

HE'S STILL CURED.

Ademard Coderre Used Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets Three Years Ago and has had no Indigestion Since.

These days of hurry and excitement are bound to make themselves felt in the over-worked human body, and on no part of it do they tell more quickly than on the stomach.

An extra strain of work, and especially brain work, always most affect the appetite, and what affects the appetite must affect the stomach. And if the stomach is not cured for, rested and recuperated, Dyspepsia must result.

"I suffered from Dyspepsia caused by inflammation of the stomach," says Mr. Coderre. "I tried medicines without getting relief and was almost discouraged. One day I bought two boxes of them. I found relief almost at once and was finally completely cured."

"It is three years since I was cured of Dyspepsia by taking Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets and I am still cured."

DALHOUSIE NOTES.

(By the Guardian's Correspondent.)

On Friday evening, Nov. 7th, the annual Freshman and Sophomore debate was held in the Munroe Room. The subject under discussion was:

Resolved that the time has arrived when the state should provide old age pensions.

The men of the second year were to uphold the resolution while those of the first year were to oppose it.

The speakers were as follows:—E. Fraser, second year arts; J. DeCoste, second year medicine; H. McDonald, second year law; D. H. McKenzie, first year arts; A. E. G. Forbes, first year medicine; G. McLennan, first year law.

The debate was quite an interesting one throughout. Mr. Fraser whose home is at North Lake, P. E. I., made about the best speech of the evening. At the close of the debate the judges appointed discussed the merits of the arguments of the men of respective sides and finally decided in favor of the first year men.

After the reading of an able critique by E. Blackadder the meeting was brought to a close.

The closing game of the Senior Football League was played on Saturday afternoon last on the Wanderers' Grounds between the Wanderers and the Dalhousie Senior Team. The weather was all that could be desired, and the ground was in good condition. The forward line of the Dalhousie team was stronger than that of the Wanderers, otherwise the teams were quite evenly matched. The game was hotly contested and was an interesting one from the very beginning. The playing in the first half was quite swift but ended in a tie.

In the second half the Wanderers put forth a desperate effort to win but failed. Occasionally the goals of both teams were in imminent danger but no score was made by either side, and the game resulted in a draw.

Had the Wanderers won this game there would have been some hope of their winning the trophy, as then they would have a chance to play another game, but as the result was a tie the trophy goes to the Collegians.

The Dalhousie team has made a brilliant record this season. In all the games played it was not scored against by any of the opposing teams.

Mr. S. J. A. returned missionary from Western Africa, addressed the Dalhousie students in the College on Saturday evening, Nov. 8th.

Mr. S. J. spoke of the many peculiarities of the language of the natives and of how difficult it was to learn. He showed the great need there was of men and women to go and carry the gospel to those people and urged the students to consider well the demands of the Foreign Field upon them before deciding definitely upon their life's work.

On the afternoon of Sunday, Nov. 8th, Rev. G. B. McLeod of the First Presbyterian Church, Truro, lectured in Dalhousie on the subject "Browning's Idea of God and of Immortality." The lecture was an able and interesting one, and was much appreciated by all who had the pleasure of hearing it. Mr. McLeod is well known in P. E. I., having been once settled in Covehead.

Have You Any Of These.

Systems of a Very Common Trouble?

There is no disease so common in the United States as Catarrh because it appears in so many forms and attacks so many different organs.

It is a common mistake to suppose that catarrh is confined to the nose and throat. Any inflammation of the mucous membrane wherever located is accompanied by abnormal secretions, is catarrh. Catarrh of stomach or bladder, or intestines is nearly as common as nasal catarrh and much more serious although it is true that stomach catarrh and catarrh of other internal organs is the result of neglected nasal catarrh.

A new remedy has recently appeared which so far as tested seems to be remarkably effective in promptly curing catarrh, wherever located. The preparation is sold by druggists generally under name of Stuart's Catarrh Tablets, and in addition to being very palatable and convenient, possesses extraordinary merit, in many cases giving immediate relief from the coughing, hawking and constant cleaning of the throat and head, those systems with which every one is familiar who has suffered from colds in the head and throat.

Catarrh is simply a continuation of these systems until the trouble becomes chronic and grows gradually worse from year to year.

Stuart's Catarrh Tablets are composed of Hydrastin, Red Gum and similar antiseptics and catarrh specific, from which it will be seen that no secret is made of the ingredients and also that no mineral poisons are used, as is the case with many well known catarrh medicines. For catarrh of the nose, throat, bronchial tubes, for catarrh of stomach, intestines or bladder no preparation is so safe and gives such rapid and permanent results as Stuart's Catarrh Tablets.

All druggists sell them at 50c for full sized package. You can use them with assurance that you will not contract the cocaine or morphine habit as the results from this catarrh cure are apparent from the first day's use.

SERMON ON POVERTY OF SPIRIT.

By W. E. Johnson, Rector Church of the Redeemer.

TEXT: MATTHEW 5: 3.

Blessed Are the Poor in Spirit For Theirs is the Kingdom of Heaven.

Blessed are the poor in spirit, for theirs is the kingdom of heaven.—St. Matt., v. 3.

Even those who deny the personal claims of Christ almost universally praise and accept the Sermon on the Mount as a most perfect precept for human life. I very much question the depth of this acceptance.

The moral teacher of our day does not begin by blessing, and, if he did, would begin with some more sturdy virtue than poverty of spirit.

