

A Real Boric Talcum

When you want a real boric talcum—ask for Penslar Red Rose Talcum and you will get it.

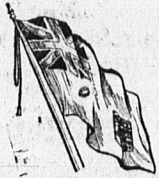

It overcomes stickiness and chafing of the skin, cools and soothes the sun-burned spots, and adds immensely to your summer comfort.

Its satin-smoothness, its purity and its refreshing true rose scent combine to make it the most delightful as well as the most efficient of talcum powders.

Get a 25c box at our Penslar Store today, and you will be glad we told you about it. Look for the penslar sign.

How sleep the brave who sink to rest
By all their country's wishes blest!
When Spring, with dewy fingers cold,
Returns to deck their hallow'd mould,
She there shall dress a sweeter sod
Than Fancy's feet have ever trod.
By fairy hands their knell is rung,
By forms unseen their dirge is sung;
There Honour comes, a pilgrim gray,
To bless the turf that wraps their clay;
And Freedom shall a while repair,
To dwell a weeping hermit there.

UMPIRE BILLY SUNDAY

Billy Sunday, the famous baseball evangelist, recently umpired a baseball game in Paterson, New Jersey, where he is conducting a revival.

It was a corking little ball game, close all the time. Sunday was going to umpire only three innings, he said, when he started, but it was so tight a fit that he stayed all the way through. When Paterson High got a two-run lead in the fourth inning their lad and lassie rooters burst into the famous tabernacle chorus, Brighten the Corner Where You Are, Billy couldn't leave after that.

There was never a kick on a single decision of Billy's. There couldn't have been. Only once he was called upon for a real test of both his baseball ability and his professed Christianity. A Paterson High School runner started to steal second base. The Newton catcher—name Levine—sent a perfect throw which his infielder caught and swept down toward the leg of the sliding runner. Billy jerked his thumb upward and shouted, "Yer out!" But the runner knew, and the baseman knew that the boy sliding into the base had not been touched. The ball missed him by six inches.

There was no protest, but the Newton lad who covered the bag ran up to the umpire and exclaimed: "I didn't touch him, Mr. Sunday." He was safe. You didn't see it, but I missed him when I tried to put the ball on him. "Safe!" shouted Billy, spreading his palms and reversing his decision. "You're all right, kid. That's the way to play the game! Be on the level."

WHAT TO DO WITH

BUNCH OF RAFFIA.

The woman who can handle raffia not only has a good work for summer at her command, but she can make many useful and attractive additions to the summer home.

The raffia, which only costs 10 cents a bunch, can be bought in three or four colors—natural color, a darker shade of brown, perhaps, a soft green and a dark red give promise of interesting combinations. If a basket of raffia is planted from a room furnishing in a definite color, raffia in matching or harmoniously contrasting shade can be bought. Some of the firms that sell raffia have simple cards which have the names of the different colors, and opposite the names samples of the raffia in those colors. From these cards it is easy to order a renewed supply or a new stock of raffia by mail.

Useful things which the raffia worker can make for the summer house are small flower holders. These are really no more than little baskets fitted with glass or china dishes to hold water, but they are very effective. Half a dozen done in two shades of raffia—holding the flowers on the summer dinner table—both good combinations—all the same size and shape, or else done in matching pairs, are very pretty for holding the flowers on the summer dinner table.

A pair of them on dressing table or desk give an artistic touch to a whole room, and they can be effectively placed in any bare spot. They are especially good for holding such short stemmed flowers as pansies, nasturtiums, forget-me-nots, annual larkspur, small roses, alyssum, Candytuft and English daisies.

These little baskets can be made to fit about old and handleless cups or deep saucers. In either case the basket should be narrowed above the top of the dish to wide neck, and then should flare at the top. This shape the basket like a vase and gives good support for the flower stems.

For these baskets the raffia can be wound about either heavy cord or damp willow. Lazy squaw stitch is the easiest and most quickly accomplished of all stitches.

LESS MEAT IN HOSPITALS

Professor and Privy Councillor Ewald, one of Berlin's greatest physicians, has written to the press making the suggestion that in all hospitals and infirmaries, civil and military, there should be days at regular intervals when no meat of any description be served out either to the patients or to the staff.

