Conserving Health

TORONTO, Ont., January 16.—Severe financial losses which may result from the failures of individual citizens to keep a close check on health by means of periodic medical examination, were stressed by Dr. Gordon Bates, national director of the Canadian Social Hygiene Council at the annual meeting of Canadian Life Insurance Officers here.

He dealt with the possibilities of conserving life and health and, incidentally, reducing mortality rates, outlining a specific plan by means of which, he felt, this could be accomplished.

"My own interest in the subject originated by me," he said, "when as a life insurance examiner, I saw the value of the medical examination—not only as a service to the company concerned but also as a means of impressing applicants, especially those rejected, with the necessity of looking after their own health. This action has, many a time, meant prolongation of life and hence a service to the individual and to the country.

"Re-examination of applicants for insurance some years after their first examination, impressed me with that frequently, in latent disease, appearing after a first examination has been made, develops into a serious condition which, later, may mean loss of life to the policy-holder and the unnecessarily early payment of the full amount of the policy by the company concerned.

"The other day, I saw two men waiting in a doctor's office, both of whom had just been refused insurance. One had locomotor ataxia and the other had heart disease. Yet, between them, they had insurance policies amounting to $125,000.00, taken out years before.

Dr. Bates went on to explain that a regular annual medical examination would have revealed these diseases at their commencement and given the two men a question, opportunity to take action while they were still in a preventable stage.

"The loss to the country because of unnecessary illness and death is astonishingly large," he said, "so large, indeed, that it seems to me to be amazing that our government has not taken cognizance of it earlier."

Investigations had been carried out in Ontario by a special investigator for the Canadian Social Hygiene Council who, with the assistance of statistical information from Dr. Louis Dublin of the Metropolitan Life, had come to the conclusion that at least 34 per cent of the deaths in the Province were preventable.

A concentrated campaign of education, by means of which the average citizen would have an opportunity to secure accurate health information was put forward by Dr. Bates as the most effective means of getting at the source of the trouble.

"In the absence of sound public opinion behind them, for instance," he said, "health departments are likely to be weak—generally with disastrous results."

He dealt in detail with the work, along educational lines which the Canadian Social Hygiene Council is doing and sketched the pro-

In Memoriam

MRS. JOSEPH RAYNER.

The death occurred at the Prince County Hospital, Summerside, on Dec. 27, 1927, of Jane Anne Rayner, beloved wife of the late Jos. Rayner, of Knutsford, P. E. Island. Mrs. Rayner, who was 78 years of age, was a daughter of the late John Miller, a well-known ship builder, and Anna Bell. She is survived by four sons, John, of Everett, Mass.; David, of Bangor, Me.; Robert, of Somerville, Mass.; and Addison, of O'Leary, P. E. Island; also by four daughters, Johannah, wife of George Woodside, of O'Leary, P.E.I.; Ella, wife of Thos. Harris, of Somerville, Mass.; Alice, wife of William Turner, O'Leary, P. E. I.; and Bessie, wife of Ira Hardy, Bloomfield, P.E.I.

Mrs. Rayner lived most of her married life in the vicinity of O'Leary, P. E. I., where she was known to be a faithful wife and a devoted mother. A woman who possessed such fine qualities of heart and mind that she was highly esteemed, greatly respected and much loved by all who knew her well. Death came to her as the divine messenger beckoning her to sleep and rest. In the twilight of life she welcomed the twilight and the dark, for just beyond she saw the glorious light of dawn. The funeral service, held in the United Church at O'Leary, P. E. Island, was conducted by the pastor, Rev. L. B. Profit. Interment was made in the Bloomfield cemetery. The sympathy of the entire community goes out to the family in their late bereavement.

An Old Recipe to Darken Hair

By JANICE RANDALL

Almost everyone knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur, properly compounded, brings back the natural color and lustre to the hair when faded, streaked or gray. Years ago the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home, which is messy and troublesome.

Nowadays we simply ask at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound." You will get a large bottle of this old-time recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients, for only 75 cents. Everybody uses this preparation now because no one can possibly tell that you darkened your hair, as it does it so naturally and evenly. You dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, thick and glossy and you look years younger.

MONTHLY MEETINGS OF THE WOMEN'S INSTITUTES

Roseberry.—A large number of members met at the home of Mrs. Finlay Pantons. Roll call was answered by "Helpful Hints." The program consisted of readings, recitations and gramophone music. This Institute is in favor of the proposed Institute paper published quarterly. The members have decided to make an autograph quilt to raise more funds. The secretary was advised to buy the cotton for that purpose.

Eglington and Howe Bay.—Fifteen members and twelve visitors met at the home of Mrs. W. H. McKie when roll call was responded to by New Year's Resolutions. A new school committee was appointed. A discussion took place regarding the school library. Several names of Islanders abroad were given the secretary to be sent to the Library Commission. The remainder of the evening was spent socially.
