops have done and so little of what our own soldiers have done."

Prior to the departure of the Duke of Devonshire to take up the office of Governor-General, Bonar Law attended a dinner given by the Canada Club. He remarked that the Duke was going out to perform a duty the value of which to the Empire nobody could over-estimate. "The president spoke of Canada as a nation in the making," continued Bonar Law. "This was, I think rightly, corrected by the Duke of Devonshire—it is a nation made." (Cheers) "And when we remember that not only Canada but the other Dominions have sent these immense forces to help the Empire today, and have practically have no voice in the use which is to be made either of their treasure or their men, we realize that it requires great tact, great good-feeling, and great common sense, not only on the part of the Dominions, but of those who are directing affairs at home to prevent friction, which would be very disastrous in the cause in which we are employed."

An amusing incident took place when Mr. Bonar Law participated in the opening of the Ontario Hospital at Orpington. A band from a neighboring orphan home struck up a vigorous rendering of "The Maple Leaf" whereupon the Canadian-Born Colonial Secretary turned to his neighbor a lady, "What tune is that?" he innocently inquired.

It has since been suggested that it was the musical ability of the band, and not the musical knowledge of Mr. Bonar Law, which was the cause of the incident.

Suggests Organization

Urging the possibilities of such an organization here Mr. Malone pointed out that it would be a centre for the dissemination of information about P. E. Island as well as a useful institution in every way.

After an interesting discussion on the subject of Rev. Mr. Malone's address a committee consisting of the president with Mrs. Blanchard, Mrs. J. O. Hyndman and Mrs. Bartlett was appointed with power to furnish their number, to inquire into the possibilities of a Women's Exchange in this Province and to report on the matter at the next meeting.

As Monday's meeting was the first since the adjournment in June there was considerable correspondence and other business. Two new members, Mrs. Jas. Palmer and Miss Rose Longworth were received. The resignation of Mrs. Malcolm, now residing at Carleton Place, was regretfully received and Miss Rose Longworth was appointed secretary in her place.

Letters of sympathy to a number of members having had illness in their families were sent. A cordial acknowledgement from Lady Byng for the handsome basket of flowers presented by the Daughters of the Empire upon her recent visit here was read. There was also a communication from Basil King, Canadian author, explaining the cause of his inability to fulfil a lecture engagement in Charlottetown. Mr. LeRoy Holman, Summerside wrote with respect to the design of a new flag. A letter from Miss Marvin, of the Home Branch, Soldiers Settlement Board, was read expressing appreciation of the services offered by a number of members of the Daughters of the Empire here in regard to sending periodicals to overseas wives of returned Soldiers and to help them in getting at home in their new surroundings.
