

Summer Skin Troubles

Sunburn, blistering, and irritation are the commonest form of summer skin troubles, and Zam-Buk ends these very quickly. It works in two ways. As soon as applied, its anti-septic powers get to work and kill all the poison in a wound, a sting or a sore. This generally ends the smarting and the pain. Then Zam-Buk begins the healing process, and fresh healthy tissue is built up. For sore, blistered feet, sore hands, heat rashes, baby's heat spots, sore places due to perspiration, etc., you can't equal Zam-Buk. It also cures cuts, ulcers, abscesses, piles, and all inflamed and diseased conditions of skin and subcutaneous tissue. Druggists and stores everywhere sell Zam-Buk, 50c. box. Use Zam-Buk Soap also, 25c. per tablet. All stores, or Zam-Buk Co., Toronto.

SPECTATOR ABUSIVE

NEW YORK, June 11—An appeal to the umpire for protection from the abuse of a spectator, this being the first time that a big league player has taken advantage of the rule permitting this since the memorable Ty Cobb incident a few weeks ago, was made today by a player of the Brooklyn team during the game between the Brooklyn Nationalities and the Pittsburg in Brooklyn. Smith, Brooklyn's third baseman, was the protesting player. The incident occurred during the fifth inning, when Smith, complained to Umpire Owens of what he claimed was abusive language being used by a spectator in one of the boxes. Before Owens had a chance to appeal to the management the spectator pointed out by Smith left the grandstand. Twenty-nine persons, including a woman, accompanied him. They had been occupying boxes assigned to Brooklyn fraternal organization.

POWER OF MONEY TRUST.

NEW YORK, June 11—The action of the clearing house in calling the loan certificates of the Oriental Bank during the afternoon of the panic of 1907, as a consequence of which the bank failed, was conceded today by A. Barton Hepburn to have been a mistake. Mr. Hepburn was chairman of the clearing house committee at the time.

Mr. Hepburn, together with Frank A. Vanderlip, president of the National City Bank, came as a voluntary witness today before the committee of the house of representatives, which is investigating the so-called money trust.

In the course of his testimony Mr. Hepburn also conceded that it may be true that a few men in New York practically dominate the money situation in this country and throughout the world.

A BRAVE DEED.

WINDSOR, ONT., June 11—De liberately choosing what seemed certain death, George McCarthy, a taster, employed by the B. M. F. Company, of Walkerville, and his mechanic, Edward Last, ditched their car while running at high speed on Howard Avenue, outside the city limits, late yesterday, to avoid colliding with a horse and buggy driven by a woman, which crossed their path a few yards in front. The car was smashed into junk and both men pinned beneath the wreckage. McCarthy will die from his injuries, while Last is still unconscious and will be a helpless cripple if he lives.

THE INVENTIVE MIND.

An ingenious inventor has made an implement which combines a pocket comb, penknife and cigar clipper. A recent invention is a small horseshoe magnet in the side of a tailor's thimble. The thimble will then pick up needles.

LUNATIC BREAKS INTO QUEEN'S HOUSE.

NEW YORK, June 11—A cab to the New York Times from London says:

There was a lamentable occurrence early yesterday morning at Marlborough House, Queen Alexandra's residence. A man named William Woodley, forty years old, an escaped lunatic from Norwich, eluded the special guard of police and soldiers broke into Marlborough House and roamed about many rooms. Finally he went to sleep in a bed in a room on the first floor, Queen Alexandra's room, but the Princess Victoria was not in the residence at Marlborough, but the Princess Victoria was, and when the intruder broke in, she was sleeping in her apartment.

Exactly how Woodley accomplished his amazing feat is unknown. There are a number of policemen in the roadway, and at the entrance to the gates and court yard of Marlborough House, two sentries pace up and down with fixed bayonets. The lunatic managed to escape the notice of the police and soldiers and climbed a ten foot high wall. This performance is not yet explained, as he had no rope or ladder.

Still unobserved, he walked up to the house, smashed a window in the equestrian room, and entered through the broken pane. Now he had the run practically of the whole house. Fortunately his madness did not develop into violence at any time. He roamed about the ground floor of the house very quietly, without disturbing anyone. Then he went up stairs and opening one of the bedroom doors, he entered the room. Seeing nobody there he undressed and got into bed. Not until 7.45 o'clock in the morning was he discovered by a housemaid. The police were immediately called, and Woodley seemed surprised that his presence occasioned so much commotion.

