DONALDSTON WOMEN'S INSTITUTE

The regular monthly meeting of the Donaldston Women's Institute was held on Tuesday evening, March 2nd, with an attendance of nine. Meeting opened with the "Institute Ode" and roll call was responded to with "An Irish Joke."

The minutes of the previous meeting were read and adopted. The various committees gave their reports and new committees were appointed as follows:—

Sick—Mrs. A. E. Best and Margaret Ellis.

School—Mrs. T. Ellis and Mrs. P. MacDougall.

Entertainment—Mrs. MacQuaid Mrs. MacMillan and Edith Court.

The study topic for the evening was 'Legislate' and a questionnaire on same was filled out. Plans were made to sell tickets on a "Fruit Cake" the lucky ticket to be drawn at next meeting. Each member offered to donate something toward the cake which Mrs. Best kindly offered to bake. It was decided to draw also for a box of candy.

After lunch had been served Mrs. MacNeill entertained in her usual splendid manner with many old-time violin selections.

Next meeting is to be held at the home of Mrs. Theodore Ellis on Tuesday, April 6th, with "Agriculture" as the main topic for the evening. Roll call will be answered by "Each paying five cents."

Meeting closed by singing the "National Anthem."

IN MEMORIAM

MRS. FRASER T. MORROW

On the 13th of March in the P.E.I. Hospital, after a prolonged period of illness, borne with wonderful Christian patience and fortitude there passed peacefully away Mrs. Fraser T. Morrow, in her 59th year.

Mrs. Morrow was the youngest daughter of the late Henry Hyde and Mrs. Hyde, Meadow Bank, Cornwall.

After their marriage in 1905, at which time Mr Morrow was the inspector of cheese and butter factories on the Island, they took up residence in the old homestead of the late James Farquharson and Mrs. Farquharson, Mermaid, uncle and aunt of Mrs. Morrow. It was here that Mrs. Morrow truly excelled in the art of homemaking, and being a very fine type of woman her neighbourly kindness and hospitality was ever in evidence as the many friends in Mermaid are glad to remember.

She took a deep interest in the work of the Methodist Church at Mt. Herbert, teaching in the Sunday School and strongly supporting the tasks of the church in word and deed.

It was during the time of the Great War, she was president of the Women's Institute at Mount Herbert, the meeting place being the McDonald Consolidated School at that time. Especially heavy were the tasks and responsibilities of such an office in these trying times but Mrs. Morrow was in every way equal to the occasion and showed with an intensity of zeal, her wonderful community spirit.

In 1919 Mr. and Mrs. Morrow sold their property in Mermaid and came to live in Charlottetown, where she had made many friends, who were deeply grieved at her passing.

She leaves to mourn besides her husband, her daughter, Mrs. George Johnson, her son Keith, who is at present attending Guelph Agricultural College, and a step-daughter, Mrs. Fred Clark of Providence, Rhode Island, also the following sisters and brothers, Mrs. Harriet Howard of Elkhart, Indiana, Mrs. Pope Crosby, Cornwall, Mrs. David White, York Point, Mrs. (Dr.) J. H. Ayers, Charlottetown, Mr. Fred Hyde and Mr. Harry Hyde of Cornwall, P. E. Island.

Bishops Claim Their Duties To Guard King

PRELATES OF DURHAM AND BATH WILL SUPPORT GEORGE VI AT CORONATION ACCORDING TO ANCIENT RULE.

(By Thomas T. Champion Canadian Press Staff Writer)

LONDON, April 2—(CP)—Among the prelates with special privileges at the Coronation on May 12 will be the Bishops of Durham, and the Bishop of Bath and Wells.

Their claim to "support his Majesty" was on the last coronation conceded without question. Support for their claims lay in the fact they are recognized in Liber Regalus, the great authority for all matters concerned with English Coronations, which was drawn up for the coronation of Richard II. This book is still preserved in Westminster Abbey.

For the coronation of James II the claims were justified by a specific note: "The Bishops of Durham and of Bath and Wells have from time to time entered ye claim before ye Commissioners of Claims setting forth that their predecessors in these Sees from time immemorial were wont allwaise to support ye King of England (ye first on his right hand and ye second on his left) in ye solemn procession and during ye whole service in ye church on ye day of ye Coronation."

The Bishop of Durham holds fifth place in the Anglican hierarchy, the two Archbishops and the Bishops of London and Winchester only being senior to him. These sees are known as primary sees, the holders always being members of the House of Lords, whereas other bishops became members according to the seniority of their consecration.