He would like to see this suggestion realized, because in itself it would be hygienically sound, and because enormous quantities of meat would be saved. He realizes that there might be exceptions, e. g., patients suffering from diabetes, but this need not interfere with the general rule.

In Professor Ewald's opinion it would be well if the masses of the people could be made to see that the daily consumption of large quantities of meat is unnecessary, and more, that it cannot be justified under the existing economic stress. He believes that if his plan were introduced objections to it would probably be raised by the doctors, nurses, and attendants more than by the patients.—Weekly Cape Times, S. A.

QUEEN'S KINDLY ACT.

A kindly little act that shows something of the quick wit and ready sympathy of Queen Helena of Italy is recorded by Tauche's Tont. Some years ago the coral fishers of Torre del Greco, near Naples, were in hard straits. The value of coral had fallen so low that they were no longer able to find purchasers for their harvest. They besought the Queen to come to their aid.

At the first court ball that was held that year at the Quirinal the Queen, to the surprise of all beholders wore about her neck a collar composed of six rows of coral instead of her superb collar of pearls, and her hair was crowned with a diadem of coral and brilliants. From that evening the mode changed. Old coral ornaments that had been hidden away for years and years were again displayed at the jewelers, and were snapped up by eager purchasers. Queen Helena's object was attained, and that coronal marked the beginning of more prosperous days for the coral fishers of Torre del Greco.

A Thousand Sticks of Dynamite Exploded At Various Points Of Prince Edward Island

It seems to be necessary that at least a thousand sticks of dynamite should be exploded at various points in Prince Edward Island in the same manner as is occurring in other parts of Canada before the Fathers, Mothers, Sisters, Wives and the young men of Prince Edward Island will realize that there is a War going on, in which they must take their part.

Every Citizen Must Back Us Up And Assist in the Work of Recruiting

That is common sense as well as doing your duty. In Prince Edward Island our efforts have been entirely hap-hazard and we want you to realize that this is not a War to be played with on the hap-hazard principle. Major P. R. Hanson, speaking in Montreal recently. Says conscription will come in Canada. Are you going to wait for it? or, are you coming with the Prince Edward Island Heavy Battery?

Every Able-Bodied Man Here Will Undoubtedly go to the War before the end

And going to the War is not pleasant even when conditions are such as they will be in the Heavy Battery (the best possible) but all you men should realize and your own common sense will force you to realize that when you are forced to go nobody is going to care very much about your conditions and you will not have the respect of either yourself or your officers.

Enlist to-day don't be a Coward

140 Heroes have already Volunteered WHERE ARE YOU?

Yes Sir! 140 men and seventeen officers have already volunteered for the Heavy Battery, Why? because they fully realize that with a full battery of 217 men and officers all from Prince Edward Island they will have someone always to look after them, friends in time of need, they will be trained together, sleep together, eat together, fight together and for each other. One large family to whom the honor of P. E. Island is entrusted.

The Schools, the Colleges, the Churches of Our Land Must Pour Out Supplies of Soldiers

They are factories that produce the men, the country needs at this juncture—men of character, conscience, seriousness, stern, set, determined men—men who hate War and fight all the harder because they hate it—men who go to the War not as an adventure but as the most solemn and instant of duties. This is the kind of men the Heavy Battery requires.

It Takes Six Months To Train A Heavy Battery Thoroughly

As soon as the required number of heroes are obtained this training will be started in Charlottetown and will be continued there for some months, then it will be finished in Halifax or Valcartier and Petewawa, then the finishing touches will be done in England. This course of training will make every officer every non-commissioned officer and every gunner proficient and expert in his work.

The Great Question Is Why Is He Not At The Front?

Ask it of yourself, why? WHY? You ought to be, the (slacker) will have a hard time in Prince Edward Island and he ought to have a hard time everywhere. Make your decision at once, come in and enlist in the Heavy Battery we are organizing. Apply to the undersigned officers who are going to the front with you and who will not send you into any danger where they will not go themselves ahead of you. It is up to you. God save the King.