CHARLOTTETOWN AND ELSEWHERE

It pays to buy in this Province.

James H. Westcott, South Boston, arrived in Charlottetown on the express last evening. He was called home owing to the illness of his mother, Mrs. Josiah Westcott, of Orleans, N. S.

Yesterday the Harland left Charlottetown at 3.00 p. m. for Victoria and remained over night. She returns this morning and in the afternoon at three o'clock again leaves Charlottetown for Victoria, leaving there in the afternoon for Pictou to go on the ship.

C. M. MacRae of the Live Stock branch, Ottawa, will arrive in the Province on Saturday evening. He will conduct classes in live stock judging for a period of two weeks. The first will be held at Margate on the farm of Wm. R. Dennis, on Monday next at 1.30 p.m.

A private despatch received in Charlottetown last evening announced the death of W. A. Lewis, Cardigan, the well known proprietor of the J. H. Davidson Monument Works, he having passed away at 10.30 p.m. The funeral notice will appear later. The deceased was widely known throughout the province and his demise will be deeply regretted. The sympathy of all will be extended to the bereaved.

A well known truckman had a very unpleasant experience yesterday afternoon at the rear of Stanley Frost store in Charlottetown. He had been engaged to remove some rubbish and while contemplating the pile with bowed head the aperture between the back of his neck and his collar comfortably accommodated the largest part of two pounds of old turpentine which had dropped in some unaccountable manner from the skies. This dead deed did not linger in the vicinity of the coat collar but proceeded to distribute itself generously under the clothes from the collar to the boots. The result was very uncomfortable to say the least and if one were to judge from some of the remarks passed by the new proprietor of the agricultural commodity.

THOUGHTS FOR THE WEEK.

Monday.—Some kind of force may be got out of the veriest jade by the near prospect of oats; but the thoroughbred has the spur in his blood.—James Russell Lowell.

Tuesday.—Knowledge, as all followers of it most know, has a very limited power indeed when it informs the head alone.—Charles Dickens.

Wednesday.—Insensibility sets rid of much, but not of toothache or wretched vanity, or the sense of loneliness, against which, as the world at present stands, there is no security but a thoroughly healthy jaw, and a just, loving soul.—George Eliot.

Thursday.—The nearer you come into relation with a person, the more necessary do tact and courtesy become.—Oliver Wendell Holmes.

Friday.—Life is comic or pitiful as soon as the high ends of being fade out of sight, and man becomes near-sighted, and can only attend to what addresses the senses.—Emerson.

SATURDAY.—Seest thou, not that the angry man loseth his understanding? Whist thou art yet in thy senses, let the madness of another be a lesson to thyself.—Buddha.

Sunday.—Too many people regard religion as though it were only an insurance against the next life.—The Bishop of Armagh.

Capt. William Richards, Bideford, came to Charlottetown on the express last evening.

The Orlebars defeated the Elm Ave baseball team by the score of 10-9 in a game yesterday afternoon.

Mrs. G. F. MacCormack, Charlottetown, leaves this morning for Quebec to visit her sister, Mrs. M. Harrington who is ill.

Mr. MacQuarrie, Hampton, and Harry Clark, Victoria, spent some time recently in Clyde River, the guests of Austen and Mrs. Hyde.

A. J. and Mrs. Houle, Charlottetown, returned last evening from Montreal where they had attended the McGill College convocation at which Lester Houle received his M. D. degree.

Duncan Munroe, Cornwall, Ont., last Grand Master of the Orange Association, is paying a visit to Charlottetown and wishes to meet all members of the association, in St. George's Lodge Room at 8.30 this evening. All members of the association are requested to be present.

The marriage took place last evening at the residence of Sampson and Mrs. Farguharson, Mt. Herbert, of their daughter Ella Francis to Vernon A. Higgs, son of Mr. Albert and Mrs. Higgs, N. S. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Harry S. Erb in the presence of a large number of relatives and intimate acquaintances. The bride is well known in Charlottetown and is a deservedly popular young lady. The young couple will receive the best wishes of hosts of friends, with all of whom The Guardian heartily joins.

CHEAPER CABLE SERVICE

LONDON, June 11—At a congress of the chambers of commerce, held in London on the 11th inst., a resolution, proposed by E. R. Davison, on behalf of the Georgetown, Demerara, chamber of commerce, seconded by E. L. Langdon, of the Manchester chamber of commerce, urging the British government to give effect to the recommendations recently passed at Ottawa for a cheap, reliable, all-British cable service between Canada and the West Indies was unanimously passed.