It is a mark of the divine nature of the Son of Man that He does begin so far away from all purely human teachers, and so truly in accord with all His created works. It is a mark of His all-embracing mission that He begins with a blessing on a virtue so simple that any may possess it.

What is poverty? Not merely to lack, but to feel the lack of things. The Indian on this island four hundred years ago was not poor because he had no bank account; without it we are.

Ask yourself, with this understanding and in reply to Christ's words, "Have I poverty of spirit?" Your answer to that question is the measure of your understanding of the Sermon on the Mount.

Christ began with conscious lack in accordance with His fundamental law of all created life. Development or evolution of life proceeds from the sense of poverty.

The material wealth of this great city was created by the sense of poverty on the part of those within it which the Indian never knew. Men became conscious of a lack in facility of communication, and in their laboratories they worked and prayed (for in its degree it was prayer) and the answer came in telephone and telegraph, which in their latest development seem almost a divine power.

So it is no strange truth that Christ utters when He declares that "Blessed are the poor in spirit; they that mourn, the meek, and they that hunger and thirst after righteousness," and that these only He follows with mercy, purity and justice.

To be poor in spirit is to be conscious of need in the highest element of our natures. We spend perhaps ten hours a day to avoid that which each in his degree calls poverty, and what to avoid this poverty of our very highest nature?

How many of us in this are tramps, living by begging from those whose sense of poverty has called forth their utmost efforts! Alas! too many are content to accept the moral or immoral standard before them, with no work or prayer in laboratory seeking new means of communication with their fellows and their God.

Go back to that time when the Preacher of the Sermon on the Mount first placed a living creature on the then desolate world. A tiny, shapeless mass, without foot or eye, nay, not a single organ; in utter poverty as we look back upon it. Watch that speck of matter—a germ in which lies potentially all this city represents. It senses its poverty and moves for food; it must distort its insignificant little form to move at all and procure the food it cannot even see. With that motion the great earth has become a new thing, a new kingdom now is born, and with ever-increasing sense of poverty new powers are given, until at last an eye to pierce the universe and a hand to reshape the earth itself, to make its owner but a thousand times more conscious of his poverty.

Now again the Son of God stands upon the earth to bless that which He has created; in words of men He repeats that which before He had uttered through living forms. "Blessed are those who recognize their poverty of spirit, for theirs is another kingdom, as has been before."

As He saw in that tiny living creature kingdom after kingdom arising, now He sees another, more glorious and yet in marvellous beauty, still coming forth from it.

The new creature is again without foot or eye, but, conscious of its poverty, it moves, and potentially the city of

God has begun. "Blessed are those conscious of their poverty in spirit, for the kingdom of heaven lies in that consciousness, is theirs because they have moved for food they cannot even see."

So now, as at the first, He places food to make rich him who knows that he is poor. "Except ye eat the flesh of the Son of Man and drink His blood ye have no life in you."

The city of God seems not one-half as strange in these lives of ours as was the city of New York in that that poor bill of life with which it all began; and there is a greater wealth to be obtained than we have gathered here, if we but move conscious that we are poor in spirit.

WOMAN'S WORK.

Often Leads to a Breakdown in Health.

Severe Headaches, Loss of Appetite, Dizziness, Palpitation of the Heart and Other Distressing Symptoms Follow.

Woman's cares about the household are many and oft-worrying, and it is no wonder that the health of so many give away under the strain. To weak, tired-out, depressed women everywhere, the story of Mrs. Geo. L. Horton, the wife of a well known farmer living near Fenwick, Ont., will become a message of hope. To a reporter who interviewed her on the subject, Mrs. Fenwick said:—Yes, I am quite willing to give my testimony to the great good Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have done me, as my experience may help some other sufferer. A couple of years ago my health began to give way, and I suffered from anaemia, with most of the depressing symptoms of that trouble. I became much emaciated, had distressing headaches and a very poor appetite. At first I thought the trouble would pass off, but in this I was mistaken, as I continued to grow worse. My heart began to palpitate violently at the least exertion; my rest at night was broken and finally a bad cough set in, and I was scarcely able to do a bit of work about the house. An aunt in England who had been ill had written me that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills had restored her to health, and I determined to give the pills a trial. After the use of a few boxes I noticed a distinct improvement in my condition, and after using the pills for a few weeks more the trouble had completely left me. I could sleep well at night, the cough left me, the headaches that had made me so miserable vanished, my appetite returned, and I could again perform my household work with ease. I shall always feel grateful for what Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have done for me, and strongly recommend them to other ailing women.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have accomplished just such good results in thousands of other cases among ill men and women, and sufferers from any of the numerous ailments resulting from poor, watery blood who will give these pills a fair trial will soon be on the high road to health and strength. Imitations are sometimes offered by unscrupulous dealers who care more for their own profit than for their customers' health. Be sure that the full name, "Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People," is found on the wrapper around every box you buy. If your dealer does not keep these pills send to the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont., and they will be mailed post paid at 50c per box or six boxes for $3.00.

THE CZAR NOT ILL.

COLOGNE, November 12.—The St. Petersburg correspondent of the Cologne Gazette says there is no truth in the rumors as to the ill-health of the Czar and Czarina. Both are enjoying the best of health.

WON'T BE HERE AGAIN.

OTTAWA, November 12.—The Countess of Minto this afternoon, presented to the successful competitor, the prizes won this year. Lady Minto made a nice little address, and mentioned that she would not be able to be present at next year's distribution of prizes, as she had spent her last summer in Canada.
