Humor of the Hour.

"Look here, waiter! Hurry up my dinner. I've been sitting here like a bump on a log for fully ten minutes." "Oh, come, now," replied the waiter, "that ain't a log, it's a chair, you're sitting on."—Philadelphia Press.

Green—Brown told an acquaintance of mine that he could have beat my time and married you himself if he had wanted to.

Mrs. Green—The idea! I wonder why he didn't do it, then?

Green—Oh, I can readily understand why he didn't. He had a grudge against me.—Chicago News.

"Ah!" said Biggs, as a prosperous-looking man who had cordially saluted Biggs passed on. "He seemed sincerely glad to find you alive and well." "Yes," replied Biggs. "He probably was—he's the President of the company my life's insured in."—Brooklyn Life.

Oh, may I write a verse to you, The ardent lover cried— No need; I am averse to you, The maiden proud replied. —St. Paul Dispatch.

"Sary Ann," sighed the Higgins boy in tremulous tones, "if I git a red ear at the huskin' bee to-night I'm a-goin' to do something!" "Are ye?" asks Sary Ann. "What are ye a-goin' to do?" "If I git a red ear I'm a-goin' to take a kiss from ye." "If you take a kiss from me," asserts Sary Ann, giving her head a saucy toss, "you kin be sure that you'll git two red ears right away."—Judge.

Witless—I see the Government is establishing free barber shops out West for the Indians. Wagg—Well, it is due them. They gave the early settlers many a close shave.—Baltimore American.

Can a sawbuck?—St. Joseph News. Sure. Can a chimney-swallow?—Chicago Tribune. Of course. Can a penny-whistle?—Rochester Democrat and Chronicle. Certainly. Can a board-walk?—Buffalo Commercial. Undoubtedly. Can a hoodwink?

"Now, then, children," said the teacher, who had been commenting upon polar expeditions, "who can tell me what fierce animals inhabit the regions of the north pole?" "Polecats," shouted the boy at the foot of the class.—Philadelphia Press.

Lord Battersen told this delightful story of Birmingham hero-worship at the Liverpool Junior Reform Club the other day: Teacher—My child, who made the world? Child—Joseph Chamberlain. Teacher—No, no, my child; the world was made by a greater than Mr. Chamberlain. Child—Then, sir, it is plain you are a pro-Boer.—London Daily Express.

"What has he done, policeman?" "He wouldn't move on when I told him, so I arrested him." "But the poor fellow has lost his hearing." "Well, mum, he'll get it before the Magistrate, so you don't need to worry."—The Moon.

Here are some tid-bits of unintentional humor from the advertising columns of the daily press: Wanted—Experienced nurse for bottled baby. Wanted—An organist, and a boy to blow the same. Lost—A valuable cane by a gentleman with a gold head, little used. Wanted—A boy to be partly outside and partly behind the counter. Annual sale now going on. Don't go elsewhere to be cheated—come in here. Lost—Near High Gate archway, an umbrella belonging to a gentleman with a bent rib.

"What in earth are you doing in here, Tommy?" asked his mother, peering into the darkness of the henhouse, whence had been coming for five minutes or more a series of dismal squawking, accompanied by a loud flapping of wings. "I am trying," said Tommy, who seemed to be doing something with a knotted rope, "to fix this rooster so his alarm won't go off before 7 o'clock to-morrow morning."—Chicago Tribune.

Bashful lover—I leave here to-morrow. How long shall you remain Miss Ethel? Up-to-date girl—Remain Miss Ethel? I leave that to you.—Town and Country.

"What," asked the visitor from the city, "are those strange yellow things that lie on the ground in yonder field?" "Them?" asked Mr. Meddewgrass. "Why, them's pumpkins." "Pumpkins? How interesting! I never saw one before." "Well, I do declare! Say, mister, what business are you in, anyhow, that you never got a chance to git out an' see things?" "I run a pumpkin pie factory."—Baltimore American.

Lady (to cook, who is leaving to get married)—And what is your future husband's name, Maria? Maria (stolidly)—Urn. Lady—What an odd name! May I ask you how to spell it? Maria—Haitch hee hay hen hee.—London King.

Speaking recently of queer college fads, Prof. Henry A. Beers of Yale said that in his undergraduate days mourning hat bands became so popular as to grow from a mark of bereavement almost to a feature of natty dress. "One day he went into a store with a friend, who, after buying a hat, said he would like to look at some mourning bands. "These widest bands," explained the storekeeper, displaying his assortment, "are worn for immediate members of the family. From that they narrow down according to the relationship. Which width do you need, sir?" he asked.

The student made a moment's inspection. "Oh, give me about an uncle," he replied.—New York Times.

THE CANADIAN STEEL AND COAL COMPANY Limited, was organized to mine and manufacture iron and coal, coke and steel in Canada, at Atlantic tide water. The raw materials for these manufacturers are:— 1. COAL. 2. IRON. 3. LIMESTONE. All these materials we have at hand.

2-Iron. The Company has acquired by purchase, immense iron deposits on the North Shore of the Gulf of St. Lawrence, about 350 miles from Sydney. The deposits are estimated to contain 20,000,000 tons of ore above sea level with probably as much more below that line. The iron can be handled for $1.00 per ton or less. Quantities of this ore have been shipped to Great Britain and United States where it has given great satisfaction, and we can sell large quantities f. o. b. at the properties, netting us a profit of $2.00 per ton. This ore makes the finest steel.

When in full operation the output is expected to be about as follows: 1. IRON.—200,000 tons iron ore shipped direct from property, showing net profit of $2.00 per ton, total $400,000 00 200,000 tons fine iron ore shipped in briquettes, showing net profit of $4.00 per ton. $800,000 00 100,000 tons steel blooms showing net profit of $3.00 per ton. total $300,000 00 2. Equivalent to yearly dividends of 30 per cent., or 15 per cent. half-yearly on total capitalization. If the capitalization was increased to this estimate would still show a dividend-earning capacity of 10 per cent. per annum. The capitalization of the Dominion Coal Co., is earning fully 12 per cent., and is paying 8 per cent. guaranteed dividends on this enormous sum. The capitalization of the Dominion Iron and Steel Company is on which it is believed 6 per cent dividends will be earned. The capitalization of the Canadian Steel and Coal Company is only $6,000,000.00. Within the last few months Dominion Coal shares common rose in market value from $4.00 to $14.44 per share, and Dominion Iron and Steel Company's shares common rose over $30 per share in market value. With such low capitalization The Canadian Steel and Coal Co's shares would show tremendous profits; and it is confidently believed they will.