FASHIONS IN CENTERPIECES.

There are fashions in centerpieces as much as there are in clothes, and many housekeepers find that linens on which they have put much work must be laid aside temporarily if they would keep even with the styles. If, therefore, you want to start a piece of fancy work, do not be content with old designs.

Probably the first choice will be the new punch-work pattern. This is called new, but is really the old fourteenth century background stitch seen to perfection in Italian embroideries, ancient and modern. It looks complicated, but is simply achieved by means of a heavy needle and fine linen thread.

In the modern patterns the stitches are taken through little dots in the background and the thread is drawn tight to form an open lace-like pattern. The large sizer needle is used, as there is a hard pull on the material. There are several ways of making the stitch, but it is quickly learned by means of figured rows of dots. The proper needle and instruction book can generally be obtained where the design is bought.

The skilled worker dispenses with dots, using her eyes for counting the threads that form the small squares with the diagonal stitch on the back; that repeated again and again is all there is to punch work. This gives closer, finer background than is achieved by the usual stamped design.

The punch work in centerpieces is used in several ways. Often the design is in outline in hold flower or fruit effects, and the background is punched; again, it is used for the centers of medallions or other figures, which are worked in satin stitch or fancy stitches. An effective centerpiece in this latest method has six oval medallions of the punch work surrounded by a conventionalized fleur-de-lis, in satin stitch. Others, where the background is played up more, have a wreath of sunflowers and foliage worked in outline, with the center of linen punched.

Equally popular is the border effect, where borders of pomegranates, wild roses, flags, and other floral or geometric designs are worked in a wreath and the background is punched out to any desired depth between two parallel rows of heavy outlining.

Even newer than the punch work alone is its combination with the empire rose worked in color and built up in the embroidery so it is at least three eighths of an inch high at the center. This work is really simple, as no padding is required. The center of the rose is sometimes formed by a number of stitches taken over each other in pale green, or else a cluster of French knots in yellow to build up a small knob. The rest is a simple outline stitch worked around and around the rose, beginning with the darkest shade of pink or yellow for a few rounds, then the next lightest and then the palest. The outer stitches are taken further from the center to gradually flatten to the linen.

Very effective for big centerpieces are empire baskets worked in an interlacing basket stitch in yellow silk and filled with the empire roses in shades of pink and yellow harmonized by soft green foliage.

"THE ARCTIC MOON."

The first paper published in the arctic zone was by Kane's expedition in 1854, and was called the Ice-Rink. The journal published by the Greely expedition was the Arctic Moon.

This sheet was fifteen by nineteen inches in size, first prepared in manuscript, and then duplicated by photolithography, the first issue being November 2, 1881, and followed by semi-monthly editions. As neither the walrus, wolves, bears nor musk oxen of Grinnell Land were enthusiastic in the enterprise the patrons of the paper were confined to the colony of explorers.

In his opening address the editor proudly maintained that his corps of contributors embraced the finest minds in the country; that reporters would always be on the spot; that the journal was certain to be superior to any others in that section, and that the subscription list numbered not less than 25,000.

Here is an extract about an arctic Christmas: "Our Christmas time has come and gone, and although the geographical position is not favorable for the complete observation of that joyous anniversary it was attended with many of the happy features that make the memory a pleasant landmark of the busy year. No boughs of evergreen failed this season, but had they existed the conditions for making them 'white with rime' were very favorable."

The following quotations come under the head of "Moonbeams." "The darkest day being a thing of the past we shall soon find ourselves sliding down hill quite rapidly."

"We have made complete arrangements for having the sun interviewed on his return to this country in the latter part of February."

"Old Probabilities will be surprised to learn that his enterprising colony at this point is indulging in outdoor sports, with the thermometer at forty degrees below zero."

"Sergeant Cross had made another addition to his already numerous trades; that of bottling samples of air for the examination of those not furnished with a supply of arctic breezes."

"Wanted: A good family horse. Will buy it cheap, or will take him for his keep or keep him for his taking. To be used on good country roads, and for family driving. Must be very gentle. No objections to a government mule."

"Wanted: A poet for the Arctic moon. Must be strictly temperate and a good speechmaker. No tailor need apply."

ADDRESS AND PRESENTATION.

