Reviews Activities Of Protestant Orphanage

The following report was submitted by Miss Eva Beer, nurse in charge, at the annual meeting of the P. E. I. Protestant Orphanage. Ladies and Gentlemen:—

It is my privilege and pleasure to present my sixteenth annual report.

Close of year 1942 found this Institution in general favorable conditions. We in common with all institutions, had for first time in ten years to cope with staff changes, shortage of help. In May three of our experienced workers left us for the more lucrative positions in war industries, and only irresponsible school girls to take their places. As a result we have had them coming and going. To members of our staff who stand by we are grateful for their splendid co-operation, cheerfully doing double and triple duty. Our older boys and girls were very helpful too. We were fortunate in that, we had no infants to care for through summer, that part of our care is being absorbed in the baby farms opening up in city and country, now that there is more money to care for them—the orphanages only being asked to extend a helping hand when payments stop.

All through summer farm labor shortage turned attention to 10—14 year old boys and girls to solve problem of labor shortage. Through this demand several teen age boys found free boarding home care, fortunately the calls came from excellent homes—in such placings it must be remembered the child is not wanted for child's sake but for the help they can give—when this is primary motive, the success of the child in the home depends on its adaptability and the patience and interest of those who shelter them. All children placed thus gave a good account of themselves.

One of our boys successfully passed the entrance examinations to Prince of Wales last July. I believe that is first in history of the institution. In August this lad went to work in city, a nice position, is getting along splendidly, is highly thought of by his employer. He still considers this institution home.

Fewer Requests

There were not so many requests for admission this year due to existing conditions — the poor are better off. Our Dr. was obliged to turn down two requests owing to the physical, mental condition of the children in question. We had fewer children at close of year, but a much more expensive family—teen age boys, overgrown girls. That coupled with increased cost of living our care cost mounted considerably and it is much more difficult to care for, train and discipline the teen age through their emotional disturbances of adolescence.

Owing to ill-health our teacher was forced to resign at end of half term. We were fortunate with the existing shortage of teachers to secure the services of Miss Evelyn Munn to take over after Christmas holidays.

During year we needed considerable repairs and replacements of equipment, stoves, crib mattresses, repairs to roof, re-decorating etc., which over a period of time was completed and there is still a considerable amount to be done in 1943—3rd floor play-room for pre school group, walls, ceiling in sewing room girls dormitory and assembly hall, new roof on north east and south end.

Our general health throughout year was excellent. It was a grand summer to build up resistence. All children had diphtheria toxoid and were vaccinated. One acute appendicitis made an uneventful recovery. As usual Dr. Tidmarsh looked after our needs, never too busy to answer the orphans' call.

Christmas season passed off most pleasantly. As usual our good friends kept the children in mind and nothing was lacking. The gifts perhaps were more practical and candy not so plentiful, but one way and another the Christmas stockings were complete. Their usual grand Christmas tree in the assembly hall—their gaily decorated dining room was the scene of many festive meals during holiday season. Each Tuesday evening Mt. Herbert Red Cross met here and throughout winter season the young people of Mt. Herbert United Church held their monthly meetings in our hall—like the brooks we could go on forever, but the sum and substance is that through your efforts the lives of little children are brightened, the little feet placed on a firm foundation that we hope will turn them into future citizens that the new Canada, when we dictate the peace will be proud to acknowledge. Our Honor roll in the services grows larger each year and our boys and girls in Canada and overseas are giving a good account of themselves. One fine young man is now a prisoner of war after Dieppe and an ex-school teacher is chief surgical nurse in one of our Canadian hospitals over there. So with those thoughts we leave you confident of your continued interest that the children here may have Freedom of thought, Freedom of religion, Freedom of speech, above all Freedom from Fear.

Charles Cole, 105, died at Watford, London suburb.

ARMY BAYONETS ENFORCE PEACE IN DETROIT

Detroit's bloody race riots, the nation's worst in 25 years, subsided when U. S. Army troops in full battle kit marched in under orders of President Roosevent. The photo above shows helmeted soldiers, with bayoneted rifles at the ready, patrolling debris littered Hastings Street, center of the city's Negro district. Riots brought death to 25 persons, injuries to over 700.
