COLOR CUT-OUTS

MYSTERIOUS WRITING
This is the fifth chapter of a story about a lost prince. When a set of dolls is complete at the end of next week, they will make fine actors with which to play the story over again.

The miller's daughter had just wished for the reward in order that she might have a fine dowry, when a great surprise came to her. A cosy fire was burning inside the summerhouse on the king's grounds and there was a little table all set with dainty food. There was writing carved into the stone of the fireplace, and this is what it said:

"Of comforts here partake, but of thy speech beware."
But she had no sooner seated herself to eat than she heard a crying and sighing, and saw a young man standing at the door.
"For whom are the fire and food and couch?" he asked.
"For myself," she answered.
For an instant his face bore a troubled look, then he vanished. When the girl turned again to the table, too, was gone and all the other comforts.
(This dress belongs to the miller's eldest daughter. It is brown with a blue apron and collar. Her shoes and stockings are brown with blue ribbons about her ankles.)

FINE RECORD FOR SAFETY BY BRITISH RAILWAYS

LONDON, Jan. 8.—Despite weight and speed of traffic said to be unparalleled, only one passenger was killed in train accidents in Britain during the past year. This figure is compared with more than forty fatalities in France and four times that number in the United States. The comparative freedom of British railways from fatal accidents is attributed to care in construction and precautions taken by the railway staff. It is claimed the average speed of British trains is the highest in the world and traffic density as great as anywhere.

Gleanings From Tryon And Vicinity

We note in the Guardian that it is illegal to drive a rig in the city without bells. Does the same law prevail in the country? If so whose duty is it to enforce it. Scores of teams are upon the roads without bells, in the evening they are a positive menace to any who are walking. Its an excellent law and should be enforced. Two children were knocked down recently in Crapaud, as they were returning home from a concert in the Church. They narrowly escaped being seriously hurt. The team had no bells.

Speaking of bells, have you heard them? What bells. Merry bells, marriage bells, where may they be heard? All the way from Crapaud to County Line. How they tinkle, tinkle, merry bells, marriage bells.

Miss Helen Howatt of Augustus Cove, spent last week at North Tryon, on the guest of Mrs. Elmer Gambell.

Chas. Howatt who went to Los Angeles, California last fall, returned a few days ago and has been visiting friends in Crapaud. He will purchase several pairs of foxes and return west shortly. He reports that the boom in California appears to be off. There are many vacant houses in the cities and many out of employment.

Miss Grace Simmons, of Crapaud, is spending the month with her sister at Tryon. Mrs. Howard Campbell.

Inspector Bell has been following up several clues, hoping to locate some of the illicit stills that are said to be located toward County Line. He has found evidence that stills have been recently in operation, but he has not yet been able to locate them definitely. Mr. Bell is an excellent officer, and will do his duty without fear or favour. He needs the support of every true citizen in his good work.

Every mild day large quantities of potatoes have been going forward. A choice lot of table stock, specially graded for hotel use, was sold here last week for $2.25 per bushel. They are going to the United States. Many of the large hotels are making baked potatoes a feature of their bill of fares and for this purpose potatoes must be graded to uniform size. They are getting an extra price for this stock.

Miss Ruth Ward while on her way to Wolfville, where she is a student at the Ladies Seminary, was a passenger on the Maritime Express that was wrecked at Amherst last week, but fortunately while twenty-five passengers were more or less injured, Miss Ward escaped without a scratch. She has written her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. W. Ward, a graphic account of her experience, which she is not anxious to go through again. The train was making good time on a smooth road bed when without a moment's warning, there was a terrific crash and several cars went over an embankment. There was a fearful crashing of wood and glass. The passengers on the upper side of the car, with hand baggage and loose garments, went tumbling down upon those on the lower side, several who were sitting near the windows were thrown against the scene was terrible. The wounded were pulling themselves from the wreckage with blood streaming from their face, and arms. No one was killed, but among those who were seriously hurt were the conductor and Miss Rose, also a student at Wolfville. Relief was rushed from Halifax and the injured were soon taken care of. It was about three hours before the uninjured could resume their journey.

