—A FINE SHOT.—Young sportsmen would do well yet to have a care for the ability of the old marksmen. On Sept. 23, Mr. Norman Ramsay, Hamilton was enjoying a leisure holiday with an old shotgun. A cluster of six plovers risked a winged excursion in close proximity to the old gentleman. He darted a visual ray upon the game, with lightning rapidity levelled the gun, the quiet air was shattered with the report and the old gentleman bagged 80 per cent. of the flock. How many of the bostful young sportsmen can beat that? Mr. Ramsay is 86 years old.

MRS. WM. HARPER.

News of the sudden death of Mrs. William Harper was heard with great regret by the people of Tignish and vicinity on the morning of Aug. 31st.

Mrs. Harper had been in delicate health for the past two years, having suffered a severe stroke while visiting friends in Boston. On return home she was very much improved and up to the time of her death was enjoying a good measure of health.

Deceased who was sixty-seven years of age was a daughter of the late Peter Doyle of Norway and was first married to the late P. H. Morrissey of Tignish.

The funeral which took place from the home of her son, Mr. C. F. Morrisey was largely attended, many having motored from Alberton and Summerside to pay their last respects to a worthy citizen.

There are left to mourn a large family of sons and daughters to whom the sympathy of a large number of friends is extended.

MRS JOHN A HACKETT.

On Saturday August 29th, at 3 o'clock p. m., Mrs. John A. Hackett passed peacefully away at her home Tignish, after a protracted illness, borne with remarkable patience and cheerfulness.

Although great hopes for her recovery were always entertained, God willed it otherwise and her spirit took its flight from its earthly abode, notwithstanding all that the best of medical skill had done to keep her longer, along with tender nursing and care, from loved ones in the home.

Mrs. Hackett was the daughter of the late Michael and Isabella McElroym, and was born at Tignish on June 2nd, 1871.

She leaves to cherish her memory, a loving husband, three sons, Ralph, Marcus and Clifford, also four daughters Marjorie (Mrs. P. Claude Murphy) ,Dorothy Cornelia and Dora. There are also three brothers and four sisters, viz: Peter McElroy, Roxbury, Mass.; Fred, Detroit Mich.; Mrs. Joseph Devoy, West Newton, Mass.; Mrs. Wm. Salterio, Halifax, N. S.; Mrs. Wm Fall, Brighton, Mass.; and Mrs. L. T. Curry, Amherst, N. S.

All her children, and her three sisters, Mrs. Devoy, Mrs. Salterio and Mrs. Curry were with her at the last.

In the passing of this good and Christian woman, the community suffers the loss of a truly beautiful personality, possessing those true sterling qualities, which ever make and hold worthy friendships, and leave behind imprints, which are worth while. A mother in a thousand, the love of her great heart reached out and embraced all those, who needed sympathy in their afflictions.

The funeral took place on Tuesday, September 1st, at 10.30 from St. Simon & Jude Church, and was largely attended. Hundreds of people from Charlottetown, Summerside and points along the line paid a tribute to one, whom they loved and respected. Solemn High Mass of Requiem was celebrated by Rev. M. J. Rooney assisted by Rev. Dr. T. Campbell D. D., Deacon and Rev. Dr. G. J. McLellan D. D., as Sub-Deacon.

The Choir was ably assisted by Rev. Dr. Gauthier, D. D., Palmer Road and Wm. Brown, Choir Master, St. Dunstans Cathedral, Charlottetown.

At Rotary

Mr. R. R. Hurst, officer in charge of the Plant Pathological Office Experimental Station, Charlottetown, gave an interesting address on "Plant Pathology," before Rotary on Thursday evening.

Rev. A. E. Kochaly, B.A., Maritime Secretary of the Armenian Relief Association, made a strong plea for the support of his work.

Mr. Ray Pendleton, who was recently married was presented with a silver tray and address by the bachelors of the club, the address being read by Dave Bethune. Jim Harris made the presentation.

Following is a summary of Mr. Hurst's address:—

I am indeed highly honored in having this opportunity to address the Charlottetown branch of the Rotarians, meeting the business men of this city and discussing the service which I represent on Prince Edward Island. However, it is with much trepidation that I come before you, for at this season of activity in agricultural circles we have visiting our province famous judges and experts, anyone of whom would be more suitable to this occasion. I feel that it is a matter of regret that some one of them has been unable to arrange his itinerary to provide time for an address here this evening. It has been my privilege to attend the agricultural fair being held here this week and in observing the many splendid exhibits I was impressed with their high quality, a standard of excellency, in fact, which I venture to say has few equals in Canada. Occasionally I listen to a note of pessimism induced by our scarcity of industries. Gentlemen, we have the greatest industry with all its important branches right here in our Island Province, upon the success of which the country is dependent. Therefore, it is necessary that this basic industry be safeguarded. I need not point out the various contributing factors for this, but will proceed with a general discussion of that part in which I am interested.