The present Bishop of Durham, Rt. Rev. Hensley Henson, who was appointed in 1920 after several years as Bishop of Hereford, is a forceful figure in Anglicanism. He advocates disestablishment, but is against the admission of women to the ministry. Dr. Henson is 73.

The Bishop of Bath and Wells, Rt. Rev. J. B. Wynne Willson, has just announced he will resign in Novemeber on account of ill-health. He is 68, and not prominent in church affairs at large. Wells is one of the most beautiful of English rural cities and the catherdral has many gracious features. The Bishop's Palace is surrounded by a moat, and is perhaps the finest residence of its kind remaining in this country.

The Bishop belongs to the line of "schoolmaster bishops," for he was Master of Haileybury for six years and of Marlborough for five.

Veteran Fighter Jewels' Keeper Is 77 Years Old

CORONATION RELICS ONCE IN CARE OF ABBOTS WILL ISSUE FROM TOWER FOR THE DOUBLE CROWNING MAY 12

(By Thomas T. Champion Canadian Press Staff Writer)

LONDON, April 1 (CP)—Among the historic officers of state to the Coronation of GeorgeVI and Queen Elizabeth on May 12 brings new duties and responsibilities is the Keeper of the Jewel House in The Tower of London, now Major-General Sir George Younghusband.

General Younghusband, who has held this post for the last 20 years, first saw fighting in the Afghan War of 1878, and took part in nearly all of Great Britain's 'little wars" which followed one another pretty rapidly in the 80s. He was severely wounded in South Africa and in the Great War was mentioned in despatches more than once. He now is 77 years of age.

In olden days the Crown Jewels were entrusted to the care of the Abbot and monks of Westminister, but it is now nearly seven centuries since they were sent for safe-keeping to the Tower of London. The Jewel House there is visited yearly by tens of thousands of people from all over the world. It lies in what is known as the Wakefield Tower, and its priceless contents are enclosed in a heavily-barred circular iron cage, which enables the beholder to walk around the exhibit and inspects it from all angles.

Many of the emblems have not been removed from the Tower since George V's coronation in 1911.

In addition to the actual regalia, the Jewel House contains many other valuable relics. There is an altar dish and flagon, for instance, presented to the Tower by William and Mary of Orange on condition they were used three times yearly in the chapel of St. Peter ad Vincula within the Tower. In this way these articles would replace temporarily the altar-plate used in the time of Charles II.

At the time the proviso was probably a mild political gesture to show the Stuarts were no more, but though there is now naturally no political significance in the observance the custom is still followed, and the William and Mary plate replaces the much older Stuart Plate on three church festivals.

Near to these articles in the Tower are the maces carried by the Sergeant-at-Arms in different reigns. There are eight of them, their weight ranging from 34 to 50 pounds. Besides being used at the coronation, the maces are carried on such special occasions as when peace was declared in 1918, when the Heralds proclaimed the glad tidings at various points in London. Another interesting exhibit in General Younghusband's care is a wine fountain presented to Charles II by the city of Plymouth.

Educate For Happiness Rather Than For Career In Or Outside The Home

"Instead of thinking of her daughter as some one she wants to see married some day, a mother should consider the things that will contribute to her happiness whether she marries or not," Mrs. W. A. Kirkwood, Principal of St. Hilda's College and Associate Professor in the Department of English stated addressing Glen Mawr Old Girls' Association yesterday at the Granite Club. Mrs. Kirkwood's topic was "What Should Be in the Minds of People Planning Education of Women Today."

"That woman's only real interests are bound up in her feelings; that her happiness depends solely upon personal relations is a false view. The little girl who wants to play house all the time is not only satisfying her emotional aptitudes, but also the practical," Mrs. Kirkwood explained.

In the world we know today, there are many women who will not marry. I think it is quite wrong to think of women being maimed in any way if they do not marry. Even if she is the type who seems perfectly fitted for a home there are many fields in which she can be a happy, satisfied person. As instances of professions in which such a woman would find happy medium of expression, the speaker mentioned kindergarten, welfare work, pediatrics and household science. While recommending that every woman be so educated that she could find her niche outside of marriage, Mrs. Kirkwood emphasized importance of a sound training in running a home and cultivating the highest type of family life for every girl. The best way to approach the education of the young women of today is to think of the objective before admitting for her the necessity of human relationships, the speaker contended, stating that too many women depend on a husband and children for their own happiness and in later life are wretched and lost if cut off from these ties.