Pleasant House Warming

Over twenty couples friends and neighbors of Mr. and Mrs. Glean McLean, Searlestown, called on them recently to offer felicitations upon the "moving in" to their new home on the Borden Highway.
Mr. J. B. Hayes was chosen master of ceremonies who in a few well chosen remarks set forth the high esteem in which the young couple are held, telling how they were always willing to further any interests for the welfare of the district social and otherwise.
The address was accompanied by two beautiful Japanese Jardiniers and a Silver Tea Service, the presentation being made in behalf of the company by Mrs. Geo. Runcie and Mrs. Horace Sobey the recipients responded in a few well chosen words thanking the company for their kind remembrance saying the gifts would always be a reminder of their kind friends.
After the presentation the party was entertained with some rare piano selections by Mrs. Geo. Runcie and Mrs. Fraser Shilker, the remainder of the evening being taken up with songs, games and stories.
After all present had partaken of a goodly share of cake and ice cream, the singing of Auld Lang Syne and the National Anthem brought to a close the end of a perfect evening.

GRAHAM'S ROAD SCHOOL EXAMINATION

The half-yearly examination of Graham's Road School was held in Graham's Road Hall, Tuesday evening, December 22nd, with thirty-six rate payers and visitors present. The hall was beautifully decorated for the occasion with crepe paper, spruce and pink and white artificial roses. The pupils were examined by their teachers, Misses Theresa Woodside and Elizabeth Fleming, assisted by Miss Carrie Woodside and Mr. Hugh Campbell.
The following program was then carried out:—Instrumental Music, by Misses Beulah and Olive Campbell and Master Leigh Campbell; Chorus, Sleigh Bells of Santa Claus by School. Speech by Margaret MacLean, Dorothea, Playing School by Christine Wigmore, Jennie MacKinnon and George Wigmore; Recitation, Papa's Best Girl by Helen Wigmore; Song, Our Xmas Dinner by Margaret MacLeod; Recitation, Mother's Helper by Waldon Ferguson; Dialogue, Two Sides of a Question by Edna and Lloyd Wigmore; Recitation, Alice's Choice by Glen Wigmore; Song, Santa Claus by Six Primary Pupils; Recitation, Expecting Santa Claus by Elmer Wigmore; Dialogue, Taking the Census; Recitation, Auntie's Doll by Clara MacLeod; Instrumental Music, Jingle Bells.
During the last number Santa's Bells were heard and the Old Chap soon made his appearance. After wishing all a Merry Xmas Santa Claus went to the Xmas Tree which was laden with presents for the teachers, pupils and visitors. The pupils presented Miss Woodside

Man Who Thrilled The World

Divulges Methods by which Anyone Can Dominate and Triumph: Proves by Scientific Fact that there is no longer an excuse for Failure or Ill-Health.

Great numbers of people today struggling for health, have a great inherent power to obtain supremacy—others struggling along in a state of ill-health can attain success and content. These are but two of the truths brought home, in the most thorough and definite manner, by a book recently issued, entitled "The Marvels of Coulson's." We have here a doctrine of a man who has attained all that nature and the world-wide renown of "Emile Coue" accredited with being the modern mind in the human mind in a program in which this EMILE COUE new Science is deemed to have a remarkable far-reaching effect.

"The Marvels of Coulson" is undoubtedly the key for which the world is searching, the person of it gives the impression of a new aid, a wondrous power, an art, a science, a philosophy, a religion, a new life, a new hope, a new faith, a new belief, a new conviction, a new growth, a new conception of the many applications to which the Science may be put, making each day more progressive and more productive—giving a bigger reward, the man or woman, young or old, who permits a day to go by without obtaining "The Marvels of Coulson" will be a failure in his or her own interests: so great an aid does it give to those who are not content with what they are, but who desire to be at a great advantage in this age of competition—whether the world of business, industry, or the professions.