By plant pathology we mean study of plant diseases, all of our agricultural plant crops are subject to disease. So it is to the problem of plant diseases that I shall direct your attention and I shall take it up under the following headings:

1. General aspect of diseases.
2. Economic importance.
3. Specific diseases.
4. Prevention.

The term "Plant Diseases of Plants" is generally applied to the injuries in plants not due to insects. A plant may be diseased in many ways. These diseases can be grouped into two main divisions:

1. Diseases due to physical causes, such as climatic conditions frost, heat, hail, lightning, excessive moisture, mechanical or chemical conditions of the soil, etc., etc., and

2. Diseases due to live parisites. I wish to point out the economic importance of plant diseases. When no means is employed to check the attack of disease pathogens upon plants, serious loss may result, and there may be complete destruction of the crop. For illustration I might point out the serious condition which exists in the great plains of our wheat grow provinces whose hard wheats are known the world over. It is a matter of much concern that marquis and other excellent wheats are subject to stem rust with which you are familiar.

The effect of this parasite is such that it not only reduces the yield but lowers the grade of wheat. In 1916 the losses due to rust was more than 150 million. In 1923 we had the greatest crop of wheat in Canada's history, yet in the Red River Valley of Southern Manitoba there was sustained a loss of 50 million. That was the eighth consecutive year of severe loss to the farmers in that district. Or to put the case on a more alarming basis—In epidemic years the losses were three times the amount Canada receives from her fisheries. In 1916 the losses equalled the entire mineral production of Canada for 1922, viz., $183,000,000.

Take Example of Smuts Too.

Specific diseases are very numerous indeed, so I shall just touch on the important ones which have come to my notice in Prince Edward Island. By far most important is late blight of potatoes. The seriousness of this disease should not be minimised for if figures were available we would be appalled at the loss sustained by the potato industry yearly. Our own wheat crop sustains considerable loss from smut, rust and scab. Our orchards suffer from apple scab and canker, black knot of plums, brown rot. We also find serious diseases in the vegetable garden. These references will serve to convince you that our crops are as subject to injury as those in other parts of Canada. But it is our endeavor to prevent as much of this as possible.

Let me deal briefly with the prevention of diseases, the cause and organism must be known. A doctor cannot cure a disease of which he knows nothing but the symptoms. These are misleading, for certain diseases manifest themselves by producing the same symptoms. We must carefully study every disease and become familiar with the different stages of the parasite in order to attack it vigorously at its weakest stage. However, the fight is not easy and as yet very few curative remedies are known to save plants once they have been attacked. Therefore, we must direct our energies toward prevention.

An important epoch in the general study of diseases had its beginning in the prevalence of grape diseases in France, which condition led to the discovery of Bordeau Mixture by Millardet about 1883. Thus, it became evident that there was a bright prospect for controlling many of the plant diseases.

Control may be developed along one or more very different lines. In the first place it may concern itself with a maintenance of the host plant in a sanitary condition, or in one which renders it more resistent to attack. It may again resolve itself into the application of deleterious substances, viz, blue stone, formalin, corrosive sublimate, etc., to the host in order that the germination of disease germs will be prevented. This takes the form of disinfecting seed or propogative parts, the application of reagents to the soil or coating the vegetative portions commonly accomlished by spraying.

The problem of control lies not entirely with the plant pathologists. It must be attacked by plant breeding experts, chemists and others. Already valuable contributions have been made from these quarters. However, there are many discouragements. Bean anthracuere was thought to be controlled by using resistent varieties but now we find that a new strain of the disease has just as serious effects. There are varieties of wheat resistent to rust in one locality, when taken to another are susceptible to it. So you see, it is not a problem for the individual but a demand for unity of action, or co-operation in the study and control of epidemic diseases.

"Bread! We want Bread!"

So shouted the starved and angry mob during the great French Revolution, demanding the one essential food which they had no money to buy.

"Bread, we want Bread."

And foolish young Queen Marie Antoinette, understanding the despair of that cry about as little as the rest of her court circle did, from the depths of that ignorance, made her now famous reply:

"If they can't get Bread, why can't they eat cake?" She did not know that Bread was indispensable; the cheapest food that will give complete nourishment, and without which we cannot live.

The mob knew, as we do, that Bread is the one food that can never be replaced by any other; the one food that replaces all others.

The food just as essential as ever to happiness and welfare.