The basic question in deciding the education of either a boy or girl should be, "How do you make a human being happy?" the speaker claimed answering her question with "People who are happiest are those absorbed and fascinated with the work they are pursuing. Activities that have to do with the home are only wholesome and satisfactory when women are objective in their interests as well as subjective. There are many occupations that appeal to women in the field formerly held exclusively by men, Mrs. Kirkwood related telling of feminine successes in the fields of architecture, motor salesmanship and real estate.

Opening up of the world of truth and beauty is the purpose, she affirmed. No one can overvalue real cultivation of the mind and soul in the world of today. We are a society of neurotics, and we cannot set up a better defense against neuroticism than by teaching young people that within their own souls and the world about them, there are sources of deep joy. The man or woman who is able to forget the pressing necessities of life and look on life in a large way is enjoying a great cultural experience, the speaker concluded.

Mrs. Wilbur Best introduced Mrs. Kirkwood, and votes of thanks were voiced by Mrs. J. C. Maynard and Mrs. E. A. Baker. At the business meeting, Mrs. W. D. Ross was announced the newest of the thirty-six life members in the association. Layettes from the supply on hand were voted to Labrador Mission Nominations were made for the election to be held at the next meeting on April 13.

Candid Despatch Gives New Light on April Fooler

By CHARLES NORMAN
Associated Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK April 2—(AP) — My researches show the general idea of April Fool is to catch somebody off guard and then laugh at his discomfiture. I must confess that I am likely to laugh as loudly as the next one. Sometimes I even become hysterical, but only at my own jokes.

To catch somebody off guard on April Fool's Day, according to the best authorities, it is necessary to keep cool and put a good face on the matter. A poker face obviously carries an advantage, while persons afflicted with giggles stand practically no chance. Self-panickers are advised to stay in bed until April 2.

Then there is the matter of timing. Some experts hold the best time to discomfit your friends on April 1 is in the hours immediately before and after breakfast, before most people have thought of the date. But people being what they are, it has been demonstrated that they can be fooled right up to midnight, if you can stay awake that long. This may have given rise to the saying. "He who laughs last laughs best." Some persons will do anything for a laugh.

April Fool jokes fall into well-defined categories. Up to the age of 16 you may pin a "Kick me hard" sign or a man's coat. How my boyhood comes back to me as I write. You also can place a wallet on the sidewalk with a string attached. When a passerby makes a swoop for it you pull the string. Some people have been known to fracture their wrists by bearing down too hard and eagerly. This is very funny.

Experts suggest a black string, it being harder to spot. Another favorite is "planting" a hat with a brick inside for passersby to kick. The resultant swelling of the big toe, has been known to last a week. Some fun, eh?

For adults, less elemental forms of assault, battery and shock are suggested. "Have a cigar, old man," is a good one. You pass the cigar in your politest manner, the victim places it in his mouth, you graciously light it for him and step back. It explodes. Get it? Or you suddenly can become very friendly with everyone and shake hands right and left. Concealed in your pocket is a battery and your handshake gives the victim a shock. When your "friend" is revived you cry "April Fool!" if you are there at the time.

That Aquarium Gag

Then there are the telephone calls which clog the wires on April 1. If you work in an office, you leave a memo for a colleague saying he has had a telephone call and is to call back. Upon getting the number he is to ask for a "Mr. Trout." Everybody in the office watches intently as the victim is told he has the aquarium.

Just when the first April Fool's Day was launched is not known to historians, but most are agreed it was a long time ago. Robert Louis Stevenson writes: "From time immemorial, the first day of April has been set apart as a time when it is permissible to play harmless tricks upon one's friends and neighbors." No one can quarrel with this statement, except for the words "permissible" and "harmless." Practical jokers have been known to half-kill a man before being satisfied.

In some countries so deeply-rooted is the fear of what may happen on April Fool's Day that sober-mided citizens will not marry or attempt to start a new business venture or a war on that date. Among the Scots, the day is called "hunting the gowk," the gowk being a cuckoo. In France, victims of the few, if it can be called such, are known as "poisons d'Avril," or "poor fish."

EAST ROYALTY W. I.

The March meeting of East Royalty Women's Institute met at the home of Mrs. E. Shaw. The president presided and the meeting opened in the regular way. Roll call was answered by ten members, also one visitor present. Sick committee reported one of the members confined to the house by illness. No report from school committee. New committees appointed.

It was moved and seconded and carried that our Institute give whole hearted support in favor of the permanent paving of St. Peter's Road. Roll call for next meeting to be answered by maxims or proverbs. The following program was enjoyed by all: reading by Mrs. Darrach, also demonstration on making wool cushion by Mrs. Shaw. Next place of meeting undecided.

Meeting closed by God Save the King.