So that there shall be no obstacle to those who would profit the most from "The Marvels of Coulson" we have arranged to distribute no less than 10,000 copies, entirely free of charge. A certain number of copies will be reserved for our readers, but early application is imperative, or you may be disappointed. Send your name to: The Coue-Orton Institute, Ltd., Dept. 543, Holborn Viaduct, London, E. C. 1. Enclose stamps to cover postage, and you will have made a definite, sure step towards the achievement of your desire. The only way will be able to prove for yourself that the power which made, at least one man, a millionaire, may be enjoyed so fully, in your own case.

CANADIAN ARTIST'S WORKS ARE EXHIBITED IN PARIS

PARIS, Jan. 15.—A posthumous exhibition of the works of the Canadian painter, J. W. Maurice, of Montreal, who died in Tunis, North Africa, three years ago, was opened at the Simson galleries here this afternoon by the British ambassador, the Marquis of Crewe.
The pictures on exhibition, mainly belong to art collectors, who thus wish to honor the memory of the noted Canadian artist. Mr. Maurice was a friend of a number of notable Parisians.
Armand Dayot, inspector of fine arts here, says he considers that Mr. Maurice was a master of nuances in his work.

with an under-the-arm bag and Miss Fleming with an ivory manicure set and case. The following prizes were awarded: For attendance, Clara MacLeod, Jennie MacKinnon, George MacKinnon. For School Fair work: Dorothy Brown, Robina Whitehead, Elmer MacLeod and Glen Wigmore. For best kept work book: Olive Campbell. For most stars: Jennie MacKinnon. For improvement in reading: Christine Wigmore. For deportment: Caroline MacLeod. For general proficiency: Margaret MacLeod.
Each pupil and teacher received a handkerchief from the Success Women's Institute, and pupils and visitors were treated to candy by the teachers. Remarks were then made by Messrs. Thomas Wigmore and Edward Williams and this successful examination was brought to a close by the singing of the National Anthem.

Indians Dig For Ore Their Forefathers Used As Paint

ALPINE, Tex., Jan. 14.—Burrowing in the rugged mountains of southern Texas, stolid Indians today are mining for its treasure of quick-silver, the blood-red ore their forefathers used as warpaint.

The miners live in villages that are silent as the tomb. Far from waking hours taking from the hills a heritage which civilization discovered and claims as its own.

Tarkine and Waldron, ninety miles from a railroad, are the center of a district where the expected opening of a new line may give Texas first rank in the United States' production of quick-silver. The state now ranks second.

For thirty years, hardy men have been undermining the mountains for the cinabar ore from which mercury is extracted. One company has produced $10,000,000 worth of shimmering metal during the last quarter of a century.

The miners are Indians and Mexicans and the villages are of adobe huts. During the day, while the men are in the ground, the women remain in the houses and the silence is rarely broken. The streets between the rows of squat dwellings are deserted except for the occasional appearance of an Indian woman carrying water in two rawhide bags suspended from a pole across her shoulders, in primitive fashion.

One of the mines contains an immense cavern, which is reached by a fifty-foot ladder placed there, years ago, by the primitive tribes. The surrounding bluffs are decorated with many Indian photographs and hieroglyphics, in red pigment.

BROOKVALE SCHOOL EXAMINATION

The semi-annual examination of Brookvale School was held on Tuesday, December 22nd, in the presence of a large number of rate payers and visitors, including Rev. P. McMahon. The school was artistically decorated for the occasion.
The pupils were examined in their various subjects by Mr. James E. Cooley, Mr. Amos Curley, Mrs. Felix Morrison and also by their teacher, Miss Lena Carley, and they showed by their ready answers that they had been carefully trained during the past term.
After the examination a short programme was successfully carried out.
The visitors and pupils were then treated to candy and fruit. Each pupil also received a gift from the teacher. The teacher was also the recipient of many gifts from her pupils.

HOPE RIVER SCHOOL

A vote of thanks was then extended to Father McMahon for his presence and also to the teacher for the success of the examination, which was brought to a close by the singing of the National Anthem.
