TO SAVE EYES

Is the Object of This Free Prescription—Try It if your Eyes Give You Trouble.

Thousands of people suffer from eye troubles because they do not know what to do. They know some good home remedy for every other minor ailment, but none for their eye troubles. They neglect their eyes, because the trouble is not sufficient to drive them to an eye specialist, who would, anyway, charge them a heavy fee. As a last resort they go to an optician or to the five and ten-cent store, and oftentimes get glasses that they do not need; or which, after being used a few months, do their eyes more injury than good.

Here is a simple prescription that everyone should use: 5 grains Bon-Opto dissolved in ½ glass of water. Use three or four times a day to bathe the eyes. This prescription and the simple Bon-Opt system keeps the eyes clean, sharpens the vision and quickly overcomes inflammation and irritation; weak, watery, overworked, tired eyes and other similar troubles are greatly benefited and often times cured by its use. Many report show that wearers of glasses have discarded them after a few weeks' use.

It is good for the eyes, and contains no ingredient which would injure the most sensitive eyes of an infant or the aged. Your own druggist can fill this prescription, or the Valmar Drug Co. of Toronto will fill it for you by mail. Try it, and know for once what real eye comfort is.

A prominent City Physician to whom the above article was submitted, said: "Bon-Opto is a very remarkable remedy. Its constituent ingredients are well known to eminent eye specialists and widely prescribed by them. It can be obtained from any good druggist and is one of the very few preparations I feel should be kept on hand for regular use in almost every family."

"E. A. Foster and Reddin Bros. fill many Bon Opto prescriptions, and will gladly fill yours!"

Premier Morris Now In London

LONDON, June 19--(Montreal Gazette Cable). Premier Morris of Newfoundland arrived in London tonight. He deferred any definite statement but it is gathered that he will take up matters of political and finacial interests regarding the Colony. Lady Morris is already staying in London.

To Put On Flesh and Increase Weight

Most people eat from four to six pounds of good solid fat-making food every day and still do not increase in weight one ounce, while on the other hand many of the plump, chunky folks eat very lightly and keep gaining all the time. It's all bosh to say that this is the nature of the individual. It isn't Nature's way at all.

Most thin people stay thin because their powers of assimilation are defective. They absorb just enough of the food they eat to maintain life and a semblance of health and strength. Stuffing won't help them. A dozen meals a day won't make them gain a single "stay there" pound. All the fat-producing elements of their food just stay there in the intestines until they pass from the body as waste. What such people need is something that will prepare these fatty food elements so that their blood can absorb them and deposit them all about the body—something too, that will multiply their red blood corpuscles and increases their blood's carrying power.

For such a condition it is well to recommend eating a Sargol tablet with every meal. Sargol is not, as some believe a patented drug, but is simply a careful combination of six of the most effective and powerful assimilative and flesh building elements known to chemistry. It is absolutely harmless, yet has been wonderfully effective and a single tablet eaten with each meal, often, according to reports of users, has the effect of increasing the weight of a thin man or woman from three to five pounds a week. Sargol is sold by all good druggists everywhere on a positive guarantee of weight increase or money back.

If you find a druggist who is unable to supply you, send $1.00 money order or registered letter to the National Laboratories 74 St. Antoine St. Montreal and a complete ten days treatment will be sent you postpaid.

Rt. Hon. D. Lloyd George Prospective War Secretary

By. W. W. Swanson, Ph. D. Professor in the Department of Queen's University, Kingston.

Men and heores are being tested as by fire during the course of this world shaking war, and it is not surprising that so few of either have come through unscathed. Cherished political formulae that, for generations, have obsessed the minds of Englishmen have been discarded overnight. Their further repetition by political pundits evokes no more response than sounding brass or tinkling cymbal. The tide of battle leaves in its wake not only dead men but dead issues; and upon them another world that compels us to make fresh readjustments and confronts us with new problems.

THEY HAVE NOT FAILED HER.

