CHAPTER IX
CROWDED RENDEZVOUS

People invited to the Featherston-Mawson parties counted themselves specially favoured. Clewethers glanced at Elise doubtfully and Jerry introduced her as his fiancée. "Of course I knew who you were, but Miss Dallas is familiar with my misadventures so there is no necessity for being confidential."

"Grrr!" Jerry growled. "All we want to make the party complete is Mrs. Montelli."

"Slim Annie? Oh, she's here all right."

"No?"

"The lady is under very careful observation. Makes it so much simpler when we can do that. Everyone nicely gathered together, all snug and ready to hand. A brown crease in his brow. "Nearly everyone," he amended, "up to the present we haven't picked out Tony. But it's a thousand to one he's around, unless..."

"Just — guess," Superintendent Clewethers drawled.

They watched him saunter back to his post of vantage near the door. "Elise wanted to know what the mysterious hints portended, and Jerry told her as well as he could. If you can get such an idea into your head, imagine what the police must be thinking."

"Ra-her. Why the possibilities are enormous."

"That's exactly how the superintendent put it. Once or twice I've seriously considered throwing in my lot with them."

"What good would that do?"

"Give me value for money."

"Frightfully fed up at times. All that stuff about giving a dog a bad name has a lot of truth behind it."

Before long Jerry had got into a frame of mind that made him suspect a disreputable detective in every man whose the was a trifle away, and he felt that at any minute he might bump into Tony Montelli or his equally disconcerting wife.

Perhaps it was even more ominous that the effect they have on the presence of Slim Annie. As for Tony —

"Penny for your thoughts," offered Elise.

"They aren't worth such reckless expenditure," he replied lightly.

"Just think of the effect they have on your usually impeccable dancing they must be. Hullo! What's wrong now?"

Without any warning the lights went out, so suddenly that the imaginative had an impression of hearing a definite click. Of course that was merely the effect of suggestion for it was estimated later that the main fuse had been bodily removed, making it difficult to effect an immediate repair.

"It's happened," Jerry exclaimed, "that's what."

"What has?" gasped Elise clinging tight to him.

"I don't know what, but the thing that Clewethers has been anticipating all evening," he roared grimly.

Ways Of Effecting Gasoline Saving

The "man at the wheel" can cut down drastically on the use of gasoline by keeping the speed of the vehicle down to reasonable proportions, speed tests have demonstrated. Every bit of gasoline he conserves helps to release fuel for our tanks and armored cars, our fighting planes and our bombers.

Actually, the experts say, it takes a third more gasoline to go a mile at 60 miles an hour than at 40. The Carter Carburetor Corporation in the United States which has recently issued figures showing that the normal economy of a car capable of giving 25 miles per gallon (20 miles per American gallon) at 20 miles per hour, will vary widely under different driving conditions. Constant speed tests prove that the motorist will get 25 miles per gallon at 20 miles per hour, as compared with 22.9 miles per gallon at 40 miles and 10 miles per gallon at 70 miles an hour, according to the figures distributed by the corporation, and Tests have shown that it requires approximately 10 additional horsepower to increase the speed of a six-cylinder car about three miles when it is unning at 70 miles per hour.

Here are the seventeen easy ways towards a fifty percent gasoline saving, as approved by automobile experts:

- Reduce driving speed from 60 to 40 on the open road.
- Avoid jack-rabbit starts.
- Useless or non-essential driving.
- Turn motor off when not in use do not leave idling.
- Don't race your engine; let it warm up slowly.
- Don't strain your engine, change gears.
- Keep carburetor cleaned and properly adjusted.
- Tune up motor, timing, etc.
- Keep spark plugs and valves clean.
- Check cooling system; overheating wastes gasoline.
- Maintain tires at right pressure.
- Lubricate efficiently; worn engines waste gasoline.
- Drive in groups to and from work; use cars alternate days.
- For golf, picnics and other outings, use one car instead of four.
- Take those short shopping trips ON FOOT and carry parcels home.
- Walk to and from the movies.
- Boat owners, too, can help by reducing speed.

BUNBURY SCHOOL CLOSING

The pupils of Bunbury School held their annual picnic at George Mason's shop on Monday afternoon, June 30th.

The afternoon was very pleasantly spent in games, swimming, etc., after which 50 people including pupils helped themselves to a delicious supper prepared by the energetic women of the district.

The teacher then presented the following prizes and certificates. Certificates presented to Grade VII pupils:

- Prize for Proficiency in Grade X awarded to Marnie MacCallum.
- Prize for Proficiency in Grade VIII awarded to Kay Judson.
- Prize for Proficiency in Grade VI awarded to Helen Jones.
- Prize for Proficiency in Grade IV awarded to Herbert Mason.
- Prize for Attendance awarded to Ira Finlayson.
- Prize for Department awarded to Wilfred Mutch.
- Prize for Application to Work awarded to Robert Boyver.
- Prize for Improvement in Work awarded to Jack Furlinsson.
- Prize for Arithmetic in Senior Grades awarded to Carl Hamm.
- Prize for Arithmetic in Junior Grades awarded to Shirley Judson.
- Prize for Nature Study, awarded to Betty MacDonald.
- Prize for General Proficiency awarded to Ira Finlayson.
- Prize awarded to Nita Thompson.

After the presentation of the prizes, the teacher, Freda Carver made a short speech, in which she thanked the women for their hospitality and kindness to her while she was in the district.

After bidding the teacher farewell, all having spent an enjoyable day, departed to their homes.

In Memoriam

MR. JOHN W. PICKERING

Many friends were indeed sorry when the news came that Mr. John W. Pickering had passed quietly away to the Great Beyond in the closing hours of Thursday July 10th at his home in Sea View, aged 70 years. For the past few years the deceased had not enjoyed good health but still at times was able to be about. On the day previous to his death he was able to be around and while not walking with his little grandson was seized with a paralytic stroke from which he never regained consciousness and the end came peacefully surrounded by his family. The late Mr. Pickering had been a life long resident of Sea View and was the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. David Pickering. He was an industrious and prosperous farmer an obliging neighbour and friend as well as a kind and loving husband and father.

His funeral was held on Saturday afternoon and in spite of the severe rainstorm a large number of friends was present to express their sympathy. The service was under the auspices of the Masonic Order of which the deceased was an honored member of King Edward Lodge A. F. & M. Mr. Hayes, student minister of the Keir Memorial Church at Malpeque of which the deceased was a faithful member, taking his text from 2 Cor. 1-4. His message was one of hope and comfort to all bereaved. The hymns sang were "Ave Maria", "Like a Shepherd Lead Us Safe in the Arms of Jesus" and "The Lord's My Shepherd". At the close of this service the Masonic brethren officiated with an impressive service at the home and grave. The remains were tenderly laid to rest in the family plot of the Macque cemetery. The pall bearers were: Messrs. Earle MacKay, James Coady, Stanford Pickering, John Clark and Arthur Mahar.

There are left to mourn the loss of a loving husband and father his sorrowing widow two daughters and three sons, Mrs. Sydney MacQuhan, Malpeque and Miss Marlon at home, Anson of Summerdale, Wallace, Darnley; Heber at home, besides a large number of friends and relatives to whom kind sympathy is extended.

There were several floral tributes from sympathizing friends.