Busy getting ready to move to Hunter River was the order of the day at the home of Everett Wedlock, Stanley Bridge, on Monday, June 10th. In the evening the friends and neighbors gathered to bid Mr. Wedlock and family farewell, taking full charge of everything providing entertainment and all other necessities for an evening's enjoyment and they had it to judge by the faces of all present radiating happiness and good will. The following address was read on behalf of the company to which Mr. Wedlock made a suitable reply warmly thanking all for the interest taken in his welfare and the beautiful presentation: To Everett and Mrs. Wedlock: Dear Friends,—As you are about to leave the community we your friends and associates feel it incumbent on us to express our regret at your departure. That you will be a distinct loss to the social and business life of Stanley Bridge cannot be gainsaid but we hope that the change of residence will be to your advantage and that success will crown your labors in your new home.

In conclusion, we present you with this chair not for its intrinsic value but as a token of our esteem and regard and hope that when reclining in it in your leisure hours you will recall many pleasant memories of the years spent in Stanley Bridge.

Signed on behalf of the people of Stanley Bridge—A. S. Simpson, H.T. Pickering, Norman Nicholson, Wallace J. McKay.

BORN

BAKER—At Margate, P. E. I. June 6th, to C. C. and Mrs. Baker a daughter.

VARIETY IN SANDWICH MAKING.

It is an art to make good sandwiches, and fortunately one that is easily acquired. Given good bread and butter, a sharp knife, and patience, there is no limit to the fillings that can be concocted.

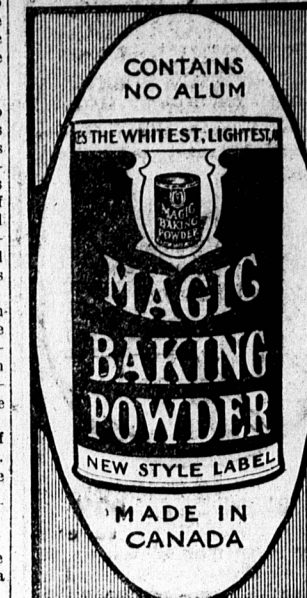

Use a fine-grained bread—the porous kind will not hold the fillings—and cut in even slices about an eighth of an inch thick, or thinner if the fillings is not soft. There are special sandwich loaves, but the ordinary square loaf cuts to good advantage and is cheaper.

Where a girl makes a business of sandwiches it pays to buy special pans, so there is no waste in cutting. Crusts are removed after the sandwiches are made, and the bread is then cut in triangles, ovals, or circles. For the last round cutters are used. For holiday occasions sandwiches are cut in stars, crescents, hearts, and for children in animal shapes.

Butter must be soft, not melted. This expedites spreading and does not break the thin bread. Be careful in spreading that the bread is buttered on the opposite side of alternate slices, or they will not fit. Butter both sides of bread, but put the filling on one slice only. Press on the top slice, and cut the crusts with a sharp knife. Put neatly on a platter and cover until ready to use with a damp napkin. This keeps the bread from drying out. The sandwiches can thus be prepared hours before used.

Sandwich fillings may be roughly classified as sweet, meat and fancy, says an exchange. Here are a few nice fillings of each grade: Spread slices of brown bread with grapefruit marmalade, through which is chopped candied ginger. Another good sweet mixture is pineapple preserves mixed with candied cherries. Equally delicious is hard-rod cream—cream, or grated maple sugar and chopped black walnuts.

Never use slices of meats in a dainty sandwich. Put the meat through a fine chopper until it is almost a paste. Cold chicken, lamb, duck and game make a delicious and simple filling by seasoning highly with salt, pepper and a pinch of cayenne, then moistening with rich cream—or whipped cream—until the mixture spreads easily. Minced ham or tongue is better when moistened with mayonnaise. Cold fish mixtures can be treated in the same way, but are improved by chopping olives through the dressing.

A good fancy filling is made from cream cheese mixed to a paste, with French dressing, and seasoned with chopped green peppers and slices of olives. Another good mixture is made from the outer leaves of head lettuce—the hearts can be used for salad—cut up fine, mixed with mayonnaise, and sprinkled thickly with crisp bacon cut in small pieces.

Red pepper sandwiches are artistic and appetizing. Use the canned sweet red peppers, chop fine, and mix to a smooth paste with mayonnaise. For a spring sandwich nothing is nicer than watercress, chopped and mixed with French dressing. Put a thick layer of the cress on the bread and cover with thin slices of small red radishes.

Equally springlike is the onion sandwich. Use the large Spanish onions—three will make nearly 100 sandwiches—chop very fine, and mix with a highly seasoned mayonnaise.