At this hour big with destiny, at this solemn moment in the Empire's fate, it gives one confidence and courage to know that Britian can depend upon men, proved by ordeal of battle, to meet the crisis with dauntless daring and inflexible will, Asquith, Lloyd George, Balfour, Carson and Bonar Law—these have not failed Britian in her hour of need. Bonar Law has wrung from even his bitterest enemies his due meed of praise. He has been strong, resourceful, and tolerant, but hard as adamant when vital principles and policies were involved. Balfour, as First Lord of the admiralty has disclosed again the shining qualities of his brilliant mind; while Sr Edward Carson, during the Irish crisis, proved that he was a patriot as well as a great leader of men. Mr. Asquith, whatever minor mistake he may have made mistakes that only a superman could have avoided—has shown the most consummate skill in political tactics and strategy. He has consolidated the various party fractions, led them and mastered them. More than any other man in the United Kingdom he has made possible the ultimate triumph of the Allies. And second only to Asquith—though often opposed to him—stands David Lloyd George, an adventurous, indomitable and brilliant spirit who knows how to dare and dare, and dare again.

BREAKER OF GRAVEN IMAGES.

Lloyd George is essentially an iconoclast, a breaker of graven images. The dead past has never held him in thrall. He is avid of new ideas, and fearlessly follows the blazed trail. He has been accused of almost every crime; has been called a traitor, a scutler, and a renegade. He is said to be an opportunist, a trimmer, a man devoid of principle and without honor. His opponents charge him with being a supreme egoist, the most cynical of self-seekers and the most dangerous of demagogues since the days of Mirabeau, Danton and Robespierre. Yet David Lloyd George is neither a monster nor a Sir Galahad. The portrait his enemies present is too black. He is an ambitious, resourceful, lightning-witted man, with a supreme gift for leadership, who, for the moment at least, has laid aside all personal ambition to serve his country in its hour of need.

WAS BEST HATED MAN.

To appraise justly Lloyd George's character and personality it should never be forgotten that he is a Celt. In that fact is found the key to the workings of his mind and heart. Sixteen years ago, during the height of the Boar war, he espoused the cause of the Dutch republics, and made himself probably the best hated man in England. He attached with the full force of his vehement invective and scurrilous vituperation the British Imperialists and their leader, Joseph Chamberlain. He heaped insults upon the capitalists and the aristocracy of the United Kingdom. He did not pause to reason; he merely followed his emotional bias, and struck out blindly at all in his path. To the majority of Englishmen of the time his name was anathema. He was quixotic, fanatical, in the paroxysms of his wrath.

A PRACTICAL MAN NOW.

But the time has worked wonders. Today there is the same mystical and spiritual element in his nature, lifting him at times to the highest peaks of pure poetry and oratorical power; but he realizes at length what can be achieved in the realms of practical politics, and what must remain in the land of dreams. To be sure, David Lloyd George is still sufficient of the dreamer to envesage, if not a new heaven, at least a new earth; and with his boundless energy and indefatigable will he is determined to make certain dreams come true. Yet he has become, above all else a practical man.

There are those who say that time has coarsened him; that the look of haunting spiritual beauty has departed from his face, and that an expression of alert cunning and domineering power has unsurped its place. No doubt the "first, fine, careless rapture" of youth has fled, and youthful fancies with it. But Lloyd George remains essentially the man of vision: only he has added to insight the knowledge of what may be done in the world of reality, where facts and not vague emotional aspirations, count. This change of heart, or at least of attitude, has estranged him from the noisy group of radical reactionaries with which he was once closely associated, and has made him the inevitable leader of the democratic Imperialists not only of the United Kingdom, but of the whole Empire.

WORLD POWER OR DOWNFALL.

For Lloyd George, the dreamer, was quick to divine what the war meant, in its essential aspects, for every Englishman. It did not take him long to realize that for us— from the purely British point of view —it meant one thing, and one thing alone:
